G. O. P. SENATE GROUP ATTACKS GOLD MEASURE

Points to Dangers of Money Bill.

BY JOHN HERRICK.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 25.—[Special.]—Marshaling all the argument and oratory at their command, the conservative Republican forces of the senate today launched a bitter attack upon the President's money bill.

In a five hour session one Republican senator after another listed the evils and dangers of the measure. It was characterized as more insidious than the 16 to 1 scheme of Silverite William Jennings Bryan. It was termed unconstitutional on at least two counts. Its provisions making currency of the future irredeemable were described as destructive of the gold base of the country's monetary system and of the confidence of the people in their money.

Gold Seizure Denounced.

Its seizure of all monetary gold in the United States and its creation of a two billion dollar stabilization fund were denounced as a plan to erect a politically controlled central banking system. Its proposal to use the stabilization fund to deal in foreign exchange was called putting the government into speculation. Its anticipated effect in raising commodity prices was pointed to as a boon to the debtor, perhaps, but as a threat of destruction to the thrifty and the many persons with fixed incomes.

In the face of the storm the Democrats sat complacent and confident in the knowledge that they had the President's command behind them and enough votes to put the bill through, no matter what the Republicans might say. Seldom did Democratic spokesmen even bother to reply. The senate is to meet earlier than usual tomorrow, in the hope that the measure may be passed tomorrow night.

Hastings Opens Attack.

Senator Daniel O. Hastings of Delaware opened the Republican attack.

"This is not an emergency measure," he declared. "This legislation is not only permanent in character but revolutionary in purpose. It is much more dangerous than the proposal of Mr. Bryan in 1896, and it is proposed by an administration that won its election upon a platform that declared, 'We advocate a sound currency to be preserved at all hazards.'"

"In my judgment," Senator Hastings went on, "it violates two important provisions of the constitution, in that congress undertakes to delegate to the President its own duty with respect to money, and, secondly, it undertakes to legalize robbery by taking property of our citizens without due process of law and without just compensation. In addition to that, it destroys the gold base for our circulating currency, builds up a huge central political banking system within the government, and gives to one man the complete control of the enormous sum of 2 billion dollars to be known as a 'stabilization fund,' a fund clearly intended for use in speculation in foreign exchange."

Sees Federal Reserve Abolition.

The bill, he said, crippled the federal reserve system, and he foresaw in the near future entire abolition of the federal reserve. Through investment in the preferred stock of American banks by the RFC, the government was on the way to obtain perhaps permanent control over the nation's independent banking system, he declared.

Adding to this control the 2 billion dollar stabilization fund to be spent by the secretary of the treasury and the Roosevelt program, said the senator, "definitely places in Washington and under governmental and political control the greatest bank centralization the world has ever known."

While devaluation of the dollar might help the debtor class, Senator Hastings continued, it would penalize the thrifty. Mounting prices would hit hard the great class with fixed salaries.

"As I see it the social results of this bill are hideous," Senator Hastings declared. "It is a moral degradation of repudiation of a covenant by the government with its people. We shall later see the cruel effect of stimulated and sustained speculation by wiser citizens, whose plunder comes from the ignorant and the poor. Self-denial and thrift are penalized. The economic effect is just the opposite of what is intended.

"It concentrates wealth instead of diffusing it. It will ultimately impoverish the whole people. As wages and

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 25.—[Special.]—An income tax revision which will throw its heaviest increases on small and medium sized incomes was agreed upon today by the house ways and means committee over protests by the treasury department that the plan is not feasible.

Adoption of the plan came as a last minute shift which threw out entirely a program proposed by the treasury and which, it was reported as late as last night, would be agreed to by the committee. The new proposal decided upon today will be started through congress next Wednesday, when it will be laid before the house.

Aimed to Increase Revenue.

The changes in the tax rates are designed to bring in $36,000,000 more a year on individual taxes and through other revisions, including a boost on consolidated corporation returns, there will be a total estimated raise of 200 millions in taxes.

The plan adopted calls for a flat 4 per cent normal tax on all net incomes and a series of surtaxes beginning with 4 per cent tax on incomes of $4,000 and graduated up to 59 per cent on incomes over a million dollars.

At present the normal tax is 4 per cent on net incomes up to $4,000 and 8 per cent on all above $4,000, but the surtaxes begin with 1 per cent on incomes of $6,000.

Morgenthau Called.

The net result of proposed revisions will be to lower the normal income tax rate on larger incomes and to subject a new class of small incomes to surtaxes for the first time in history.

Previously the treasury department has bitterly criticized this plan as unsound taxation, but Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau today indicated that the treasury will not fight back for the sake of its own plan. Secretary Morgenthau was called before the ways and means committee early this morning apparently to be informed of the committee's eleventh hour decision to discard his program.

In its fight against the plan which was adopted today the treasury had laid before the committee statistics showing that the new tax burden which is proposed will fall most heavily on medium sized and small incomes and least heavily on large incomes.

Smaller Incomes Hit Hardest.

The committee plan, according to the treasury, will bring an increase of between 12 and 17 per cent of the income taxes paid by persons having net incomes between $7,000 and $12,000 a year. Persons with net incomes between $12,000 and $25,000 will have their taxes increased between 19 and 23 per cent, according to the treasury, while millionaires with incomes over $400,000 a year will suffer an increase of only 7 per cent or less.

In addition to adopting the tax rates opposed by the treasury the ways and means committee also suggested that taxpayers be allowed to apply their personal and family deductions against surtaxes as well as

TRAYLOR STILL IMPROVING, HIS DOCTORS REPORT

At 2:30 o'clock Dr. William R. Cubbins, spokesman for the group of doctors attending the banker, said Mr. Traylor's getting regular sleep was one of the most favorable recent developments.

Mr. Traylor's pulse was 118, his respiration 23, and his temperature 102, the doctor said.

"Of course, Mr. Traylor's progress will be slow," said Dr. Cubbins, "but he is holding his own and we are satisfied."

In attendance besides Dr. Cubbins are Drs. N. Clarke Gilbert, Robert B. Preble and Carl Johnson. Dr. Johnson has been remaining on duty nights. Mr. Traylor is still kept in an oxygen tent, in which he was placed on Monday.

FAMILY ROUTED WHEN FLAMES DAMAGE HOME

Attorney James McKeag, his wife, Lydia, and her mother, Mrs. Emma Deufel, 72 years old, were driven from their second floor home at 5750 Midway Park early this morning when an overheated furnace set fire to the building.

Flames shot up through the flue, skipped the first floor, which is vacant, and set fire to the McKeag home. Mrs. McKeag discovered the blaze, aroused her husband and her mother, and all managed to escape in time.

The fire did considerable damage to the second floor and roof, and threatened for a while to spread. As a result a 3-11 alarm was sounded, bringing additional fire fighting equipment in charge of Marshal Michael J. Corrigan. The fire was soon brought under control. Marshal Corrigan estimated the damage at $10,000.

ROBBER, 18, GIVES POLICE LESSON IN BIRTHDAYS

William Bonney, 18 years old, armed with a revolver and a determination to do a little robbing, observed two prospective victims last night in Philip Gierman, 10537 Hale avenue, and Philip Ewing, 10517 Hale avenue.

The two were sitting in Gierman's new car in front of the Gierman home. Bonney pointed his revolver at them and ordered Gierman, who was sitting at the wheel, to drive to 123d street and Kedzie avenue.

Instead, Gierman drove to 1925 Monterey avenue, which is the Morgan Park police station. In front of the place Gierman and Ewing overpowered Bonney, then delivered him, gun and all, to the desk sergeant.

"I must be a fool to get tricked like that," complained Bonney.

Police agreed, but weren't surprised when they inquired a bit into Bonney's history. He was born on April 1.

R. H. Donnelley Estate Loses Its Tax Appeal

The belief of Reuben H. Donnelley, late head of the Reuben H. Donnelley corporation, publisher of telephone directories and other publications, that honesty is the best policy yesterday cost the heirs to his estate a total of $63,439.34. The United States Circuit Court of Appeals, after failing to find a legal loophole in the income tax law that might have allowed tax deductions in question, ruled that the estate owes the government that sum for unpaid taxes in 1927. The opinion was written by Judge Evan A. Evans and was concurred in by Judges Will M. Sparks and Louis Fitz-Henry.

This $63,439.34 figure represents the tax on $273,544.35 deducted in the income return filed by Mr. Donnelley in 1927. The $273,544.35 was paid by Mr. Donnelley to settle debts legally wiped off the books by bankruptcy proceedings in 1905.

Heirs Push Suit.

The case was taken into the Appeals court by two children and the brother of Mr. Donnelley on an appeal from the board of tax appeals. Principals in the suit are Thomas E. Donnelley, the brother, and R. H. Donnelley's son and daughter, Thorne Donnelley and Mrs. Eleanor D. Erdman.

The case had its inception in 1905 when Mr. Donnelley, who died in 1929 at the age of 64, was in partnership with David Knight in the brokerage business. The company ran afoul of hard times and an involuntary bankruptcy petition was filed in the District court. The case was dismissed when members of the Donnelley family bought up the claims and paid off the creditors on a ratio of 26 cents to 100 cents on the dollar.

The matter was forgotten until 1927, when Mr. Donnelley, again becoming affluent, assumed full moral obligation and decided to pay off in full the 22 year old debt. He sought out the creditors and paid them a total of $273,544.35, of which $131,856.53 was interest on the old debts.

Judgment Upheld.

After making his last payment on the debt Mr. Donnelley deducted the $273,544 in filing his income tax return for 1927. The internal revenue department held that the money was not deductible and filed a deficiency judgment against the estate after the death of Mr. Donnelley. The judgment was upheld by the board of tax appeals and the case taken to the Court of Appeals by the heirs.

The opinion of Judge Evans held that as the debt was legally settled in 1905 the money paid out by Mr. Donnelley was in the nature of a gratuitous payment. The decision said that the money was undoubtedly a gift, "although the legitimate object of commendation."

BURGLAR ALARM JUST COOK'S TOUR FOR 7 POLICEMEN

"Burglars are working in my house," said he. "I am in the hallway. Please hurry and catch them for me."

Seven policemen leaped into action. They seized various weapons—riot guns, night sticks, pistols, tear bombs, and one took an ax. They hurried to the Cook residence and found the householder nervously pacing on his front porch.

"They have got me locked out," he moaned. "The latch is fastened inside."

The policeman with the ax was getting ready to swing at the panels of the door when Mr. Cook clapped his hand to his brow.

"My goodness," he cried, "I forgot that I went out the back door this morning and set the front door lock on the inside myself. I guess there ain't any burglars."

"Good-by," said the policemen, gathering their armament and marching downstairs to the street.

W. C. T. U. REFUSES TO LET SPEAKER LAUD ROOSEVELT

New York, Jan. 25.—[Special.]—A guest speaker at the monthly meeting of the Kings County Women's Christian Temperance union omitted complimentary references to President Roosevelt and his administration today at the request of the organization's president, Mrs. Irene Scovill, who said that "the W. C. T. U. is not in sympathy with him or it."

The guest speaker was Mrs. Estelle M. Sternberger, executive director of a pacifist group known as World Peace Ways. Acting in accordance with Mrs. Scovill's request, Mrs. Sternberger deleted her prepared remarks about the abolition of child labor and the "freeing" of men and women "for the leisure of education."

Strong criticism by the Rev. Robert McCaul of President Roosevelt's part in the repeal of the eighteenth amendment evoked loud applause from the 50 or more members present. He said he could not pray for the President and the people could hope for no blessings on the nation until the President is "converted."

House Restaurant Serves De Priest and Secretary

Washington, D. C., Jan. 25.—(AP)—Morris Lewis, secretary to Representative De Priest [Rep., Ill.], ate lunch in the public dining room at the capitol today, but De Priest, the only Negro in congress, was with him. They took a table along the wall near the center of the crowded room. Lewis and a companion were refused service a couple of days ago upon orders from Chairman Warren [Dem., N. C.] of the accounts committee. De Priest took the matter to the house floor.

Factor Names His Kidnapers at Trial Today

BY WILLARD EDWARDS.

John Factor, wealthy stock speculator, will take the witness stand today and testify against the four Touhy gangsters who are on trial in Judge Michael Feinberg's court accused of kidnaping him for a $70,000 ransom.

This was announced last night by Assistant State's Attorney Wilbert F. Crowley at the conclusion of the tenth day of the trial. Factor will be the state's last witness and his testimony will take up most of the day. He has a lengthy story to tell.

State's Star Witness.

Upon Factor's testimony rest the main hopes of the state to send Roger Touhy and his three aids, Edward McFadden, Albert Kator and Gustav Schaefer, to the electric chair, it was admitted. His story has never been fully told, but he has declared that he will identify the defendants as his kidnapers.

Thus far, none of the men on trial has been identified by witnesses, although their confederate, Willie Sharkey, who killed himself, has been named by three witnesses as one of the Factor kidnapers.

Factor Under Heavy Guard.

Factor has been under heavy guard since the Touhys were captured. He has received threats that his family will be harmed if he testifies against the gangsters. Despite these threats he has persisted in his determination to name in court the men who kidnaped him.

After his story has been told he faces a bitter cross-examination by Attorney Stewart, whose defense to the charge is that the kidnaping case is a frameup by the syndicate founded by Al Capone in order that the syndicate might take over the Touhy territory in the northwest part of Cook county and install gambling houses and disorderly resorts.

"I'll want an explanation from him as to why he enlisted the aid of Sam Hunt and Murray Humphries, notorious gangsters and [illegible] of the syndicate, when his son, Jerome, was kidnaped," Stewart declared.

Double Court Guard.

Twoscore police have been guarding the courtroom since the trial started and that number will be doubled today when Factor appears. The state has been informed that the Touhy gang will stop at no measures to keep Factor from testifying and every precaution is to be taken to prevent any untoward happenings.

Every person entering the courtroom will be searched. Even nail files and needles will be taken from women on the theory that they might start a commotion in the midst of which Factor might be harmed or the defendants escape.

Factor's Wife Testifies.

Yesterday's sessions of the trial were featured by the appearance of Mrs. Rella Factor, the good looking young wife of the kidnaping victim, as a witness. A parade of Elkhorn, Wis., police and citizens told of the somewhat remarkable manner in which Touhy and his principal henchmen were rounded up in Wisconsin July 19, seven days after the $70,000 ransom had been paid and Factor released.

The manner in which one of the kidnapers played upon Mrs. Factor's emotions during the negotiations for ransom was revealed in her testimony. She told of a telephone conversation in which she was informed that her husband had not been fed for several days and was "very weak."

"I guess you don't want him back very bad," commented this caller, "or you'd raise the money faster."

Nears a Breakdown.

Mrs. Factor came near hysteria at this point of her testimony, but rallied to continue her story of raising the $70,000 which was paid to the kidnapers.

The capture of Roger Touhy and

GANG CHIEFTAIN IS TRAPPED BY ARIZONA POLICE

Tucson, Ariz., Jan. 25.—[Special.]—John Dillinger, desperate Indiana outlaw who for months has evaded the police forces of the Chicago area and the militia of his home state while he went swiftly from bank robbery to bank robbery and murder, was captured here tonight by the Tucson police. Taken with him were three members of his mob.

The police also arrested three women companions of the criminals and took possession of more than $30,000 the men brought here with them. Still other sacks of money found in the expensive homes the gangsters were occupying were waiting to be counted and it was believed their combined hoard would exceed $50,000.

Dillinger Seized Last.

Dillinger, the bold leader, was the last of the four to be arrested. Apparently not knowing that the others had been caught, he drove up tonight to the residence he rented only three days ago. With him in his car was a handsomely dressed blonde about 25 years old, who later identified herself as Anne Martin, his sweetheart.

Stepping from the car, with a baby machine gun only partly hidden under his coat, Dillinger walked up to the porch of the house. As he inserted his key in the lock of his front door fifteen Arizona policemen and deputy sheriffs stepped from the shrubbery in which they had been concealed.

"Drop that gun or you are a dead man," shouted Chief of Police C. A. Wollard.

Submits to Handcuffs.

Dillinger whirled about, but before he could pull the trigger of his deadly machine gun—said to be the one with which he shot Policeman William P. O'Malley to death as he fled after the $20,000 robbery of the First National bank of East Chicago, Ind., on Jan. 15—the police were upon him. Obediently he dropped the wicked looking gun and submitted to being handcuffed.

Less than a minute later the attractive Miss Martin, screaming, had been taken into custody. Dillinger, venting a stream of oaths and shaking with rage and fear, was led to police headquarters, where he was identified through fingerprints. His bravado deserted him.

Fears He's Laughingstock.

"My God," he cried. "How did you know I was in town? I'll be the laughingstock of the country. How could a hick town police force ever suspect me?"

He was placed in solitary confinement, as were the others captured, Charles Makley, Harry Pierpont, and Russell Clark. Before the jail at midnight were fifteen alert guards, prepared to battle any attempt that might be made by other members of the gang to release the captured desperadoes.

Chief Wollard recalled that Dillinger had been taken by his companions from the jail at Lima, O., where he was held as a robber, by the other members of his mob and that Sheriff Jess Sarber had been murdered in resisting them.

Watch for Two More.

A sharp watch was also being kept on places where, it was believed, at least two more Dillinger gangsters had been hiding.

The crew of desperadoes arrived in Tucson only three days ago. They rented two homes. It was in one of these that Clark and a woman who called herself Opal Long were captured.

Patrolman Chet Sherman and three other officers went to the Clark house late today. Sherman approached the front door, a paper in his hand, pretending to search for an address. He was followed by Dallas Ford, Frank Eyman, and Kenneth Mullaney, all in plain clothes.

Clark Battles Patrolman.

As Sherman arrived at the door Clark leaped from a sofa and rushed to the door, followed by the Long woman. Sherman drew his revolver and Clark grasped the barrel. They wrestled through the living room and into a bedroom, the burly Clark pushing the smaller Sherman before him.

In a quick move the woman shunted Ford aside and slammed the door on his hand, breaking his finger, leaving Clark and Sherman alone in their battle, while Eyman and Mullaney battered on the rear door. While Sherman still gripped his gun Clark forced the officer down over a bed and drew a revolver of his own from under a pillow. As he raised the gun Eyman and Mullaney forced the door and rushed into the room and subdued Clark with blows on his head which drew blood.

In the Clark house the police then found four machine guns, four bullet proof vests, thousands of rounds of ammunition, and several sacks stuffed with bills of $5 to $100 denomination.

Makley was captured in a downtown street before he had a chance to fire on his captors. Pierpont and the third woman, his sweetheart, Mary Kinder, were seized as they were driving up to a tourist resort on the edge of the city.

Pierpont walked quietly into the office of Chief of Police Wollard and then drew a revolver from a waist holster. Patrolman Eyman thrust his gun into Pierpont's ribs and the bandit gave up his gun, but instantly produced another from a shoulder holster. Eyman again disarmed him. His spectacles fell from his nose and a department of justice agent identified him.

Pierpont sneered at the small town police as he exclaimed, "I'll remember you," staring intently at each officer. "I can get out of any jail. I'll be back, and I won't forget."

Information by Chance.

Chief Wollard explained briefly how he got the information on which the arrests were made. It was, he admitted, purely a matter of chance.

Makley and Clark were guests in a hotel which burned on Tuesday. Firemen who carried out their trunks, which also were stuffed with money, recognized them, when the property was reclaimed, as desperate criminals, whose pictures had been printed in a detective story magazine. The police were notified and the chief made plans for the capture of all.

When Dillinger was captured his identity was not at once apparent. The police began to suspect, however, that he was the leader when $9,000 was discovered in his pockets. The full identification had to wait on the finger prints.

It was the opinion of Chief Wollard that the gang intended to remain here awhile and plot against the banks of the southwest. Their record in the past indicated that none of the crowd would hesitate merely because they had ample funds on hand. Dillinger is known to have had for a long time an ambition to accumulate $100,000 for himself and go to South America.

HISTORY OF GANG

A brief chronological history of the Dillinger gang, four of whom were captured yesterday in Tucson, Ariz., follows:

1924—John Dillinger, a country boy, sentenced to six years in the Indiana prison for robbing a grocery at Grovetown. In prison he met most of the criminals who later joined him.

1930—Released and resumed career of crime.

Sept. 25, 1933—Dillinger, as outside man, engineered plot through which Harry Pierpont, Russell Clark, John Hamilton, and Charles Makley, with six others, escaped from Michigan City, Ind., prison.

Oct. 12—Hamilton, Makley, and Pierpont returned the compliment by raiding jail at Lima, O., to release Dillinger, who had a few days before been arrested and confined there as a bank robber. Sheriff Jess Sarber shot and killed by gang when he resisted.

Nov. 16—Dillinger shot his way out of a trap which Chicago policemen laid for him as he visited a doctor's office at Irving Park boulevard and Keeler avenue.

Nov. 20—Gang raided the American Bank and Trust company, Racine, Wis., and escaped with more than $10,000. Leslie Homer, one of the members, later was arrested, confessed participation, and was sentenced to 28 years in Waupun.

Dec. 13—Hamilton, Makley, and Dillinger took possession of the Unity Trust and Savings bank safe deposit vaults, 2909 West North avenue, and looted them of $8,700 and a large amount of jewelry.

Dec. 14—Hamilton shot and killed Policeman William Shanley in Chicago.

Dec. 31—Chicago police given orders to shoot gang members on sight. The same night the gang, headed by Dillinger, staged a holdup of the Beverly Gardens, 9140 South Western avenue, and wounded two county highway policemen while escaping.

Jan. 15—Dillinger, Hamilton, and one other of the mob held up the First National bank of East Chicago, escaping with more than $20,000 after killing Policeman William P. O'Malley.

Three states—Ohio, Indiana, and Illinois—want the gang.

The Dillinger gang is also suspected of having been involved in many other bank robberies. The banks, with the amounts taken, follow: Central National, Greencastle, Ind., $74,000; Massachusetts Avenue, Indianapolis, $21,000; New Carlisle, O., bank, $53,000; Farrell, Pa., bank, $24,000; Bluffton, O., bank, $2,800; Commercial bank, Daleville, Ind., $3,500, and the National Bank of Montpelier, Ind., $12,000.

ORDERS WILLITS INTO COURT IN CONTEMPT CASE

Judge Joseph Sabath in the Superior court yesterday ordered John MacGregor Willits, insurance broker, to appear before him today and show why he should not be held in contempt of court for taking his children away from his home at 2215 Maple avenue, Evanston.

Willits took the children, Jane, 6 years old, and Ann, 2, away from the home of his divorced wife, Mrs. Margaret Liggett Willits, at Swampscott, Mass., during the Christmas season, and on Tuesday lost a contest before Judge Sabath for the permanent custody of the children.

Mrs. Willits discovered Wednesday that Willits and the children were missing from their Evanston home. Her attorney, Frank B. Teed, asked yesterday for an attachment for the arrest of Willits. Judge Sabath said he would issue one if Willits did not appear today.

"This man has embarrassed and harassed me in refusing to obey the court order," said Attorney Stephen Love, counsel for Willits. "A few days ago he asked me what would happen if he did not obey it. I told him he would go to jail and lose the children forever. I would like to withdraw from the case."

"For the sake of the children," said Judge Sabath, "I wish you would stay in the case."

ROBS EVANSTON POSTOFFICE; IS SEIZED IN CHASE

Two policemen and a restaurant chef yesterday pursued and captured Joseph Martino, 24 years old, 1116 Larrabee street, a Cuban, after he had held up a clerk in the Evanston postoffice with a toy pistol and escaped with $78.

Martino walked into the postoffice, which is at Church street and Sherman avenue, approached the parcels post window, and after exhibiting his toy weapon laid a note before John Radcliffe, the clerk on duty there. The note said: "Dear Sir—Please show no resistance, as this is a holdup. Please give me the money in your till."

Radcliffe surrendered the money and Martino fled. A postoffice employé gave an alarm and Policeman Hubert Kelsh, who was off duty and on his way to a theater, took up the pursuit. Martino ran into the basement of a restaurant at 803 Davis street, and, while Kelsh was searching in the rear, Alexander Koclanes, the chef, saw the fugitive climb out a front window.

Koclanes followed, attracting the attention of Traffic Policeman Herman Wood at Davis and Benson streets. Martino was found hiding under a truck in a nearby alley.

FACTOR TO NAME HIS KIDNAPERS AT TRIAL TODAY

State Doubles Guard for Courtroom.

his men near Elkhorn was told by a number of witnesses, including Constable Harry Ward, who played the principal rôle in the arrest. The Touhys were taken into custody by Ward, who was unarmed and who was startled to find what the witnesses termed a "young arsenal" of six loaded revolvers, a rifle, ammunition, tape, rope, and muslin in the car occupied by the Touhys.

Among the witnesses from Elkhorn, in addition to Ward, were his brother, William; the chief of police, George Wiswell; Paul Schinke, H. C. Squires, Perry O'Brien and Sheriff George O'Brien.

Big Day for Elkhorn.

It was a big day for Elkhorn. When Prosecutor Marshall E. Kearney referred to the town as a "village" several of the witnesses corrected him with some indignation, pointing out that it was a city. Their testimony was mainly corroborative of Constable Ward's story of the capture.

Sheriff O'Brien told of taking two rolls of money from Touhy after his arrest. One roll contained $371 and the other $900, mostly in ten dollar bills. From Sharkey he took $160 in eight twenties, from McFadden, $125, mostly in tens, and from Schaefer, $190, mostly in tens. The Factor ransom money was paid in ten and twenty dollar bills.

One of the witnesses testified that the Touhy gangsters refused to talk when arrested. Sharkey typified the gang attitude when he remarked, "I don't know nothin' about nothin' and I want a mouthpiece [attorney]," according to the testimony.

The day ended with a motion by Attorney Stewart to prevent the presentation of evidence regarding Kator's arrest. Kator was not with the others at the Elkhorn capture. He was arrested by Policemen S. T. Prindiville and Frank R. Fuerst in a building at Lawrence and Maplewood avenues last Oct. 26 and a .45 automatic pistol was found in his apartment.

Stewart asked that the gun be not admitted into evidence on the ground that the police had no warrant. The judge ruled, however, that the police had reason to believe Kator had committed a crime and overruled the motion.

Prosecutor Crowley then announced that he would introduce the evidence regarding Kator at the opening of today's session and that Factor, the last state's witness, will take the stand, probably about 11 a. m.

CAPTURE OF TOUHYS

Harry Ward, the mild mannered constable from Elkhorn, who alone and unarmed captured the "terrible Touhys" seven days after the release of Factor, furnished the first chuckles of the trial at the morning session. Even the witness seemed a little amazed as he related how he calmly captured Roger Touhy and four of his henchmen and confiscated six loaded revolvers, a rifle, a length of rope, a roll of tape, and a quantity of muslin. The last three articles, the state charges, were for use in binding and gagging a victim in case another kidnaping was accomplished by the gangsters.

Policeman Ward's testimony and the weapons were introduced into evidence only after Defense Attorney Stewart had offered opposition during arguments in chambers. The judge overruled Stewart's objections.

No Hero to Himself.

Adjusting his blue bow tie a little nervously and gazing in apprehension at the crowded courtroom, Policeman Ward gave his story with a deprecating air. He wanted the courtroom to know, his manner indicated, that he considered himself no hero.

"The city of Elkhorn," returned Constable Ward, with an injured air.

He testified that about 10:30 p. m. on July 19, 1933, he was notified by his brother, Bill, the police chief, that an automobile containing five men had run off the road some distance from Elkhorn, broken a telephone pole, and had then continued on towards Elkhorn.

"I went in another feller's car," Ward told the jury. "I decided they might take a short cut so I went to a gasoline station where I expected they'd pass and flagged the passing cars.

He Flags 'Em Down.

"The third one was a Chrysler Imperial with five men in it. I flagged 'em down and noticed a dent in a front fender."

The witness displayed a modest pride when he revealed that a close inspection of the car showed some wood splinters such as would come from a telephone pole.

"I said to the driver: 'I guess you're the feller that hit that pole. You better come with me.'"

He pointed out Roger Touhy as the driver.

"And you were unarmed at that time?" he was asked.

"Yes, sir," said Constable Ward.

He testified that he stood on the running board of the Touhy car and directed Touhy to drive to the town jail. Somehow, on that ride, he narrated with some wonder, one of the occupants of the car, later identified as Willie Sharkey, disappeared.

Keep Touhy in Jail.

"When we got to the jail I asked my brother, Bill, the chief, what to do with 'em," he continued. "He said they'd have to go to jail. But three of 'em wanted a glass of beer so they went down town. We kept Touhy in the jail. When the other's didn't come back, we began to think something was wrong."

Some of the citizens hanging around the courthouse then searched the automobile and the simple amazement of the respectable burghers of Elkhorn at the discovery of the loaded revolvers, a rifle, rope, tape, and muslin in the Touhy car was depicted by the witness. He and his brother, Bill, the chief, were convinced beyond all doubt that something was indeed wrong.

"We looked through the taverns, but the others weren't there," the constable said. "I said to the sheriff: 'Things look funny.' We sent out some phone calls and they captured Sharkey in Lake Geneva. We were on our way back from Lake Geneva with him when we saw two men sitting by the road with their backs to a fence. They were McFadden and Schaefer."

Thus was the ferocious Touhy gang, the object of a manhunt by the entire police force of Chicago, rounded up. Attorney Stewart, in his cross-examination of the witness, stressed the lack of opposition put up by the gangsters to their arrest. He referred to the flight of McFadden and Schaefer as "the boys taking a little walk."

The defendants had heard Ward's story before at the Hamm kidnaping trial in St. Paul and evinced an elaborate boredom during his testimony, which was the first linking of Sharkey, who has been positively identified as one of the Factor kidnapers, as one of the Touhy gang.

During a recess, the heap of revolvers and ammunition on the table vied for interest with the crowd with Tito Schipa, the tenor, who was a courtroom fan. Like all the other spectators, he was searched for weapons before he was allowed to enter. Tito walked over to the table and eyed the weapons with awe while the crowd looked on admiringly.

BYRD FLAGSHIP AGAIN MOORED AT ICE'S EDGE; CREW UNLOADS CARGO

ADMIRAL BYRD'S FLAGSHIP, Bay of Whales, Antarctica, Jan. 25.—[Via Mackay Radio.]—(AP)—The business of unloading cargo for Little America was in full swing again today, with the flagship berthed once more at the edge of the bay ice, from which she was driven by high winds last Tuesday.

The job of getting winter supplies ashore is a matter of brute strength, good luck, and how much men and dogs are able to stand. This time there is a sweeping novelty to it that is arresting. South of where the ship lies, the frozen flooring of the bay extends to join the swelling undulations of the barrier, and across it runs a road pounded into firmness by the trotting steps of men and dogs and the heavier surging of tractors.

The road is 15 feet wide and four and a half miles long. The Boston post road is no finer. To and fro along it passes a ceaseless transport. Fifteen dog teams trotting ahead of sledges piled with boxes are interspersed with three tractors hauling heavy sledges stacked with gasoline.

MRS. FACTOR ON STAND

Mrs. Factor, a good looking brunette garbed stylishly, was the other main attraction at the morning session. She has a gurgling, babylike voice and her big blue eyes widened as she mentioned "the great big guns" held by the kidnapers who took her husband the morning of last July 1.

She described her visit to the Dells roadhouse on Dempster street the night of June 30 with a party of friends, including her husband. The party left the roadhouse about 1 a. m. on July 1, she testified, in three automobiles, the Duesenberg roadster containing her husband, his son, Jerome, and A. L. Epstein preceding the car in which she was riding with several other women.

A few hundred feet east of the roadhouse her car caught up with the roadster, to find Factor and Epstein being dragged from their car and a group of 10 or 15 armed men surrounded the two cars, she said.

"Did you see guns in the hands of the men?" she was asked.

Great Big Guns.

"All sorts of guns, great big guns," said Mrs. Factor in her cooing voice. "A man came up and said: 'Get out and keep your heads down.' Mrs. Epstein said: 'For God's sake, Rella, keep your head down.'"

She identified a picture of Sharkey as the man with the gun at her car. "It was a very big gun," she said.

The crowd found most interesting in her testimony her story of a telephone conversation with one of the kidnapers on July 11, the day before the ransom of $70,000 was paid and Factor released. She revealed that her caller was familiar with the Yiddish language.

She opened the conversation by saying, "Please take good care of my husband," she testified. The man on the other end of the wire said: "Hello, Rella. What do you call your husband?" Her testimony continued:

"I told him I called Jack 'Bebsel' and he said: 'That's right. What does 'tref' mean?' I was puzzled for a moment, then said: 'Not kosher,' and he said, 'I guess this is Rella all right. Have you got the money?'

"That's Not Enough."

"I said I had it and he asked me how much. I told him, $70,000. He said, 'That's not enough. I guess you don't want Jack back again.'"

Her voice broke at this point and she seemed about to weep as she continued:

"I said, 'Please don't hurt my husband, I want him so., He said, 'You can raise the money. Jack said you could.' I said, 'For God's sake, where? If Jack knows, have him tell you so you can tell me. He said, 'Your husband hasn't eaten for a few days. He's getting pretty weak'."

"I said, 'Please don't hurt my husband. I'll see what I can do. The money means nothing. I've raised every cent I could.' He answered, 'Well, I'll see what I can do.' I asked him to call me at the Pearson hotel, but he said he guessed the wires were tapped there."

Tells of Raising $75,000.

She told of raising $75,000 on a stock account held by her husband. Five thousand of this amount was retained and she handed over $70,000 to her brother, William Cohen. Cohen gave the money to Dr. Herman M. Soloway, Factor's physician, who turned it over to the kidnapers the following day, July 12.

In his coaxing manner Defense Attorney Stewart cross-examined her at length, but did not shake her identification of Sharkey. He asked her about her trip to St. Paul when she sat in the courtroom at the Hamm trial but did not testify.

"I was in sort of a daze then," she explained when unable to give the name of the hotel she had stopped at.

"Are you in a daze now?" asked Stewart in his sweetest manner.

"No," responded Mrs. Factor with determination.

Boy Ill in Tennessee; Has Kin in Downers Grove

Memphis, Tenn., Jan. 25.—(AP)—A 17 year old boy, critically ill and deliriously calling for his mother, was in General hospital here tonight as an unsuccessful attempt was made to communicate with his relatives at Downers Grove, Ill. He said he was Wallace Isbell.

NEW YORK SOCIETY WOMAN SHOT WHILE HUNTING IN GEORGIA

Thomasville, Ga., Jan. 25.—(AP)—Mrs. Charles Merrill Chapin Jr., prominent young New York society matron, was wounded accidentally during a dove hunt on the Chapin winter estate near here today and was in a critical condition at a hospital tonight.

A shotgun charge entered her left side and passed through her abdomen. At Archibald Memorial hospital, where an emergency operation was performed, attending physicians said that they were "optimistic," but that her condition was grave. A blood transfusion followed the operation.

Only a young Negro who accompanied Mrs. Chapin to the field to pick up birds witnessed the accident, and he was unable to say exactly how it happened. Physicians would not permit Mrs. Chapin to talk.

Mrs. Chapin was seated on a three legged stool and apparently one of the legs gave way in the soft ground. It appeared that when she was upset Mrs. Chapin grabbed the weapon, causing it to discharge. Her husband and two guests from New York were on the opposite side of the field and went to her aid.

DOCTOR BARS AIR TRIP AS GREEK EXIT FOR INSULL

Says Fugitive's Heart Is Too Weak.

BY EUGENE SPECK.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ATHENS, Jan. 25.—An airplane flight as a means of leaving Greece and finding refuge elsewhere is definitely excluded for Samuel Insull, in the opinion of Dr. Basil Voylas, one of the physicians attending the fugitive Chicago utilities magnate.

Dr. Voylas said today that such a venture would expose his 74 year old patient to palpitation which probably would be fatal.

Insull, who has been ordered to leave Greece by Jan. 31, is still in bed, according to Dr. Voylas. The doctor declared that he had called in Dr. Constantine Marcoulis, one of the foremost heart specialists in Athens, for consultation at this morning's examination of his patient.

Unable to Stand Altitude.

"Insull at present would not be able to endure the altitude necessary to airplane flights," Dr. Voylas declared. "I cannot say, for professional reasons, now, whether he would be able to travel by other means, on a stretcher or otherwise. But airplanes are out of the question."

"Is Insull dangerously ill?" he was asked.

"He is an old man suffering from diabetes and arteriosclerosis," the doctor replied. "Naturally he is dangerously ill."

"By that do you mean there is any question of his dying?"

No Plane Hired.

Information received from sources close to the government tended to verify Dr. Voylas' statement regarding departure from Athens by air. It was found that Insull has not hired a plane, nor has one been engaged by any agent of his. The checkup embraces virtually every airplane in Greece and all places where planes are able to arrive or depart.

Insull, who is wanted in the United States to face charges of fraud, has not yet applied for an extension of his residence permit from Jan. 31, even on the grounds of illness. It was also learned today that he has not yet been told of the state council's decision upholding the government's expulsion order. His queries are said to be answered to the effect that there has been considerable delay and the conclusions have not been published.

Elliot Roosevelt Stops at White House for Visit

Washington, D. C., Jan. 25.—(AP)—Elliot Roosevelt, second son of the President, arrived at the White House today for a brief visit, the first since his departure for the west shortly after the President was inaugurated.

8TH DAY PASSES AND BREMER IS STILL MISSING

No Further Word Heard from Kidnapers.

St. Paul, Minn., Jan. 25.—[Special.]—Edward G. Bremer has spent his eighth day in the hands of kidnapers, who made no further moves to collect the $200,000 ransom held in readiness by the Bremer family.

The elder Bremer denied receipt of further messages from the kidnap gang and there were no signs of further developments, aside from the usual gossip and rumors that have complicated news of the case.

Police sought to allay worry over Mr. Bremer's eight day captivity by recalling that kidnaping victims have been held much longer before their release was affected. They pointed to the fact that John [Jake the Barber] Factor was held ten days, and that John G. O'Connell of Albany, N. Y., was held 24 days last summer before being released.

Meanwhile, Chicago police and United States investigators were conducting a search for Charles Connors, former Minnesota convict, and another man in connection with the Bremer case. Connors is under indictment for participation in the kidnaping of John Factor. Roger Touhy and three members of his gang are now on trial in Chicago for the Factor "job."

SLEUTH'S VEST STOPS BULLET DURING LECTURE

As the climax to an address on "Detection vs. Protection" by William H. Crow, manager of the Burns International Detective agency, last night before the Fellowship forum at the Great Northern hotel, a bullet was fired from a pistol into a bullet proof vest worn by Mr. Crow at a distance of seven feet.

Another feature of the program was a talk by William A. Rogers, fingerprint expert of the agency, who said: "Employers would stop many migrating criminals if they would require all employés and prospective employés to register their fingerprints. Seventeen men wanted by the police were captured and 171 resigned when fingerprints were taken of employés of one large concern."

ENDS LIFE AT FATHER'S GRAVE.

Rochester, Ind., Jan. 25.—[Special.]—Frederick Ruh, 46, druggist, ended his life today by firing a charge from a shot gun into his heart. He selected the grave of his father, who passed away two weeks ago, as the site for the act. His body fell across the grave.

LIQUOR CONTROL BILL LEFT IN AIR BY HOUSE POLLS

Lack Six Votes of Needed Two-Thirds.

BY PERCY WOOD.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., Jan. 25.—[Special.]—At the end of a tumultuous day of debate and roll call the Illinois house tonight refused to pass the administration's liquor control bill by a two-thirds majority. The bill needed 102 votes. It received 96, while 38 members—all but one Republicans—were against it.

Adjournment was taken until Tuesday, and pending a new attempt to pass it the bruised and battered measure will hang, like Mahomet's tomb, "suspended between heaven and earth."

Strenuous efforts will be made to pick up the six votes necessary over the week-end. As they left the capitol Democratic leaders were predicting cheerfully that they can succeed.

Recess in Afternoon.

The house came within striking distance of the required vote only after a recess was taken in late afternoon after 86 affirmative votes had been tallied. The labors of the next two hours brought in ten recalcitrant members.

Even the pledge that a provision some regarded as objectionable, which would tax alcohol used in medicines and toiletries, would be taken out at a later session was not sufficient to corral the half dozen. The roll of absentees was called again, but before its conclusion a motion was put by the Chicago Democratic leader, Representative Adamowski, to recess until next week.

Republicans roared their protest, insisting that the vote be announced and the bill defeated. But the Democratic majority shouted louder in the viva voce test of Adamowski's motion and adjournment was had.

Sure of Six More.

Speaker Arthur Roe and Bailiff Albert J. Horan, Cook county Democratic leader, assert they can bring in the six votes, and more if they are needed, by Tuesday. They are pinning their hopes on the 15 members either absent or not voting today. Seven of these are from Chicago, and it was predicted that a good many of them will be in their seats when the next roll is called.

In taking its first recess for a count of noses the house followed precisely the move made in the senate last night. There 34 votes were needed for concurrence in the report of the joint conference committee. Only 30 were tallied on the first roll call, so a recess was declared. Efforts at conversion were successful, and four more votes were added when the session reconvened.

Gov. Horner and his backers are anxious that the liquor law go into effect as quickly as possible. Revenue estimated at $500,000 per month is being denied the treasury by delay and the state is without rum regulations.

Assail Home Rule Clause.

Attacks upon the bill were leveled at its home rule provision for Chicago, its taxes, labeled by many as unfair; the bar section, which drew the cry that the old time saloon was coming back, and there were almost as many other arguments as the bill has words.

Over all was the claim that "politics" was being played. The Republicans so charged the Democrats, and the defenders tossed it right back.

At 10 a. m. the debate began when Majority Leader Thomas P. Sinnett [Dem., Rock Island] moved that the house concur in the report of the conference committee. He admitted that the bill might not be the last word in liquor regulation, but it was the best that could be formed so early in the repeal era.

The attack began immediately. Minority Leader Elmer J. Schnackenberg [Rep., Chicago] talked first and set the pace for those who were to oppose the bill. He declared the measure was in such shape that it couldn't be passed. He said the old time alliance between the saloon and politics was being fostered by it and claimed that the separate commission for Chicago was "an excellent opportunity for the Chicago Democratic organization to exact a toll and set up machinery to control the saloon." "Some astute politicians," he said, "have led the governor up a blind alley."

Argue Against Snoopers.

Frederick W. Rennick [Rep., Buda] followed Schnackenberg and said that there was no limit to the number of snoopers the state commission could hire to enforce the act. L. M. Green [Rep., Rockford], one of the most bitter opponents, said the bill was clearly drawn in behalf of the manufacturers and dealers in liquor; that it reeked with hypocrisy and would give "politicians and policemen a better chance for shakedowns."

Then the defense began. Benjamin S. Adamowski [Dem., Chicago] took after Schnackenberg and declared he was the man who forced through a series of bills in the 1927 session which doubled the bonding power of the city of Chicago. "If he's the man you want to follow, all right, go ahead," he told the Republicans.

FRANCES DEE AND JOEL M'CREA.
[TRIBUNE Photo.]

Event in Summer

Hollywood, Cal., Jan. 25.—[Special.]—Frances Dee and Joel McCrea, young film stars, today said they expected to fit a nursery in their new ranch home in San Fernando valley near Hollywood and expected to have an occupant for the nursery in July.

Miss Dee is a former University of Chicago student who worked summers as a CHICAGO TRIBUNE adtaker, and became a movie star within two years of her appearance in Hollywood. McCrea, son of wealthy southern California parents, was an athlete at Pomona college. Miss Dee will finish two motion pictures before retiring temporarily in the spring.

LEADING LAKE FOREST RIDERS THEFT VICTIMS

Some of the most prominent of Lake Forest's horsemen and horsewomen yesterday were bemoaning the losses of their favorite saddles, bridles, and martingales, stolen by thieves who entered the stables of Riding Master Joe Robinson, four miles northwest of Wadsworth, Lake county, Wednesday night.

Property of Col. Noble Brandon Judah, former ambassador to Cuba, which was stolen was valued at more than $700. Mrs. Donald Ryerson's loss was placed at $605, that of Charles H. Schweppe at $153, and Charles Hull Ewing's loss at $280. Robinson said that riding equipment belonging to him and his daughter, Freda, valued at $635, had been taken.

His stables are on the estate of Robert J. Thorne, who, with Mrs. Thorne, is in Arizona. The burglars broke into the Thornes' summer home and took linens, rugs, and other articles valued at about $2,000. The total loss was set at $4,373.

BOB YEAST COMPANY DRIVER.

MISS FREDERICK OF STAGE, FILMS WEDS FIFTH TIME

New York, Jan. 25.—[Special.]—The army drum and bugles of Governors island struck up this afternoon in observance of the fifth marriage of Pauline Frederick, stage and screen star, whose fourth marriage was annulled on complaint of Hugh Chisholm Leighton, wealthy hotel owner, that he was a "kissless bridegroom."

Miss Frederick, 50, was married on Sunday to Col. Joseph A. Marmon, 58, commander of the Sixteenth U. S. infantry and the post of Fort Jay, Governors island, it was announced today.

Col. Marmon, who started his army career as a private, has not been married before. He served in the Spanish-American war, the Philippine insurrection, and the world war. Born in Mitchellville, Ia., he attended Manhattan college here, the University of Notre Dame, and the Sorbonne, Paris.

Miss Frederick, who made her stage debut 32 years ago, stated in her marriage license she had been married three times. Her biographical sketches, however, list four previous marriages and give her previous husbands, all divorced, as Frank M. Andrews, Willard Mack, Dr. Charles Rutherford, and Mr. Leighton.

RUMANIANS RIOT TO GET PEEK AT BULGARIAN QUEEN

BUCHAREST, Rumania, Jan. 25.—(AP)—The enthusiasm of a Rumanian crowd for the visiting Queen Joanna of Bulgaria caused a small riot today at a florist shop.

Accompanied by her lady in waiting, Queen Joanna attempted to buy some flowers on Bucharest's main street, but she was soon recognized by a crowd. The result was so much cheering and pushing that the windows were finally burst from the pressure of the multitude anxious to get a peak at Bulgarian royalty.

The queen arrived this morning with King Boris for a visit with King Carol and a series of Balkan conferences.

SEC. ICKES' WIFE TO RETIRE FROM STATE ASSEMBLY

Finds Washington Duties Too Arduous.

Mrs. Anna Wilmarth Ickes, wife of Secretary of the Interior Harold L. Ickes, announced yesterday in Washington that she would not seek reelection as state representative from the 7th Illinois district at the end of her present term.

Three times Mrs. Ickes, running as a Republican, has been elected state representative, and always was among the leaders on her ticket. The family home is in Winnetka.

As to her reasons for the step, she explained smilingly that life was too complicated, what with the duties of a cabinet wife and of a state legislator conflicting and making great demands on her time. She was enthusiastic, she said, about the administration in Washington, and would not have made the race for the assembly the last time if she had known her husband was to be in the Roosevelt cabinet.

Travel Is Wearing.

She also pointed out that she had had to make three round trips between the national capital and Springfield in three weeks, and that such travel was wearing. Her formal message to the voters follows:

"It is with deep regret that I have come to the conclusion not to seek reelection as a member of the general assembly. The voters of my district have shown confidence in me by electing me now on three successive occasions, each time with an increased plurality. It has been a pleasure to me to serve the fine and intelligent constituency of this district. Their loyal support at all times has inspired me to do the best that was in me, and if in any degree I have succeeded in serving the district well it has been due to the coöperation and understanding loyalty of my constituents.

Decision Is Difficult.

"It has been difficult for me to arrive at this decision. I have enjoyed my work at Springfield and I have been proud of my district. There are many reasons why it would be a satisfaction to continue to represent this district in the general assembly, but upon a careful consideration of the whole matter I have come to the conclusion that I have duties and obligations elsewhere which would make it difficult for me to give that attention to the affairs of the district that it is entitled to at the hands of its representatives; and so with deep appreciation for all the courtesy and consideration that have been shown to me by the voters of the Seventh district, regardless of party, I have regretfully come to the conclusion not to be a candidate at the coming primary or general elections."

Mrs. Ickes' term ends next January.

The Field of Honor Is a Football Stadium.

BY EDMOND TAYLOR.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Jan. 25.—The first political duel since the war—and the most satisfactory one the capital can recall—took place this morning. André Hesse, Radical deputy and former vice president of the chamber of deputies, and Joseph Beineix, lawyer and editor of the Paris Midi, met in the Bois de Boulogne and perforated the atmosphere with four well placed shots.

The two Frenchmen met on the field of honor in an effort to settle a quarrel which arose as a result of the $60,000,000 Stavisky bond scandal. The duel was arranged after Beineix had written an article assailing Hesse for acting as lawyer for the late Serge Stavisky, promoter of the Bayonne pawnshop frauds, while the deputy was also serving as an official of the chamber of deputies.

Reporters View Duel.

Today's encounter, which revived the finest traditions of the French duel as studied by Mark Twain in his travels, has the distinction of being the first affair of the sort, at least in France, to receive complete newspaper and newsreel coverage.

Reporters and camera men viewed the duel from the roof of the grand stand of the Parc des Princes football stadium—the field of honor.

A squad of bicycle policemen who followed Hesse from his home with instructions to enforce the anti-duel law reached the stadium gates just after the second salvo was fired. Since there were no casualties the police made no arrests.

Acting on instructions from Hesse to make the conditions of the duel as deadly as possible, the combat director placed the antagonists at opposite ends of the field in front of the goal posts and paced off 75 feet between them.

The duelists, after unbuttoning shirts as mutual assurance against bulletproof vests or other subterfuges, took their positions and received the customary long dueling pistols loaded with the customary underweight charge.

Fire and Miss.

At a signal from the umpire both fired and missed. While the pistols were hastily reloaded, Beineix stamped the ground nervously and Hesse examined his overcoat "with the greatest coolness" to make sure it was still buttoned.

Two of the most famous surgeons of France stood by with instrument bags open.

When the second broadside left the score still reading no runs, no hits, four errors, the umpire solemnly proclaimed that honor was satisfied and the combatants stalked off without the usual formal reconciliation.

Following the "battle" the seconds and the umpire, Jean Joseph Renaud, famous swordsman, issued a communique describing the affair. In addition Umpire Renaud issued a statement to the press calling the attention of the public to the essentially serious nature of the duel.

"Both adversaries displayed perfect manners and marked courage," Renaud declared. "The shots came very close and the last one fired by Beineix actually brushed Hesse's right shoulder without damaging his coat. It is certain that both adversaries narrowly escaped serious wounds."

Seize Last Stronghold of Chinese Rebels in Fukien

HONGKONG, Jan. 25.—(AP)—National government forces in a dispatch today claimed to have captured Chuanchow, last stronghold of the rebellious 19th route army in Fukien province. Forces of the Nationalists also reached Tingchow, 200 miles from the defenses of the Canton government, the dispatch said. Increasing anxiety in Canton concerning the intentions of the Nanking government was reported.

AGENTS OF ICKES FIGHTING GRAFT BY POLITICIANS

Pushes Own Inquiries; Aids Miss Perkins.

BY JOHN BOETTIGER.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 25.—[Special.]—The President's program for bringing money and jobs to the downtrodden struck another disappointing note this afternoon. Secretary Ickes revealed that he had been asked by the department of labor to investigate charges that politicians were using one of the pet Roosevelt benevolences for their own sordid purposes.

This newest charge against the politicians, who are fast approaching the status of loathsome persons, is that they have turned the employment offices established around the country by Mme. Secretary Perkins into patronage headquarters.

In some cases, it is alleged, jobless persons applying to the government offices were sent away to get political indorsements. In other instances, it is declared, it was necessary to establish adherence to the Democratic party before jobs would be given out.

In assuming the task of ferreting out these miscreants, Mr. Ickes is growing considerably in his stature as a special policeman.

The interior secretary's detective force, headed by Louis R. Glavis, already is swamped with complaints that the CWA funds have in hundreds and thousands of instances been spent corruptly in a political spoilsmanship.

Hand of Charity Bitten.

Before that the force was busy enough running down rumors concerning misapplication of the public works easy money. There also has been the work laid down for Mr. Ickes to keep the Democratic lawyers in Washington and the Democratic national committeemen from feeding at the public trough.

Apart from the significance of giving all these tasks to Mr. Ickes, instead of the department of justice, where they ordinarily would fall, there is noted among the New Dealers these days a tendency to tread a bit more cautiously in doling out easy money for easy jobs. It is not altogether pleasant, they agree, while lamenting the frailty of political consciences to have one's hand of charity bitten so frequently.

Mr. Ickes was asked by a newspaper man at his press conference today if he was taking over the investigating functions of the attorney general.

"O, no," he replied modestly. "We have had our investigating staff a long time, you know."

Beneath the surface, however, the story is that Secretary Ickes was selected to superintend the investigations into the present epidemic of grafting because President Roosevelt recognizes in him one man who will not compromise on political grounds.

Complaints which have been referred to the department of justice in some of these cases have died natural deaths, it is asserted. Even in instances of a complete case of misconduct being turned over to the department legal snags have been found to prevent a prosecution.

Partisanship Not Criminal.

The war on grafters was under discussion at another press conference this afternoon, conducted by Attorney General Cummings, and here the New Dealers were stricken by still another disappointment.

Mr. Cummings, being informed that the men of the press were seeking to learn the progress of the war, called in Assistant Attorney General Joseph Keenan, who had been specially assigned to the task.

Mr. Keenan added that he had received many complaints that worthy people were unable to obtain jobs under the CWA in certain states because they were not able to obtain the sponsorship of political leaders.

"But discrimination on the basis of political party is not a legal offense," said Mr. Keenan as he indicated that all such complaints would be referred back to Harry Hopkins, administrator of the CWA, for "administrative action."

While laymen were unable to point to any criminal law which would enable Mr. Keenan to proceed against transgressors of the Roosevelt political code, the New Dealers reckoned that in these days of reviving old laws, making countless new ones, and writing strained opinions and interpretations to fit other asects of the new deal Mr. Keenan might have found some law to punish the grafters.

Three Cases, Keenan Says.

The federal prosecutor reported that at the present time he has but three alleged violations of the law in cases involving public works money, cases given him by Secretary Ickes' detective staff, and "less than 15" similar violations involving CWA funds.

One of the public works cases, he said, was one involving Nel Kraschel, lieutenant governor of Iowa, and an Ottumwa, Ia., bond dealer, Carlton Beh. This case, according to Mr. Keenan, has already been submitted to the federal grand jury at Ottumwa.

Secretary Ickes' chief inspector, Mr. Glavis, has a reputation for dogged honesty almost as well known as the secretary's. His insistence that action be taken against a syndicate which was attempting to acquire valuable Alaska coal lands caused Glavis to be discharged from the department of the interior in 1909 during Richard Ballinger's time as Taft's secretary of the interior.

Providing Jobs, Not Relief, Seen as U. S.' New Social Task

BY KATHERINE KELLEY.

A prediction that the federal government in the future will be a provider of work rather than a source of relief for the unemployed was made yesterday by C. M. Bookman, assistant federal emergency relief administrator in an address before the annual meeting of the Chicago Council of Social Agencies in the Palmer house. Mr. Bookman defended the CWA and similar work projects, declaring that these agencies can be extended and strengthened.

Close to 1,000 social workers from 205 welfare organizations allied with the council attended the luncheon. Present, also, were business leaders and heads of the major relief agencies, both public and private.

Tribute to Ryerson.

A high light of the meeting was the tribute paid to Edward L. Ryerson Jr., president of the council, in a bound volume containing letters of appreciation from 153 business, welfare, and civic groups for his "service to mankind" and describing him as "Chicago's leader in social welfare." Mr. Ryerson has been active in planning the relief program for Chicago during the last four years.

In his talk before the council Mr. Bookman said:

"I am amazed as I look over the CWA situation that there haven't been more difficulties. The task of building the CWA had to be done in one month. From the administration's point of view the usual restraints had to be removed to speed the work.

"Now, with the appropriations nearly expended, the CWA is to be gradually discontinued. However, $500,000,000 for relief and $350,000,000 for the CWA are being asked to assure operation and completion of CWA projects into May, and then some of the relief money will be made available for the CWA. My hope is that these projects can be strengthened.

A New American Principle.

"We have introduced, I believe, a new American principle that employment is the only answer, the only solution to unemployment. While we are attempting to provide jobs in a normal way, men must be placed at work by some means, whether it is public works, CWA, or something else.

"We cannot possibly face the future with four million families on relief, nor can we face another crisis such as we faced in 1930. We must give more consideration to the question of old age pensions, employment insurance, and ways of dealing with that portion of the population which is unable to solve its failure to get work. That is the responsibility of the government."

A second problem that must be solved in the future, Mr. Bookman said, is the relationship of the public and private welfare service. There must be greater coöperation between the two, he said, but the private agency must continue.

Ryerson Gives Views.

The possibility of radical readjustments in functioning of the private agencies in the future was discussed by Mr. Ryerson in his annual message. He interpreted the position of the Council of Social Agencies in the "definite" plan for social welfare which, he said, must be formulated. The council, he said, must assume leadership by making an exhaustive study of the social welfare needs of Chicago, a task requiring united coöperation.

"There is a possibility that some of our member agencies will need to be consolidated to avoid duplication," Mr. Ryerson said, or it is possible that a plan of joint grouping may be worked out wherein financing agencies in certain fields, such as health, relief, and protection, may in the future do more efficient work. I believe it is possible for Chicago to set the standard in this field for other communities."

Makes Annual Report.

Miss Elizabeth H. Webster, acting director of the council, in her annual report announced that 892,154 names had been cleared through the council's social service exchange, preventing duplication by the 172 agencies. This was a total of almost 93,000 more than in any other year of the exchange's history. There was a net addition of 700,000 names.

STATE CWA HEAD PUTS ALL LABOR ON SAME STATUS

No Difference Between Union and Nonunion.

A statement pointing out in effect that, so far as his office is concerned, there is no difference in status between union and nonunion labor, was made yesterday by Frank D. Chase, Illinois director of the Civil Works administration.

Whether union men pay dues or not, Mr. Chase also indicated, was entirely a matter for them to decide, and any action they take along this line will have no bearing on their ability to hold jobs with the CWA.

"The Civil Works administration," he asserted, "does not attempt to control the use of money paid to employés on projects under its supervision. These employés may use the money as they see fit.

No Obligations on Them.

"They are naturally at liberty to make donations from their earnings to any charitable, fraternal, or other organizations which may solicit donations from them. There is, however, no obligation on their part to make donations of this type, and their refusal to do so will not affect their status as CWA employés. This statement is in complete accord with the federal regulations concerning CWA workers."

There have been complaints in the recent past that workers who were unable or unwilling to pay back dues to unions were not allowed to work on the government financed projects.

Praise for the conduct of the CWA work in Illinois was expressed in a letter received yesterday by Robert J. Dunham, chairman for the state, from Alonzo J. Hammond, president of the American Society of Civil Engineers and general chairman of the Construction League of America.

Praise Centralized Control.

Mr. Hammond said that he had attended a convention of engineers in New York and had talked there with engineers from all parts of the country.

"Illinois," he continued, "was the only state with a complete state-wide CWA organization. In other states the administration is on a county basis. The Illinois plan permits a centralized control over all projects. A second feature in Illinois which received favorable comment is the engineering advisory board, through which experienced engineers, serving without compensation, give their aid.

"The Illinois plan enables the state administration to obtain a high production for funds expended under its direction."

ENDS HIS LIFE WITH POISON.

LARGER MARKETS, FARMERS' PLAN FOR PROSPERITY

Call Roosevelt's Ideas Temporary.

BY PAUL POTTER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Danville, Ill., Jan. 25.—[Special.]—Programs under way to boost farm income through the federal farm adjustment administration, plus those now being proposed to congress, will cost in excess of one billion dollars during the years 1933 and 1934.

That was announced here tonight by Chester C. Davis, federal farm administrator. Davis spoke at the annual banquet of the Illinois Agricultural association, attended by nearly four thousand farmers.

Forecasts Chicago Peace.

Davis freely admitted AAA mistakes in such as attempting to enforce a milk code in Chicago and other cities which rested on high retail prices. He expressed hope for some settlement of the Chicago milk situation as a result of a meeting of the Pure Milk association with the AAA in Chicago Saturday. The AAA, he said, refused to end the milk strike because it has a policy that no attempt is made to force farmers to a program except one of their asking. He said any new agreements on milk would not set retail prices, but such agreements and licenses imposed on milk distributors are "going to be enforced promptly and with every legal power at our command." He added federal injunctions would be invoked in an extremity.

Earl C. Smith, president of the Illinois Agricultural association, speaking earlier, listed the restoration of export markets and the development of new domestic outlets as the chief needs of agriculture.

Mr. Smith fixed three points in the long time program for restoration of agriculture. That development, he said, "presents a challenge to farm organizations and to the statesmanship of this country." The points are:

1. Restoring and maintaining agricultural exports in proper relationship to industrial exports, through trade agreements with foreign nations.

2. Immediate development of new and large industrial uses for raw materials produced on farms.

3. National land planning on a basis that will take from production large areas of marginal lands which have not or will not be profitable from an agricultural standpoint.

Meanwhile the organized farmers will continue to support and "be thankful" for the government's attempts to bolster farm prices and credits until these more permanent developments are brought about, declared Smith.

Labor Rejects MacDonald's Daughter as Its Candidate

LONDON, Jan. 25.—(AP)—Miss Ishbel MacDonald, eldest daughter of the prime minister, has been rejected by the Labor party in South Poplar as a candidate for municipal elections to be held in all London districts next month. Some attributed the action to her father's break with the party at large. Miss MacDonald was elected a member of the council of London borough in 1931.

CHARGES SMALL OIL DEALERS FACE RUIN UNDER CODE

The charge that the petroleum code of the NRA will enable big business interests to force the small independent dealer into bankruptcy was made yesterday in the federal court of Judge John P. Barnes.

Attorney Max M. Korshak, representing officials of the Suburban Motor service, operators of 40 gasoline service stations, made the assertion during the hearing on a petition for an injunction brought by the government. U. S. District Attorney Dwight H. Green asked an injunction to restrain the concern from violating the code by giving premiums to aid the sale of gasoline.

The prosecutor charged that if the practice were allowed to continue other dealers would be forced to adopt the policy. This, he said, would bring about a price war among the gasoline dealers. Affidavits were produced to show that the defendant company had given glass tumblers and lemon squeezers with each purchase of seven gallons or more of gasoline.

"The government said that the codes were not intended to promote monopolies," Attorney Korshak said, "but the petroleum code is doing that very thing.

The attorney said that his clients had lost 60 per cent of their business since the code was enforced, preventing the giving of premiums.

"If this injunction is granted," Attorney Korshak said, "you may as well send Prosecutor Green out to lock the places, as my clients can't go on. By giving premiums my clients are grasping at straws. We have complied with the required hour and wage regulations of the NRA, but we had to go back to the premiums in order to stay in business."

SMALL BUSINESS COMPLAINS IT IS DOOMED BY NRA

Local Director Reveals a Flood of Protests.

A flood of complaints by small business men and manufacturers against alleged domination of the NRA by big business is pouring into the Chicago offices of the recovery administration. At the offices of the local NRA director, the compliance board and the various code authorities yesterday it was reported the storm of protest loosed at Washington is having repercussions here.

Letters from small companies declaring they are being squeezed out of business by the provisions of NRA codes, which they hold were drawn by big business with every protection for its interests, are being received daily in large numbers. Nearly all cite code restrictions which discriminate against them and favor their large competitors. Many charge that the NRA virtually suspends anti-trust laws to their detriment.

Summarizes the Protests.

A number of complaints were revealed yesterday by Frederic L. Roberts of the NRA staff in Chicago. Mr. Roberts would not disclose the names of the complainants, but summarized the protests.

One of these came from a small manufacturer of baby shoes, who declared that his inability to compete with larger concerns forced him to close his business and lay off 200 employés. The step was made necessary, he said, because his operating costs were made excessive under the code provisions.

The writer said that the increase in wages he had to pay skilled help under the code consumed his profits. Because of the size of his business he could not absorb the additional expense and still sell at the same price as his competitors. He held a meeting of his employés after closing, the letter stated, and they are willing to take a cut which will permit him to reopen. He asks that the agreement with his workers be approved.

Trying to Save Business.

A cleaner made a plea for immediate action to save his business. He said his business is largely gained by men working on commission, which is not countenanced by the code of the industry. All his employés would gladly work under the former system even though their earnings would be below the minimum scale because they feel earnings will improve in time.

The letter was accompanied by a petition signed by his employés supporting his plea. If he does not get relief, the cleaner said, he cannot compete with larger concerns in the manner approved by the code and will have to throw his men out of work.

Another letter which reflects the attitude of many small garage owners came from a suburban garage man. To keep his garage open 24 hours a day he has one man who sleeps on the premises and is constantly on duty.

Also a Volunteer Fireman.

To comply with the code he must have two additional men at $28 a week each, his complaint states. Were he to do this, he adds, his business would be confiscated by the code provisions. In a footnote he alleges that reduction of the hours of his present employé would be a loss to the suburb as he is also a volunteer fireman for the fire engine house next door.

A small building supply contractor complains he is being forced out of business by the code of his industry which limits the hours of work for repairmen on his trucks to 40 hours a week. This, he alleges, works no serious hardship on larger concerns, but prevents him from keeping his trucks in proper repair unless he should hire additional men which would consume his profits. He asks that the men be permitted to work under a motor vehicle code which permits a 44 hour week for the same kind of work at the same pay.

A letter printed in the Voice of the People columns in today's TRIBUNE describes the experience of an Illinois business man who has been forced to shut down his veneer plant because of an NRA wage differential between competing plants in Illinois and Kentucky.

Johnson Warns Exploitation of U. S. Workers Must Stop

Worcester, Mass., Jan. 25.—(AP)—Gen. Hugh S. Johnson, NRA administrator, tonight charged that 90 per cent of the complaints that small business concerns were or may be oppressed by large ones came from establishments which said that "to survive they must exploit their workers."

Johnson made it clear that code authorities would prevent any such oppression.

Executed in Sympathy.

"The line has been drawn at unjustifiable exploitation and we must continue to draw it," Johnson said. "This act must be executed in sympathy and common sense, but the very fundamental of its purpose is that a unit that can not live except by exploitation shall no longer be preserved. Regional differences of living costs, the higher costs in larger cities, exceptional cases of honest hardship, all these are recognized."

The other 10 per cent of complaints the administrator continued, came from the effect of price stabilization and other regulatory practices. These were being examined, he said, and true exploitation would be stopped. For this purpose, he added, the President had approved a plan, suggested by Senator Nye with an amendment by Senator Norris, to set up a board which shall have summary powers to receive and inquire into any complaints.

Relieve Credit Facilities.

"We are also setting up a division under Mr. Whiteside and Col. Montgomery to try to relieve the intolerable credit facilities now available to the little fellow," Johnson said. "But aside from the conjectural complaints, by and large, small business has benefited—by increased price, by protection against chains and monopolistic price practices, by every device which we could invent and apply."

The nation had reached almost "economic nihilism" last March, Johnson said, but the President was ready with a plan to reconstruct the whole wreck and to substitute "order for anarchy."

Excessive Plant Capacity.

"The chief fault had been that too much of the product of domestic industry, labor, and agriculture had been diverted from the people's purchasing power to permit them to consume what they produced and in the midst of plenty they were threatened with starvation," Johnson explained.

"Too much had gone into excessive plant capacity and extravagantly constructed houses from the consuming power of the people by unsound securities financing unnecessary structures of all kinds.

"Consequently too little had been distributed as wages and dividends and the result was a grotesque speculative structure of values, an elephantine production plant, a creeping paralysis of employment which began as far back as 1926, a decay which began even farther back in 1921, and an interior cavity in domestic consuming power which started coincident with this diversion and impairment of the proper income of farmers and workers but which was concealed until 1929 by an expasion of all kinds of credits—an expansion like a bubble—the skin of which became so tenuous and thin in 1929 that no power on earth could have saved it."

Confidence Is Returning.

Declaring that confidence was returning everywhere, Johnson said that for the first time since the depression every business index was pointing upward; the President had cleared up the banking situation; the monetary situation was clearing rapidly; an enormous amount of debt liquidation had occurred and expatriated capital was flowing back.

NEW U. S. QUIZ OF MELLON FIRM IS CUMMINGS ORDER

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 25.—[Special.]—A new federal investigation into charges that the Mellon owned Aluminum Company of America holds a monopoly over aluminum manufacture has been ordered, Attorney General Homer S. Cummings revealed today.

At the same time Attorney General Cummings announced that the findings in the investigation of private income tax returns filed by former Secretary of the Treasury Andrew W. Mellon would soon be turned over to the treasury department.

Rejecting a report on the monopoly charges against the Mellon Aluminum company, which was prepared before he became attorney general, Mr. Cummings has ordered a new report made, he disclosed.

He openly declared that the Aluminum Company of America enjoys a monopoly of aluminum manufacture and of bauxite ore deposits, the material from which aluminum is made. He did not say, however, that anti-trust laws had been infringed.

48 New Members Feted by Union League Club

Forty-eight new members of the Union League club were guests at a special luncheon in the Crystal room of the club quarters yesterday. John McKinlay, president of Marshall Field & Co., and also president of the club, welcomed the newcomers. Col. George T. Buckingham told of the origin and history of the club. Among the new members were Bishop Ernest Lynn Waldorf, Stuart B. Bradley, Anthony J. Bemis and Henry A. Palmer.

DREWRYS ALE

For Winter 12% PROOF SPIRITS

Right now at Churchill on Hudson's Bay, where the temperature hovers around 40 degrees below—where the sun rises at ten and sets at two—and you feel the cold—the familiar bottle of mellow, old Drewrys Ale is on the table.

Many people tell us that a bottle of good Ale is far more "effective" than a highball.

The reason for this, of course, is that a good Ale has a heavier body which makes the alcohol content more effective.

So it is not by accident that in England and Canada Ale has become a Fall and Winter drink.

Drewrys is the first Canadian Ale made in the United States. In Canada Drewrys has maintained an unvarying highest standard for Ale since 1877. In the United States, operating under Canadian supervision, that standard is being carefully maintained. No Drewrys Ale is allowed to leave its vats until it is completely free of sediment and clear as crystal.

Here in the States we are making Drewrys with a little higher alcohol content than in Canada, but we are sure you won't mind that.

WOMAN NAMES HUMPHRIES AS WHITE'S KILLER

Photographs of Murray Humphries and William [Klondike] O'Donnell, both labor racketeers and gang leaders, were identified last evening as those of the two men who shot and killed William [Three Fingered Jack] White in his apartment at 920 Wesley avenue, Oak Park, on Tuesday evening. The identification was announced by Lieut. Harry Wilson of the Oak Park police.

According to the statement issued by the police, Humphries and O'Donnell were seen by residents of the apartment building, in which White and his bride of nine months occupied a third floor flat, as they fled down the stairway 30 seconds after the fatal shots were fired.

Points Out Gangsters' Pictures.

Lieut. Wilson said that Mrs. Lena Puetz, who lives on the first floor, pointed out Humphries and O'Donnell in a group of five men in a photograph which he showed to her. The lieutenant said that Humphries and O'Donnell were undoubtedly the "Bill" and "Joe" who had been named by White's widow, Nancy, as the two men who had been drinking with her husband when she left the apartment Tuesday evening.

Humphries now is the titular head of the remnants of the Capone booze and gambling syndicate, and after Al Capone's imprisonment in the federal penitentiary for income tax fraud he was designated as Chicago's No. 1 public enemy. More recently, according to police, he has made efforts to gain leadership in a number of labor unions. He is under indictment in the so-called racket conspiracy case now on trial in the Criminal court.

O'Donnell a Gang Leader.

O'Donnell, who for years has headed a gang of gunmen in western suburbs of the city, is known as head of a gambling and vice syndicate. During recent months, according to state's attorney's investigators, O'Donnell, Humphries, and White have been closely associated in labor racketeering.

Lieut. Wilson last evening said that Mrs. Puetz had pointed out the two gang leaders from a photograph found in White's home. In addition to Humphries and O'Donnell, White, Marcus [Studdy] Looney, labor racketeer, and Charles Fischetti, gangster, were shown in the enlarged snapshot which was in the bedroom of the apartment.

Hear Shots in Flat.

Mrs. Puetz, according to the police, sat in her living room on Tuesday evening, with the door which leads to the corridor open. At 10:30 p. m. she and her son-in-law, Alfred E. Mikels, heard two shots.

Half a minute later the two men ran down the hallway, threw open the front door and jumped into a small sedan which was parked at the curb. They drove south in Wesley avenue at high speed.

Mikels ran up two flights of stairs and found the door to White's apartment standing ajar. He said that he smelled burned powder and halted. Hearing no sound within he did not enter, but returned to his own apartment and telephoned police. Mrs. Puetz said that she had a good view of the two men and would be able to identify them without question.

Seen as Result of Quarrel.

Chicago police and state's attorney's investigators last night theorized that White and the other two gangsters had been plotting together when a sudden quarrel arose. The investigators agreed that White had not been slain in the usual gangland execution manner because of the circumstances of the murder.

After an examination of the apartment last evening Assistant State's Attorney Charles S. Dougherty said he was sure White had led his slayers to the door of the apartment, probably as they were about to depart. There, the prosecutor said, one of the men probably drew a revolver.

White apparently had fled down an inside hall to his bedroom in an attempt to get two automatic pistols which he kept in a dresser drawer there. He apparently was shot down as he reached for the weapons. One bullet pierced his chest and the other struck his left arm.

The identification of the two gang chieftains as the killers was the high point during a day of surprises which included a demand that federal investigators produce four .38 caliber revolvers carried by two agents who admittedly visited the White apartment a few hours before the murder, and the revelation that one of the agents was a frequent visitor and drinking companion of the slain gang leader.

The demand for the guns was made by Coroner Walsh and State's Attorney Courtney, who asked that the weapons be subjected to ballistics tests along with the bullets which killed White. The fatal bullets were of .38 caliber.

At the same time Oak Park police under Lieut. Harry Wilson were engaged in taking fingerprints from the glasses and the beer and whisky bottles with which White's apartment was littered. These prints, police hoped, would prove the identity of the killers. They will be compared with police files and with the bureau of identification records in Washington.

Seek to Clear Up Mystery.

First Assistant Deputy Coroner Stephen Kolanowski said last evening that he believed the federal agent's guns were sought "to clear up any doubt which might have arisen concerning the two men." He also said that the agents' fingerprints in Washington would be compared with those found in White's home.

Kolanowski added that he had consulted with Melvin Purvis, chief of the division of investigation office of the department of justice here, and the latter had assured him the weapons would be turned over today. The deputy coroner said that Purvis had promised him the "fullest cooperation of the department of justice in clearing up the murder." Purvis himself refused to answer any questions, making but one reply, "There's nothing I can say at this time."

Hear Testimony of Girl.

The interest of the local authorities in the two agents—James Hartin, a young Harvard graduate who came to Chicago from Boston two months ago as a regular investigator, and Oliver Kempster, a highway policeman temporarily assigned to the division of investigation—was largely due to testimony given at the inquest into White's death, which was opened at the county morgue yesterday.

The testimony was given by Miss Diane Andersen of Sterling, Ill., a divorcee, who is a friend of Kempster. She said he had taken her to the White home more than a month ago and had escorted her to the apartment on Tuesday afternoon. She said they drank wtih White and his wife each time, and that both calls were "social visits." Prosecutor Dougherty pointed out that when Hartin and Kempster were questioned by the Oak Park police on Wednesday morning after the slaying they said thay had gone to White's home on government business. They added that they had intended to notify police that White might be found in the apartment, since he was under state indictment, but that an important assignment had kept them from doing so.

Once Indicted with Newberry.

After hearing Miss Andersen's account of the friendship between White and Kempster, the prosecutor obtained a continuance of the inquest until Feb. 2. Then it was learned that Kempster was at one time a familiar of Ted Newberry, a gangster since slain, who was once an associate of White. Kempster was indicted with Newberry in Peoria in 1931 on a federal liquor conspiracy charge, but both men were acquitted. Kempster at that time lost his job as a sergeant of the state highway police.

According to information given to the police on Wednesday Kempster is now a Cook county highway policeman, but Sheriff Meyering yesterday denied that Kempster was on his highway force.

Lieut. Wilson revealed that Kempster had tried to hide two snub nosed .38 caliber revolvers under the mattress of his bed when he was summoned from his room at 3333 Washington boulevard to the Oak Park police station.

Mrs. White and Miss Andersen were released by Prosecutor Dougherty last evening. James Kelly, Mrs. White's brother, who was reported to have identified O'Donnell's photograph earlier in the day, was held for further questioning.

LIBBY HOLMAN PLANS COMEBACK; SHE JOINS DRAMATIC ARTS CLASS

Philadelphia, Pa., Jan. 25.—[Special.]—Libby Holman is contemplating a return to the theater on a more ambitious scale than ever.

News has leaked out that the former revue star is studying dramatic art with Jasper Deeter at his famous Little Hedgerow theater in Rose Valley.

It was at this theater that Ann Harding got her start on the road to fame and fortune as one of the leading legitimate and screen actresses in America.

The husky throated torch singer, whose baby received $2,000,000 from the estate of Smith Reynolds, suicide tobacco heir, is paying $10 a week to study in an experimental class formed by Deeter in connection with his theater.

Miss Holman joined the class Jan. 8 and is beginning her training as if she never appeared before a Broadway audience. Virtually all her experience was on the musical comedy and revue stage, while her study in Deeter's class will be confined to dramatic art.

WOMEN'S GROUP HIRES 2 AIDS TO PUSH LONG QUIZ

New Orleans, La., Jan. 25.—[Special.]—Gen. Samuel Tilden Ansell and John G. Holland of Washington, D. C., have been retained by the Louisiana women's committee, headed by Mrs. Hilda Phelps Hammond of New Orleans, to represent it in pressing the charges against United States Senators Huey P. Long and John H. Overton, now in the hands of the committee on privilege and elections of the United States senate.

Mrs. Hammond said today that the women will demand that both Senators Long and Overton be ousted from the senate. The women claim to have much new evidence which will be presented.

Gen. Ansell was special counsel for the senate committee on election expenditures which, under the chairmanship of the late Senator Robert D. Howell of Nebraska carried on the February, 1933, senate hearing in New Orleans when charges against Senators Long and Overton were aired. Mr. Holland was investigator for the committee.

Judge Lindley Dismisses Dry Charges Against 23

Federal Judge Walter C. Lindley yesterday dismissed charges of violating the late prohibition law against Anastasof Srebren, Bulgarian chemist, and 22 other defendants. The order was entered on motion of the government. Assistant United States Attorney James C. Leaton told the judge that of the 185 defendants who were indicted on charges of diverting industrial alcohol into the bootlegging business, all but the 23 dismissed yesterday previously had pleaded guilty and paid fines aggregating $55,000.

VIOLENCE REIGN IN DYE WAR TOLD AT RACKET TRIAL

Bombs Follow Price Cuts, Jury Hears.

BY WALTER FITZMAURICE.

The carnival of violence that enlivened operations in the cleaning and dyeing industry in the summer of 1932 was recalled by state witnesses yesterday in the trial of 18 defendants in the so-called racket conspiracy case before Chief Justice Philip J. Finnegan, in Criminal court.

Sam Lefkowitz, a tailor, pictured for a wide eyed jury the barrage of bombs, stench bombs, bricks, and blackjacks that flew when his little group of retail tailors on the northwest side broke away from the Cleaners and Dyers Institute, in May, 1932, to buck the competition of an independent, cut rate chain.

Involves 3 Principals.

His testimony involved three of the principal defendants, Dr. Benjamin M. Squires, founder of the Cleaners and Dyers institute, and now regional chairman for the industry under the NRA; Walter Crowley, owner of the City Dye Works and for twenty years leader of the city's organized dye houses; and James P. Gorman, president of the Retail Tailors' union, institute affiliate, to which such tradesmen as Lefkowitz belonged. Mr. Lefkowitz's shop was at 2829 Division street.

He and his associates in the union organization, Morrie Stein, Julius Plotkin, Harry Spiegel, and Sammy Golden, didn't like the price advertised by the independent chain of Checker Cleaners, who entered the neighborhood, Mr. Lefkowitz testified. The Checker chain quoted a cleaning price of 79 cents for two garments, while the institute required its members to charge $1.25 a garment.

"Well, what happened?" inquired Assistant State's Attorney Dodd Healy.

"First have the witness spit out that cud of tobacco," objected Attorney Benedict Short of defense counsel. "We can't hear what he says."

Mr. Lefkowitz spat and began his story.

Seek to Meet Price.

"The Checkers opened their store across the street from mine and they were getting all the business," he began. "We knew we had to meet the competition or starve, so we called 'Jim' Gorman to a meeting and asked if we could cut our price. We wanted a price of two garments for a dollar."

Q.—And did Gorman agree? A.—He said nothing doing. He said give him two weeks, and he'd take care of the Checkers.

Q.—Was there another meeting? A.—Yes, we went downtown to a meeting of the Master Cleaners and Dyers association [another affiliate of Dr. Squires' institute].

Tells Gorman's Warning.

Q.—What was said? A.—Walter Crowley got up and said give him two weeks and he'd take care of the Checkers. Abe Tangle, one of our group of tailors, said he was tired of that stuff about waiting two weeks. Jim Gorman broke in and said he wanted to clean up our bunch first and anybody that didn't go along would be dragged in the dirt.

During this testimony, Dr. Squires absently chewed a pencil tip. Mr. Crowley, a long, lanky person with a bald head, favored the witness with a derisive smile. Mr. Gorman, short, heavy set and spectacled, whispered with his lawyer.

Bomb Is Reply.

"What happened to the Checkers?" Prosecutor Healy pursued.

"Bomb!" came the explosive reply that jerked jurors and defendants erect in their chairs.

Q.—Describe what you saw. A.—The Checker shop was right across the street. The window was smashed and the counter splintered. But they opened up and went into business just the same. So we quit the union and the Squires institute and took our bundles to another plant.

Mr. Healy guided the witness off on another tack. Was it about this time, he asked, that Mr. Lefkowitz went to Mount Sinai hospital?

"Can't see what the hospital has to do with this," rumbled Attorney Joseph Harrington of defense counsel.

Another Bomb Sequel.

Without further urging and in loud tones Lefkowitz related the sequel to his hospitalization.

"My wife, my two kids, and me, we lived in the rear of my shop," he said. "I get home from the hospital and that night—crack through the window—a stench bomb. My oldest kid wakes up crying and says, 'Daddy——'"

"Object! Object to what his kid said," yelled Attorney Harrington. The witness subsided.

"That was after you quit the union and sent your bundles to another cleaner—the Bluebird," the prosecutor pursued.

"Yes."

"And what happened to the Bluebird?"

A Bomb—and Pickets.

"Bomb!" the witness exploded once more. "Yes, and they called a strike also. I went over and saw a lot of limousines circling the plant. Pickets!"

"That's all, take the witness," the prosecutor finished.

Mr. Lefkowitz was as strident on cross-examination as he had been on direct, and even more belligerent. Mr. Harrington opened by asking if he was a communist.

"I refuse to answer that," the witness said sullenly. "What's it go to do with this trial?"

Argues with Counsel.

"Well, you were a member of the Tailors' union and receiving its benefits at the time you broke the rules and cut your price," Mr. Harrington pursued.

"Benefits! What benefits?" Lefkowitz demanded, continued in that vein until Judge Finnegan instructed him to stop arguing with counsel and answer questions.

An earlier witness, Albert E. Lake, attorney for the dye house of Kraus Brothers and Loewy, 3517 West Madison street, involved Dr. Squires in that plant's labor strife.

Sees Bride First Time

[Acme Photo.]

BAGDAD, Iraq, Jan. 25.—(AP)—Ghazi, Iraq's young king, looked forward to seeing his tall, dark-haired young bride today for the first time since both were children—although their betrothal last September virtually amounted to marriage.

Eleven days after the young ruler succeeded his father, the late King Feisal, his engagement to his cousin, the 22 year old Princess Aliyan, daughter of farmer King Ali of the Hedjaz, was announced Sept. 18. The princess arrived from Istanbul some time ago, but due to the fast of Ramadan and mourning for the late King Feisal, the couple were not given an opportunity to meet until today.

Prearranged plans called for the new queen to leave the home of her father for the royal palace today, formally to take her place beside King Ghazi on the throne. No elaborate ceremony was planned, in accordance with the king's wish, but the monarch invited members of the cabinet and a few other prominent persons to dinner.

It's an old Moslem custom, however, for the queen not to attend the marriage dinner, and she was prepared to occupy herself reading and sewing—two of her favorite pastimes—while King Ghazi was away.

MRS. BLACKLIDGE COUNTS HER WOES AFTER LOVE SUIT

Says She Can't Pay; 'May as Well Go to Jail.'

BY VIRGINIA GARDNER.

Mrs. Myrtle Tanner Blacklidge, who smiled throughout most the hearing of the $100,000 alienation of affections suit brought against her by Mrs. Susanne Nottingham for the theft of the love of the latter's police patrol driver husband, Norman E. Nottingham, shed a tear or two yesterday. A jury before Judge Irving L. Williams in the Superior court had returned a verdict on the previous night, finding Mrs. Blacklidge guilty and awarding Mrs. Nottingham $7,500. It was a "very unfair verdict," Mrs. Blacklidge said.

"I think I am being persecuted," Mrs. Blacklidge, former collector of internal revenue, declared in her apartment at 219 East 79th street, which was repeatedly alluded to by the plaintiff's counsel in the trial as her "rendezvous apartment."

Accused in Faro Game.

Mrs. Blacklidge resigned as collector of internal revenue in 1931, three days after Edward R. Litsinger, politician and attorney, accused her of losing $50,000 of his money in a faro game in Springfield and charged her with being in collusion with swindlers. Her libel suit pending against him, filed as a result of his charges, is still pending.

"Ed Litsinger is back of all this," Mrs. Blacklidge continued in the interview. She wrapped a red striped blue flannel robe about her as she spoke. Beneath the robe showed blue silk pajamas.

"In that game at Springfield, when he accused me of being responsible for the loss of his $50,000, I lost everything I had."

"No Money to Appeal."

Mrs. Blacklidge, who admits 42 years, then adopted what she called a "philosophical" attitude.

"I might just as well go to jail," she said, leaning back in her boudoir finery, her red tinted hair forming part of the color scheme. "I haven't a dime with which to appeal the verdict. And as for Nottingham, I wasn't the first woman to go out with him. And I won't be the last."

If Mrs. Blacklidge fails to pay the damages awarded to Mrs. Nottingham the latter may obtain a writ to force her to go to jail, provided she pays $3.50 a week as a board bill for the time the defaulting debtor is in jail.

Litsinger Is Silent.

Mr. Litsinger, reached at his office by telephone, was told of Mrs. Blacklidge's comments. He said: "I have nothing to say about the matter."

Nottingham called on Mrs. Blacklidge shortly before noon to offer her his sympathy before going on duty driving his patrol wagon at the Grand Crossing station at 4 p. m. Later the policeman, informed that Mrs. Blacklidge still considered him a "fine fellow," replied, "I know it."

Asked if he would continue to live in the bungalow at 8453 Vernon avenue, where Mrs. Nottingham and their 7 year old daughter reside, he said the question was "undecided." The Nottinghams still live under the same roof, despite their difficulties.

Mrs. Nottingham, asked if she would seek a writ to jail Mrs. Blacklidge if payment of the damages awarded was not made, said: "I don't know, but you may be sure I'll do nothing that isn't ladylike." She said she loved her husband too dearly to give him up.

Attorneys John Henrick and Eugene P. Meegan, counsel for Mrs. Blacklidge, said that they and Attorney Murphy O. Tate, counsel for Mrs. Nottingham, would appear before Judge Weaver this morning to present arguments on Mrs. Blacklidge's motion for a new trial.

JUNIOR SECURITY HOLDERS TO GET TRANSIT SETUP

The first complete draft of the financial reorganization plan which will be the basis for consolidating the street and elevated railway systems will be submitted to the junior traction security interests for their consideration tomorrow or Monday, Attorney Walter L. Fisher announced yesterday.

Mr. Fisher, who recently brought the first mortgage bond groups of both systems into agreement on the plan, will hold a hearing next week at which the junior bond owners may express their views of the treatment accorded their securities.

The plan is an amended setup of the allocation of the bonds and stocks to be issued by the unified transit company in exchange for the outstanding issues of the present surface and elevated companies.

Yesterday Superior Court Judge Robert E. Gentzel set a hearing for tomorrow morning on a taxpayer's suit seeking the appointment of a receiver for the city traction fund of $65,000,000. The suit charges that the money has been illegally used for corporate purposes.

DOOLITTLE CITES SWIFT ADVANCES OF U. S. AVIATION

Sees Perfect Schedules by End of Year.

Maj. James H. Doolittle, the first man to fly a plane solely by instrument control, yesterday told members of the Chicago Bar association at luncheon that by the end of this year air transportation will be the only mode of transportation that will never be held up by weather, except, possibly, the slowest mode of all, travel by muleback.

"Last year 98 per cent of all scheduled trips on the airlines were completed," Maj. Doolittle said. "Before the end of this year that percentage is going to be perfect. This record will be accomplished by overcoming the two remaining obstacles to bad weather flying—fog and ice. With the radio beam, the new landing beam, and improved instruments, we virtually have fog licked right now," he pointed out.

Overcome Ice Danger.

"Just the other day I learned that the aviation industry finally has developed equipment to stop the formation of ice on the wings and propellors of a plane in flight. Rubber sleeves which fit over the entering edge of the wing and on the propellor blades have been developed and tested. The airline operator who developed these sleeves says they paid for themselves in two weeks by enabling him to complete schedules through weather he could not have flown without the new devices."

Maj. Doolittle was the speaker at a luncheon given in honor of the Air Law institute of Northwestern university, of which Prof. Fred Fagg Jr. is director. Dean Leon Green of the law school presided.

Leading "Blind" Flyer.

Prof. Fagg introduced Maj. Doolittle as one of the world's leading authorities on blind flying. The major is aviation director for the Shell Petroleum company.

Maj. Doolittle also contrasted commercial aviation in the United States with that abroad, pointing out that his personal experience on a world trip last year was that the United States has exceeded all other nations in this field. There are 600 airliners flying in this country every day, one to each pullman car, and more ships than fly on all other air routes in the world.

FORMER OFFICER DODGES 2 COUNTS; FACES CIVIL SUIT

Michael Sheehan, 53 years old, 4443 Wilcox street, a former policeman, who was discharged from the force following his arrest on charges of reckless driving and driving while intoxicated, won a dismissal of the charges in the Traffic court yesterday before Municipal Judge Nuncio Bonelli. Two women, the complaining witnesses, declined to press the charges. They said, however, that they plan to institute a civil suit against Sheehan.

Sheehan had previously been discharged when the witnesses failed to appear to testify against him, but the case was reinstated at the request of Lieut. Charles Egan, who made the arrest. Egan declared the witnesses had not been notified of the hearing. Yesterday he notified Judge Bonelli he could not appear.

Sheehan drove his auto into the parked car of Mrs. Bernice Curtis and Miss Dary Dapiran, both of 1955 West Jackson boulevard, two months ago. Both women were injured. Before Judge Bonelli, Miss Dapiran said she did not wish to testify and an attorney, representing Mrs. Curtis, said a civil suit is to be filed.

THIEF PUT ON PROBATION.

Louis Kamersky, 19 years old, 418 South Central Park avenue, who went to the police voluntarily and confessed the theft of articles valued at $30 last October, was placed on probation yesterday by Judge Harold P. O'Connell.

HITLER ACTS TO END PROTESTANT CHURCH STRIFE

Hears Leaders of Various Warring Factions.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Jan. 25.—Chancellor Hitler today acted to end the fight over control of the German Protestant church. He called in the leaders of all the warring factions, listened to their pleas and sent them home. He reserved a final decision on the fate of the church, however, until later.

The Rev. Martin Niemoeller, leader of the Pastors' Emergency league, which is rebelling against dominance by the Nazi German Christian group, was given a chance to expound his views to the chancellor at the same time as the Bavarian Bishop Meisel, leader of the moderate group, and chiefs of the German Christians.

Goering Present.

A little later Reichsbishop Ludwig Mueller, German Christian leader, flanked by all the state bishops available in Berlin, marched into the conference. Gen. Hermann Wilhelm Goering, Prussian premier, also attended the meeting.

No word of the assault of the Rev. Gerhard Jacobi, one of the rebel Protestants, has appeared in the German press yet. Though he stated last night that his injuries were not severe, he was not able to arise today. He was attacked in his study a few hours after the issuance of a Pastor's Emergency league manifesto by seven men, none of whom has been arrested.

Constitution Reform Slated.

BERLIN, Jan. 26.—[Friday.]—(AP)—Reform of the German constitution will be asked of the reichstag in a special meeting Jan. 30, the anniversary of Adolf Hitler's elevation to the chancellorship. The proposed reform, which will require an enabling act to be passed by the German parliament, will tend toward abolition of states in Germany.

The proposed reform would vest wide powers in the executive ministry of the interior. This office previously has had to rely on states to execute its orders.

Abolition of state police and state judicial institutions and vesting their power in a federal minister of police and a federal minister of justice is among the proposals.

Delay Austrian Reply.

It was also officially announced that the German government will reply to Austria's recent demarche demanding Germany's guarantee of Austrian independence after due examination of the charges.

(Irritated by Germany's delay in replying, Austrian newspapers have urged the government to call for help from the league of nations council in compelling Germany to cease asserted attempts to "Nazify" Austria.)

Reichsminister Herman Wilhelm Goering's National Zeitung indicated today that the reply would be that official German quarters have never made the slightest attempt to interfere with Austria's sovereignty.

"It is not even a case of a dispute between nations for there is only one German nation, of which Austria forms a part," the paper asserted.

Meanwhile Leo Gallagher, an American attorney for the family of the Bulgarian communist Georgi Dimitroff, who was acquitted in the reichstag fire trial recently, received a letter today from the Saxon government excluding him from the state of Saxony on the ground that he is an "undesirable alien." Gallagher said he expected to "get an answer from Reichminister Goering's office tomorrow as to an order to leave Prussia."

Ex-Kaiser Is 75 Tomorrow.

DOORN, Holland, Jan. 25.—(AP)—Far removed from the turbulent world scene, Wilhelm II., erstwhile German emperor, will observe his 75th birthday Saturday. The birthday celebration will be on a modest scale.

As in other years the day will open with divine services at which some former court preacher from Germany will deliver a sermon to the Hohenzollern family and all their household officials and servants.

LOS ANGELES IS FACING DEFICIT OF $1,503,938

Los Angeles, Cal., Jan. 25.—[Special.]—With an anticipated budget deficit of $1,503,938 as of June 30, 1934, facing them, officials of the city of Los Angeles today said the problem was one of further decreasing revenues.

Mayor Frank Shaw transmitted to the city council a report from Budget Director Knox setting forth the city's pessimistic financial status.

The city's cash reserve was $4,500,000 June 30, 1933, Knox said, but if the deficit is taken from the reserve, reducing it to $3,000,000, he fears Los Angeles will not be able to meet its obligations with cash between July 1 and Dec. 1 1934.

HISTORIC CAREER OF MONOPLANE ENDED BY FIRE

Wilmington, Del., Jan. 25.—[Special.]—The career of the Columbia, historic old monoplane, met a sudden end today when it was destroyed with four other ships in a $250,000 fire at the Bellanca plant near New Castle. Constructed in 1925, the lone motored ship has played a big part in the writing of aviation history. Some of the highlights of its career follow:

Used by Chamberlin and Charles A. Levine to fly from New York to Germany in 1927.

Flown on first round trip nonstop flight between New York and Bermuda by Capt. J. Errol Boyd and Williams in June, 1930.

Flown by Boyd and Lieut. Harry O'Connor from Harbor Grace to Scilly islands and then to London in October, 1930.

Flown by Boyd and two companions to Haiti and back in July, 1932.

Edith Mason Sues to End Her Insurance Trust Fund

Edith Mason Polacco, opera singer, filed a suit yesterday in the Circuit court to dissolve an irrevocable trust fund based on a $50,000 insurance policy which she created in 1929 for her daughter, Graziella, 8 years old. The suit is against the City National Bank and Trust company, successor to the Central Republic bank, which was originally named the trustee. It was explained that Mrs. Polacco's income has dropped and that she wishes the trust dissolved in order to take out a new policy for her daughter.

G. O. P. SENATE GROUP ATTACKS GOLD MEASURE

Dangers of Program Are Pointed Out.

salaries rise more slowly than prices these classes will suffer in favor of equity holders of stock. The insurance policy, savings bank, and other bank deposits, and all small investors, which in total comprise the majority of the creditors, will lose. The fact that it will help the debtor, if it be a fact, will not overcome these severe penalties upon others."

Under the bill all the money would become no better than printing press money, the senator continued. The bill did not, he pointed out, remove the threat of a 3 billion dollar greenback issue authorized in last spring's Thomas inflation amendment.

Then he turned again to the stabilization fund. Its object, he declared, was to carry out a "gigantic form of speculation." He referred to the provision allowing the secretary also to buy and sell in the government bond market. In other words, said the senator, it meant that the secretary of the treasury would engage in "rigging the market."

Fears U. S. Gambling.

"Those who participated in such practices have been roundly condemned," Senator Hastings said. "But right in the midst of it, and before we have forgotten the huge sums of money lost by the poor and ignorant investor by this means of speculation, we are asked to create a fund that will permit the government itself, through its secretary of the treasury, to conduct this sort of gambling. This comes, too, right on the heels of the condemnation of the President of the United States of 'the money changers,' he having declared with much force 'that they must be driven out of the temple.'"

In closing Senator Hastings turned to the question of the proposed act's constitutionality and supported by a long series of citations maintained the legislation might be well attacked on the ground that it seized private property without due compensation.

Doubt as to the constitutionality of the act created a grave danger, he asserted. Other emergency acts of the New Deal might be declared unconstitutional and the country could readjust its affairs with comparative ease to meet the decision, but to revise the entire monetary system and then have the revision disapproved by the Supreme court would, he pointed out, disrupt the country's economic structure.

Austin Continues Attack.

Senator Warren R. Austin of Vermont carried on the attack where Senator Hastings left off. He continued to question the constitutionality of the money bill. Its delegations of authority to executive officials to regulate the redeemability of the currency, the value of the dollar, and exercise of other powers hitherto reserved to congress, clearly placed it beyond the limits of constitutionality, Senator Austin said.

"It is a complete reconstruction of the constitutional grant of power to congress to coin money and regulate its value," said Senator Austin. "It will divest congress of the right to do those vital things so important to the very nationality, as well as the prosperity, of this country.

"Congress cannot amend the constitution of the United States merely by passing a bill through both houses."

The money power of congress, he maintained, was a primary power of which it might not divert itself.

Robinson Defends Program.

Senator Austin's contention led to a running discussion concerning the power of congress to delegate its constitutional functions to administrative officials. Senator Joseph T. Robinson of Arkansas, Democratic senate leader, held that congress could transfer any power to the executive, provided definite rules were laid down for the exercise of that power. The Vermont senator insisted upon his argument that congress could not legislate away certain primary powers.

Senators William E. Borah [Idaho insurgent], Frederick Steiwer [Rep., Ore.], and David A. Reed [Rep., Pa.] broke into the debate.

Senator Borah contended that congress had transferred authority when it set up the tariff commission. Senator Stiewer declared the Supreme court had given its approval of congress' action only because it found that congress had not given away its primary power of taxation. Senator Reed asserted that the money bill set up no such regulations for the guidance of the executive as was required when congress did transfer its powers to an authority in the other branch.

Called "Fiat" Money.

Senators Hamilton F. Kean [Rep., N. J.] and W. Warren Barbour [Rep., N. J.] concluded the Republican debate for the day.

Senator Kean asserted the bill made all currency "fiat" money; that it robbed every citizen who had set money aside for the future, and all institutions, such as schools and hospitals, dependent for their support on a fixed endowment. He declared the sixty cents fixed as the upper limit of devaluation to be far too low and predicted that if that figure were left in the bill, the stabilization fund would be completely used up in two years trying to keep the exchange value of the dollar down.

Senator Barbour likewise attacked various features of the bill. To support it would be to take the popular side, but he felt forced to oppose it because he foresaw its failure.

NEW TAX BILL ALLOWS DEDUCTION ON EARNED INCOMES UP TO $8,000

The income rates proposed in the bill framed yesterday by the house ways and means committee in Washington are more complicated than heretofore because of the reduction allowed for earned income up to $8,000 and because of changes in normal and surtax rates.

THE TRIBUNE'S bureau in Washington had a tax expert draw up the following table which shows the average approximate tax for income in various brackets:

The figures are on net income after exemptions and deductions for losses are made:

Net income. [thou. dollars].		1932 act.	Under new proposals.	Inc. or dec.

Late advices from Washington are that the new rates will probably not be applied to 1933 incomes.

BOOST IN INCOME TAXES IS VOTED BY HOUSE GROUP

36 Million More a Year Is Expected.

against normal taxes. This, too, had been fought by the treasury as opening up a new loophole in the income tax.

The committee, however, adopted one treasury plank put forward by Representative Isaac Bacharach [Rep., N. J.] allowing taxpayers to deduct 10 per cent of their "earned income" from wages and such sources when computing their net taxable incomes.

The committee also agreed to the treasury's position on allowing business to continue full deductions, from their net income for depreciation and to continuing the right of corporations to file consolidated returns for all subsidiaries.

The committee, however, voted to impose an additional 2 per cent tax on corporations exercising this latter right.

Another Defeat for Secretary.

Another defeat for the treasury was the committee adoption of a new plan opposed by Secretary Morgenthau for computing the tax on investment profits or allowing deductions on investment losses. The new plan sets up a graduated scale of taxation on such profits as follows:

"To measure the gain or loss from the sale of property by an individual, according to the length of time he has held the property the following percentages of gain or loss are recognized for tax purposes:

"One hundred per cent if the capital asset has been held for more than one year.

"Eighty per cent if the capital asset has been held for more than one year, but not more than two years.

"Sixty per cent of the capital asset has been held for more than two years, but not more than five years.

"Forty per cent if the capital asset has been held for more than five years."

Before House Next Week.

In the cases where the losses, as computed above, exceed the gains so computed the excess losses are entirely disallowed.

In spite of the overwhelming drubbing which it suffered at the hands of the committee, the treasury was in no mood to fight back today. Secretary Morgenthau announced after his morning conference that he had agreed with the committee, although many of the proposals adopted had previously been held by the treasury as not feasible or desirable.

The bill embodying the committee's plan will be presented to the house next Wednesday. The committee plans to complete work on it tomorrow. The treasury' last chance to defeat it will be when hearings are held on it in the senate.

HARVARD PRESIDENT FLAYS PROPOSED ACT BARRING CHILD LABOR

Boston, Mass., Jan. 25.—(AP)—Dr. A. Lawrence Lowell, president emeritus of Harvard university, today described the proposed child labor amendment to the federal constitution as "about the worst move I have ever known taken in this country."

"The power granted to congress would authorize it to regulate the child and the home to an almost unlimited degree; and the promoters indicated that they wanted to go far. No one except a few fanatics really wants power exercised to anything like the extent to be authorized."

Interpreting the language of the amendment, Dr. Lowell said it would be "within the competence" granted by it to provide that boys and girls up to 18 years of age "shall not do any work, paid or unpaid, in the household, farm, garden, in assisting their parents, or in making, for their own play, buildings, sleds, toys, or anything else."

OAK PARK UNITS' ECONOMIES OPEN WAY TO TAX CUTS

Local governmental units in Oak Park have instituted economies during the last four years which will make it possible for them to relieve residents of the village of a considerable proportion of one year's taxes for local purposes, it was stated yesterday by Otto McFeely, editor of Oak Leaves, village newspaper, and one of the trustees of the Des Plaines valley mosquito abatement district.

Disregarding additional revenue from delinquent taxes, Mr. McFeely listed the tax levies of the various local governments for 1932 and 1933, with the obligations already existing against them, as follows:

Unit—	1932 and 1933 tax levies.	Debts against levies.
Elementary schools....	$2,400,000	$379,478
Oak Park-River Forest High school.....	1,705,000	499,887
Village of Oak Park...	1,704,959	800,684
Oak Park parks.....	207,172	23,000
Mosquito abatement....	117,000	15,000

DON'T LEAN ON GOVERNMENT, BRITON ADVISES

BY JOHN STEELE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Jan. 25.—Walter Runciman, president of the board of trade, in Manchester to investigate the plight of the British cotton industry, particularly in connection with Japanese competition, today pointedly stressed the advantages of private enterprise as compared with governmental intervention in settling trade disputes.

Addressing the Manchester chamber of commerce, Runciman said that if British delegates to the forthcoming trade conference found it impossible to come to terms with Japan, the British government might as a last resort have to step in. He emphasized, however, it would be much better for the British and Japanese industrialists to enter agreements between themselves than to proceed through purely official channels.

Condemns Artificial Stimuli.

Runciman condemned artificial stimuli to business, declaring that the application of American principles in this country would be destructive. If Great Britain is to regain her old industrial position she must do it on merit, he said.

"I can tell you emphatically," the British minister continued, "that by discussion and cooperation we can put you in a stronger position than you are today. All our energy and intelligence are devoted to these problems."

Earlier Runciman engaged in a series of lightning consultations with leaders of the cotton industry. It was revealed that cables have passed between the governments of Britain and India regarding the summoning of a conference to negotiate new trade agreements. An early announcement of the opening of the conference is expected.

New Attack on Jap Trade Ways.

Meanwhile Japanese trade tactics faced an attack from a new quarter. Almost immediately after the arrival in London today of Sir James Parr, new high commissioner for New Zealand, he launched a trade against competition in the far east which he declared is "the greatest menace affecting the empire today."

Japanese goods are pouring into New Zealand at prices with which it is impossible to compete, and despite high tariffs "our methods and trade marks are being copied and our markets cut from under our feet," said Parr. He expressed the view that the problem ought to be dealt with by the empire as a whole.

ROOSEVELT, EINSTEIN CHAT ABOUT YACHTS IN EXECUTIVE OFFICE

Washington, D. C., Jan. 25.—(AP)—President Roosevelt and Dr. Albert Einstein, noted German scientist, found a common ground today in chatting about yachts and yachting.

The President took Dr. and Mrs. Einstein to his office in the executive building. The scientist eagerly examined the array of prints of ships and boats on the walls of the office, and for some time he and Mr. Roosevelt chatted over sea life, their favorite pastime.

Mrs. Einstein served as the interpreter. Dr. and Mrs. Einstein came to the White House last night as the guests of the President and Mrs. Roosevelt and remained overnight.

LITHUANIA PLANS LEAGUE APPEAL ON NAZI DECREE

BERLIN, Jan. 25.—(AP)—Lithuania will appeal to the league of nations unless Germany revokes a 70 per cent restriction on agrarian imports from Lithuania, it was learned here today. A large shipment of Lithuanian horses destined for Belgium by way of Germany was also stopped by German authorities today.

Lithuania protested to the foreign office yesterday against the action on the ground that it is contrary to existing commercial treaties. Germany replied that it is in retaliation for the dismissal of German functionaries by Lithuanian authorities Dec. 20. Violation of a covenant prohibiting the employment of foreigners was charged.

JAPAN TO SPREAD CULTURE ABROAD; PLEADS FOR FUND

[Copyright: 1934: By the New York Times.]

TOKIO, Jan. 25.—To correct the notion that modern Japan is, in the words of a foreign publisher, a "queer mixture of Gilbert and Sullivan's 'Mikado,' and a Prussian drill sergeant," the government, as Foreign Minister Hirota intimated, is inaugurating a plan to spread a broader knowledge of Japanese civilization and culture.

The treasury is providing 200,000 yen and the foreign office is appealing to wealthy persons to bring this up to 1,000,000. [The yen was yesterday quoted at 30 cents.]

Draft Program Submitted.

A draft program has been received from the committee of officials and scholars appointed to prepare it. The objects are:

1. Publication of books on Japanese history, literature, arts, sciences, law, drama and sports, and of similar works on foreign cultures.
2. Establishment of Japanese chairs in foreign universities and exchange of professors.
3. Promotion of lectures on Japanese culture abroad and on foreign cultures in Japan.
4. Exchange of cultural material.
5. Invitation of prominent foreigners to Japan for cultural study.
6. Assistance to foreign students and exchange of students.
7. Liaison with similar organizations abroad.
8. Facilities for motion picture records of Japanese life.
9. Establishment of a central library institute.

Approved by Diet.

The proposal was approved by the diet session in 1933. The foreign office first asked for 2,000,000 yen for a larger scheme.

By such means Foreign Minister Hirota and his colleagues hope to straighten what they call a lop-sided picture of Japan created by jingoistic utterances, whose news value, though ephemeral, gets them blazing publicity.

Do you know

THAT the COMMONWEALTH EDISON COMPANY, Chicago-owned and operated, has three definite interests in maintaining its stability:

Its 890,600 customers;

Its 65,000-odd stockholders and thousands of bondholders;

Its 8,400-odd employes and their families.

These employes, all of whom average ten years in its service and hundreds of whom have been with the Company for more than twenty years, look to it for continued employment and the payment of their wages—wages which are an important part of Chicago's buying power.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—WITHOUT CALOMEL

And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

If you feel sour and sunk and the world looks punk, don't swallow a lot of salts, mineral water, oil, laxative candy or chewing gum and expect them to make you suddenly sweet and buoyant and full of sunshine.

For they can't do it. They only move the bowels and a mere movement doesn't get at the cause. The reason for your downward-out feeling is your liver. It should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily.

If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas bloats up your stomach. You have a thick, bad taste and your breath is foul; skin often breaks out in blemishes. Your head aches and you feel down and out. Your whole system is poisoned.

It takes those good, old CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." They contain wonderful, harmless, gentle vegetable extracts, amazing when it comes to making the bile flow freely.

But don't ask for liver pills. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills. Look for the name Carter's Little Liver Pills on the red label. Resent a substitute. 25c at drug stores. © 1931 C.M.CO.

CUBA OFFERS TO CUT TARIFF ON GOODS FROM U. S.

Seeks Immediate Revision of Reciprocity Pact.

BY GUSTAVO RENO.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

HAVANA, Jan. 25.—Cuba will seek immediate revision of the reciprocity trade treaty with the United States, replacement of the Platt amendment with a bilateral peace treaty containing mutual stipulations regarding war, and revision of commercial treaties with countries in Europe and Asia. These projects were announced today by Secretary of State Dr. Cosme de la Torriente.

"Cuba under President Carlos Mendieta's administration will continue to regard the United States markets as indispensable to the island's economic welfare," the secretary declared.

Seeks to Restore Old Figures.

If the United States reduces tariffs on Cuban products, Dr. Torriente said the Cuban government will give assurance against dumping. He will direct Ambassador Manuel Marquez Sterling to begin negotiations in Washington for a trade agreement.

Cuba would like to restore the 1921 figures when $265,500,000 worth of goods were purchased from the United States and $222,500,000 worth were sold there. Reciprocal purchases in 1931 totaled less than $70,000,000. In that year Cuba's imports from the United States aggregated $32,500,000. Eighty-four per cent of Cuban exports were sold in the United States and 86 per cent of the imports came from there. The ratio of Cuban exports and imports to and from the United States has not changed materially despite the depression or the Smoot-Hawley tariff.

However, Dr. Torriente declared these factors had strangled Cuba's greatest asset—sugar production—and had reduced the island's purchasing power from $76 per capita in 1928 to $19 per capita in 1933.

The secretary said he believes a sugar output of 3,050,000 tons is essential to Cuban recovery. He will ask the annulment of former President Grau San Martin's decree limiting production of 2,230,000 tons.

The figure he suggests would allot 2,300,000 tons for the United States, 500,000 tons for other countries, and 250,000 tons for home consumption. This total is far less than the 1928-'29 production of 5,178,012 tons.

What Cuba Seeks to Sell.

Cuba will seek treaties in Europe and Asia to dispose of 500,000 tons of sugar, as well as bananas, precious woods, honey, rum, alcohol, jerked beef, coffee, tobacco, molasses, and citrus fruit. Cuba plans, however, to give the United States a substantial tariff preference.

The present tariff schedule of the ousted Machado regime will be scrapped at once.

Cuba already has offered the United States to reduce tariffs far lower than those prevailing in 1927 when Gerardo Machado raised the schedules an average of 82 per cent. The Mendieta government now is willing to reduce the tariff by 85 per cent and increase to 40 per cent the preferential rate [which is now 20 per cent], for sugar mill, agricultural and industrial machinery, shoes, pork, iron, and steel, grains, paint, petroleum products, and clothing purchased from the United States.

The reductions will not include leaf and manufactured tobacco, although Cuba is ready to reduce to 35 per cent the existing 60 per cent tax on each package of American cigarets.

In exchange, besides demanding allocation of 2,800,000 tons of sugar asks a tariff reduction from 2 to 1½ cents a pound, and an increase of the preferential rate on all Cuban products to 40 per cent. The government also seeks a reduction of the tariff on Cuban vegetables, fruits, honey, beeswax tobacco, liquors, and beer.

Eau Claire, Wis., Jan. 25.—(AP)—Raymond Velie, 4, whose parents have religious objections to medical care, was not operated on today by physicians ordered by county court to attend him.

Surgeons made further studies of X-ray photographs which show that an infection on a leg has progressed to the bone. An operation may be performed tomorrow, they said.

The boy's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Velie, had refused to sanction an operation, contending that "God will heal him if it is the divine will." Judge George L. Blum, after two hearings, ordered the surgeons to proceed.

IGOE DEMANDS HOLDERS OF TWO JOBS DROP ONE

The James T. Igoe 37th ward Democratic organization, meeting at 8 North Mason avenue last night, voted a demand that men holding two offices surrender one or the other.

Specifically named were Ald. Roger Kiley of the 37th ward, and State Representatives Edward J. Upton and Joseph Rategan, both of the 21st senatorial district, which is in the 37th ward.

Mr. Igoe, a former congressman, said that Ald. Kiley is also ward committeeman; that Representative Upton has a job in the city hall, and that Representative Rategan is chief clerk in the Municipal court clerk's office.

TRIBUNE'S TRADE CAMPAIGN STIRS INTEREST ABROAD

Correspondents Get Letters Seeking Facts.

BY DAVID DARRAH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ROME, Jan. 25.—THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE's campaign launched on Christmas day to expand American export markets through a trade survey made by its foreign correspondents is attracting wide attention in Europe.

American business concerns are writing various foreign correspondents for THE TRIBUNE asking them for advice on how and where to make proper contacts in European countries in order to sell their goods.

The correspondents also receive inquiries from American firms requesting recommendations on reliable agents to place in foreign countries.

The correspondents in most cases are able to refer queries to the local chamber of commerce or other organizations and individuals. Thus, the writers are facilitating and accelerating contacts between American producers and possible markets through branches of American trade bodies in Europe.

This correspondent in today's mail received a letter from the Goder Incinerator corporation of Chicago. The corporation asked about the possibility of sales in Europe. The query, together with illustrative pamphlets was immediately referred by the correspondent to Homer Edmiston, secretary of the American Chamber of Commerce for Italy at 18 Via Monte de Veta, Milan, Italy.

Praise for The Tribune.

Another letter has been received by THE TRIBUNE's bureau in Rome from the Illinois Food Products company inquiring about Italian products. This letter has also been submitted to the Milan Chamber of Commerce.

Praise for THE TRIBUNE'S campaign is expressed by American business executives. The president of the Goder corporation in his letter said:

"We note that our good old friend THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE is still very much in line on constructive thoughts of building up American industry through foreign sales. This is necessary to settle economic conditions both at home and in foreign countries and I hope you will be successful in carrying through the program."

Turkish Experts in London.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Jan. 25.—The vanguard of the Turkish trade mission to England arrived in London today. It is composed entirely of coal experts under Refip Bey of the ministry of mines. Refip Bey last month made an exhaustive survey of Turkish coal fields for Premier Ismet Pasha.

The Turks will consult with British mining engineers daily with a view to purchasing the latest machinery for intensive production. Despite the great progress made at the famous Zunguldak mines, Turkish coal costs more on the Bosporus than foreign coal due to the restricted output. In 1902 this mine produced 380,000 tons; in 1923, 416,000 tons, and in 1933, 1,600,000 tons.

NRA EXTENSION, CRY OF MINERS AT CONVENTION

Indianapolis, Ind., Jan. 25.—[Special.]—Permanency for present provisions of the National Industrial Recovery act was urged today by the United Mine Workers of America at their international convention here.

The delegates voted down a proposal for government ownership of public utilities and basic industries, but favored extension of the recovery act.

"We believe the present plan of the National Industrial Recovery act, which seeks to regulate and control public utilities and industry, is the best method of dealing with the problems affecting the people of this country," said a resolution adopted by the convention.

Another resolution adopted instructed officers of the union to "do all within their power to cause the National Recovery act to become a permanent law."

Extension of machinery into mines, opposed by a local union at Universal, Ind., was countered by one for "a shorter work day and week and toward a greater participation in the blessings of invention, science, and progress." That resolution was adopted.

DENIES REPORTED PLAN TO WRECK ILLINOIS THEATER

Reports that the Illinois theater, for thirty-five years one of Chicago's leading playhouses, would be torn down to make way for an automobile parking lot were denied last night by Charles H. Binney. Mr. Binney is chairman of the bondholders' committee which owns the theater and also vice president of the Continental Illinois National bank.

Mr. Binney indicated that such action would be virtually impossible. Unanimous consent of the bondholders would be necessary, he said, and several are known to favor retention of the property as it stands. No parking lot proposal has been presented to the bondholders, he asserted, although several rental offers have been received from garage operators. It is expected that the theater will remain closed.

The report of the parking lot plan followed the relinquishment of a lease yesterday by Ralph Kettering, who has been operating the theater. The Illinois was built in 1898 by the late Will J. Davis, dean of local theatrical managers for many years. Many of the leading figures of the stage played there.

Aladdin Would Rub His Eyes, Not His Lamp, At Gas Jobs

The chores of gas are many and demanding, but whatever the demand, the unfailing supply is always ready.

Even Aladdin with his magic lamp might hesitate if he were suddenly asked to cook 800,000 meals within an hour.

Yet that is exactly what Chicago gas service is asked to do every evening, when the whole city gets ready for the evening meal.

There is no magic about it. It is but the routine function of an organization which has spent 83 years in learning and practicing how thus to serve its customers.

Between the hours of five and six o'clock every evening these customers demand some 80,000 therms of gas—ten million cubic feet—with which to prepare the evening meal.

Behind this faithful service are 4,000 experienced workers, half of whom have spent ten or more years in the service, and more than 5,700 miles of interconnecting mains, both necessary to provide for this everyday task so important to every household.

Your home measured free for Gas Heating cost

DAY by day, thousands of Chicago-land families are becoming real boosters for gas heat from actual experience in their own homes. The more they use it, the better they like it.

You, too, will want to know all about this modern method of heating. The kind that eliminates all furnace drudgery, promotes cleanliness and makes the home a better place in which to live. Then why not get all the facts on heating your home with gas? We'll gladly send a heating engineer to measure your house and tell you how much it would cost to heat it with gas. Just mail the coupon.

He'll tell you all about our trial plan. How we install gas heat in your furnace or boiler at our expense. You simply pay $3 a month rental on the equipment in the average home while you are trying it. This charge is included with the bill for the gas you use. If within one month, two months or a year, you decide that you don't want gas heat we'll take it out and replace your former heating equipment in good workmanlike order.

To prove that every home can now afford to heat with gas, we'll install it at our expense . . . and remove it at our expense, if you don't like it.

But if you decide that you want to keep gas heat, the rental that you have paid applies on the purchase price of the equipment.

End furnace tending forever

Take advantage of this liberal offer to end furnace tending forever. To be rid of coal shoveling; sifting, shaking and hauling ashes; chopping kindling; watching and waiting for heat to come up; setting dampers and the dozens of other nuisances of furnace tending. Besides, walls and drapes stay clean much longer. Basement dirt is not tracked upstairs because you never even have to go downstairs to look at the furnace.

With gas heat, you fire your furnace from your easy chair by simply setting the little thermostat on the wall. Day and night you have temperatures just as you want them, automatically.

Mail the coupon

Don't delay in getting the facts on automatic gas heat. Remember, the heating engineer will give you full information without the slightest obligation on your part. Just mail the coupon, or telephone Wabash 6000.

Gas heat can be installed in your home without allowing the house to cool off.

MERGER OF U. S. ARMY AND NAVY BUREAUS SEEN

Congressional Pressure Expected.

BY JOHN BOETTIGER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 25.—[Special.]—Pressure for the merging of bureaus within the war and navy departments is to be applied from Capitol hill during the present session of congress, and much of this pressure will hold that both the army and navy organizations are out of date and lagging behind the newest military orders.

It is charged by congressional leaders that not only are the American military establishments befogged in a bureaucratic haze but that society fetishes are preventing the modernization of both units.

The condition of the army's cavalry and infantry is cited to prove both points. In modern organization the mechanization of advancing troops is held practically to have wiped out the former line of demarcation between the two branches.

Duplicate Services.

Both infantry and cavalry now employ tanks and automatic weapons. Military experts find little use for cavalry horses in future wars. Thus the infantry and cavalry are to all practical purposes one, but the army still clings to a separation under which sets of officers and bureaus are maintained for each branch.

This raises the contention, mentioned by several congressmen, that a "social lobby" in Washington is preventing the necessary reorganizations in the army and navy. The social distinction lies in part in having more officers than are needed, but also, within the branches, in a more sentimental vein. The cavalry, for example, has held itself aristocratic, the infantry brave, the engineers intellectual, and the artillery technical.

Upholds Present Order.

Gen. Douglas MacArthur, chief of the army staff, upholds the present order of organization, and in his recent annual report he labels as "absurd" any claim that reorganization of the army could save millions. He stands for progress by "evolution" rather than by "revolution," because, as he puts it, the personnel of the army is "familiar" with existing organizational and procedural lines.

Gen. MacArthur cites with obvious pride the fact that the army has cut out a lot of paper work, that it has issued an abridged edition of army regulations, and that post and regimental personnel sections have been discontinued.

Advise Infantry-Cavalry Merger.

But elsewhere in the army can be found experts who concede that the cavalry and the infantry could easily be merged; that the chemical warfare section could be joined with the ordnance department; that the signal corps could be given to the engineer corps; that the many separate clerical bureaus could be combined under a single head, all in the interests not only of economy but efficiency. There is ample evidence that the field artillery and the coast artillery, still maintained as separate departments, have grown so similar in activity and planning as almost to demand consolidation.

RUSH BIG NAVY BILL

Washington, D. C., Jan. 25.—(AP)—Certain that the president wants the legislation, house leaders today cleared the way for approval tomorrow, or next Tuesday at the latest, of a bill to give America a modern, full treaty strength navy by 1940 or 1941—four to five years after present treaties expire.

At the same time it was disclosed that the navy department hopes eventually to have 2,100 serviceable fighting, bombing, and scouting planes instead of the 1,000 now allowed by law.

On the appeal of Chairman Vinson of the naval affairs committee, the rules committee granted legislative right-of-way to the Vinson treaty naval bill. Under that bill the President would be allowed to order construction of an aircraft carrier and the submarines and destroyers necessary to replace existing ships of those classes which are so old as to be of no fighting value.

Representative Byrns of Tennessee, Democratic floor leader, and Representative Martin of Massachusetts, acting Republican floor chief, agreed that the bill will pass with only a few opposing votes.

Two Bandits Rob Couple and Girl in N. Side Streets

Two bandits held up two young women and a man on the north side in separate robberies last night. In the first they held up Benjamin Hersh, 4625 Malden avenue, and Miss Betty Brisgall as the couple sat in Hersh's car in front of Miss Brisgall's home at 1417 North Shore avenue. Hersh was robbed of $2.50 and two watches and Miss Brisgall of $2 and a watch. Next the bandits held up Miss Elinor Kahne, 1235 Granville avenue, near her home and took two rings valued at $500 and also took $14.50.

KANSAS PROSECUTOR ACQUITTED IN BOND PLOT IMPEACHMENT

Topeka, Kas., Jan. 25.—(AP)—The Kansas senate court of impeachment acquitted Attorney General Roland Boynton of misdemeanor charges today. Then by a vote of 31 to 2, motions to quash four articles of impeachment against Will J. French, state auditor, were defeated, decreeing his trial, started immediately after the Boynton acquittal, shall be continued.

On only one of the four articles of impeachment on which Boynton was tried was there a majority for conviction. The vote was 22 to 18, or five less than the required two-thirds majority.

The charges against both Boynton and French were brought by the house of representatives in connection with the operations of Roland Finney, 35 year old bond broker accused of engineering the million dollar swindle. Finney now is under penitentiary sentence for forgery.

Tom B. Boyd, who resigned the state treasureship under fire, is on trial in District court on charges of illegally removing $266,600 worth of bonds from the treasury. Boyd closed his defense today without taking the witness stand.

CANADA TO BUILD PUBLIC WORKS TO SPUR RECOVERY

Parliament Opened by King's Agent.

BY GEORGE SMITH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

OTTAWA, Ont., Jan. 25.—Traditional pomp marked the opening of the fifth session of the seventeenth parliament of Canada today. The glittering spectacle framed forecasts of a $50,000,000 public works program to relieve unemployment and hasten the return of prosperity, a farm marketing board, a lower tax on liquor, and monetary reforms, including the establishment of a central bank.

This intended legislation was outlined in the speech from the throne by the earl of Bessborough, the governor general and the king's personal representative, in the gold roofed senate chamber.

Vice-regal reference was to be made to Canada sharing in the world's return toward economic stability. Lord Bessborough's words were significantly supported by the parade of Dame Fashion with her $1,000,000 worth of gowns and other finery purchased for the parliamentary opening.

Of major interest to Canada's leading industry—agriculture—was the announcement that the government realizes further increases in price levels are necessary to insure success to those engaged in farming and that legislation designed to facilitate the efficient and profitable marketing of live stock and agricultural products will be passed.

The price of silver will be enhanced by absorption of about 2,000,000 ounces annually from dominion mines by the Canadian government. The world wheat agreement limiting Canada's exports to 200,000,000 bushels this year will also be ratified. In contemplated revisions of the elections act, the Liberal party opposition in the house of commons sees an intimation of preparations for an election in the next year. The Liberals intend to deploy for a grand offensive on the government of Premier R. B. Bennett.

CONVICT OIL MAN OF WITHHOLDING $15,251 STATE TAX

A jury in the Criminal court of Judge Donald B. McKinlay yesterday found Ben Burakoff, 7843 Colfax avenue, guilty of withholding from the state payment of gasoline taxes amounting to $15,251. A fine of $10,000 was assessed as his punishment. Sentence was withheld pending a hearing Jan. 29 on a motion for a new trial.

Burakoff was the operator of the Blue Star Oil company. The unpaid taxes were for sales alleged to have been made by the company in March and April, 1932. In his trial, which lasted for more than a week, Burakoff declared that while he had sold the gasoline he had not collected from his customers and hence had no money to pay the state. Assistant State's Attorneys John O'Hora and William J. Lancaster, who prosecuted, brought in proofs that the gasoline merchant was solvent at the time.

According to Mr. Lancaster, the state is now suing Burakoff to recover the taxes due.

Rob Autoist After Forcing Him to Drive to Quiet Spot

Four bandits held up Edward Richards, 4954 North Rockwell street, early today, and robbed him of $45. They accosted him as he drove up in his car in front of his home, got into his car, and drove him to a spot several blocks away, where they took his money.

TAX COLLECTION IS HELD UP BY OFFICIALS' DELAY

Extension of Penalty Date to April 1 Expected.

TAX COLLECTIONS.

Real estate tax collections yesterday were $243,007, making a total of $102,983,813 collected since enforcement of the Kerner-Skarda act began on April 28, 1933. The day's collections of real estate taxes and the uncollected taxes for four years follow:

	1928.	1929.
Jan. 25	$ 13,561	23,343
Uncollected	15,466,390	41,339,319
	1930.	1931.
Jan. 25	$ 64,512	143,891

The day's collections of 1931 personal property taxes totaled $4,360.

Failure of various county officials to get their work done on time again has delayed collection of taxes, it became known yesterday. The law fixes March 1 as the penalty date for payment of personal property taxes and the first installment of real estate taxes for 1932, but the delay will make necessary court action to extend this, probably to April 1.

The situation marks another year's failure in the race to make up the year's lapse in tax collections caused by the 1928 reassessment. That delay, putting tax collections more than a year behind, has been equally responsible with tax delinquencies and tax strikes for the financial distress of Cook county governments.

Penalty Date Extended.

It was proposed several years ago that the delay be made up by putting a levy in collection once every ten months. By the time 1932 bills are payable, however, nearly a year will have elapsed since the penalty date on 1931 bills. That was extended, by court action brought by the Chicago Real Estate board, from March 1 to April 8, 1933. Similar action to extend the 1932 penalty date was suggested yesterday by Edward J. McCabe, secretary to County Treasurer McDonough.

Assessment of property and the billing of taxes against it is a continuous process, somewhat comparable to an automobile assembly line. Yesterday each county official pointed to the office behind him in the line as being responsible for the delay in his own work.

Treasurer McDonough approved the final proof for the tax bills only yesterday, but pointed out that he would have no use for the blanks if they were ready. The only duty of his office is mailing the bills after they have been prepared, and that work can be finished within 48 hours after the last batch of bills is received from the county clerk, Mr. McCabe said.

County Clerk Sweitzer must first compute the tax rate for each of more than 400 taxing districts in the county, which requires about two weeks, and then prepare some 2,000,000 personal property and real estate bills, requiring from two to three weeks. Work had not been started yesterday on the rates.

Waits for Tax Books.

J. T. Butler, chief of the tax rate division, said that he could not start work until he received all the tax books from the board of tax appeals in certified form. The personal property books for three city towns, including the loop and New Trier township, were still missing yesterday, he said.

George T. Hughes, secretary of the tax appeals board, however, asserted that the last tax books were sent to the county clerk on Jan. 19. Originally the appeals board had promised to finish the books by Jan. 12. Assessor Jacobs, who starts the assessment and tax collection process, pointed out that he promised to deliver the last tax books to the appeals board by Dec. 23 and actually finished delivery on Dec. 22.

Three Runaway Girls Found in Downtown Hotel Lobby

Three runaway girls were found in a downtown hotel lobby this morning and turned over to police. They are Ruth Sowinski, 16 years old, 5234 North Ashland avenue, a high school graduate, and Dorothy Adamski, 15, of 5218 North Ashland avenue, and Jean Koperna, also 15, of 5230 North Ashland avenue, students at Harrison High school. The girls said they were planning to go to New York.

A TRUE STORY
By A FATHER
who asked the doctor what to do for his children

MOST of these true stories you've been reading have been by mothers. Well, here's one by a father, proving that fathers, too, some times may be worth having around the house.

Mr. Roger Clifton Dickey, of Salem, New Hampshire, is a well-known author of magazine stories.

"I'm the proudest daddy in the world with my two splendid children," he writes. "Carol Ann is nine, and she's a mighty sweet girl, too. Herbert Clifton (Buddie) is four, with a hundred percent grin.

"Three years ago, when Carol was in the second grade, she brought home a note from the school nurse which had us all worried. Her grades in school were not too good, and she was under weight. Naturally, we took her right to the doctor, who summed up all the trouble in two words, 'improper elimination.'

"Of course, we had been using Nujol off and on for many years, but from that day on we have never been without it.

"Carol is a very different girl now, and a few days ago she brought home another note from the school nurse. This one read, 'There has been a fine, consistent gain in Carol's weight.' When she passed from the third to the fourth grade, she got eleven A's out of twelve studies, and she got A for the entire year in health! I think that's a splendid record, don't you?

"So far as Bud is concerned, he started Nujol as soon as Carol did. He was only a year old at the time, and of course nature did the rest. He started off right, and he's been splendid ever since. You might call him a preventive rather than a curative case, for Bud is a walking advertisement for Nujol.

"Here are a couple of pictures of my children. I am glad to allow you to publish this letter, because maybe some other father may see and discover something in it that will help his kids to be well and strong too."

Well, fathers, how about it? Won't you follow Mr. Dickey's example? Bring your children up on Nujol and keep them regular as clockwork. Nujol comes in two forms, plain, and Cream of Nujol which is flavored and often preferred by children.

What is your Nujol story? If you have been using Nujol for ten years or more, if you are bringing up your children on it, tell us. Address Stanco Incorporated, 2 Park Avenue, New York City.

MORTGAGE DEAL OPPOSED BY LEE, EVIDENCE SHOWS

Offers Documents to Prove Innocence.

Evidence was introduced yesterday to show that Attorney John H. S. Lee, an associate in the law firm headed by former Senator Charles S. Deenen, opposed the alleged deal to overmortgage a 30 acre tract of land near Waukegan and dump the securities into the portfolio of the Security Life Insurance company and its affiliate, the Northern States Insurance company of Hammond. Lee and five other defendants are on trial in Judge Benjamin Epstein's Criminal court on charges of conspiracy to loot the treasuries of the two insurance companies.

The Waukegan property, which was known as the Manufacturers' Terminal corporation, was sold to Charles R. Surface, a defendant in the case, who turned state's evidence and said he acted only as the dummy in the transaction. Attorney Lee produced letters, minutes of the meetings of the stockholders of the Terminal corporation and contracts to show that he opposed the transaction and did not know all of the details.

Accuses State's Witness.

Mr. Lee testified that much of the testimony of James H. Benjamin, the state's star witness, was "pure fiction." He said Benjamin was one of the cleverest men he ever talked to but is a "moral quack."

Attorney Lee produced documents to show that he started to sell out his interest in the Terminal company in September, 1929, and that the deal was finally consummated in December of that year. He sold his interest to Harry W. Huttig, another defendant. Most of the mortgages involved in the alleged swindle were executed after this time.

"I never got a dollar in cash out of this deal," Attorney Lee said.

Tells of Morigages.

On cross-examination the attorney said he did not know the value of the property but that at one time he was willing to sell it for $600,000 when such an offer was made. At that time the property was mortgaged for $300,000. He said he would not have paid $3,500,000 for the property, which was the valuation fixed on it under the mortgage transactions.

During the remainder of the session witnesses were called to show that Benjamin, the state witness, was working with John Factor in an effort to discredit Attorney Lee. The latter at one time was engaged by the British government to prosecute Factor on alleged stock swindles in England.

BUILD 'BIGGEST ELECTRIC SIGN' OVER I. C. TRACKS

The largest electric sign in the world, according to engineers, is under construction over the Illinois Central railroad tracks north of Randolph street. The sign will be 242 feet high and 150 feet wide. It will be lighted by 14,000 bulbs and 7,000 feet of neon tubing.

The sign is being built by the Kenwood Erection company for the Federal Electric company and will advertise Chevrolet motors. The sign will have a clock on its face with a minute hand 27 feet long. There will be an elevator in the sign to facilitate changing of bulbs. At maximum brilliance the sign will use 240,000 watts.

Pile Sufferers
Can You Answer These Questions?

Do you know why external remedies do not give quick and permanent relief?

Why cutting does not remove the cause?

Do you know the cause of Piles is internal?

That there is congestion of blood in the lower bowel—the veins flabby, the parts almost dead?

Do you know that there is a harmless internal remedy for piles discovered by Dr. Leonhardt and known as HEM-ROID that is guaranteed?

HEM-ROID banishes piles by removing the cause. It stimulates the circulation in the lower bowel—drives out the thick impure blood, heals and restores the affected parts.

Dr. Leonhardt's HEM-ROID has an almost unbelievable record of success. So why waste time on external remedies or worry about an operation when Walgreen's invites every Pile sufferer to try HEM-ROID with guarantee of money-back if it does not end their Piles, no matter how stubborn the case?

"The newspaper is an institution developed by civilization to present the news of the day, to foster commerce and industry, to inform and mold public opinion, and to furnish that check upon government which no constitution has ever been able to provide."

AIDS TO THE MILK INDUSTRY.

It has been suggested to Gov. Horner that he include in his call for the next special session the subject of state regulation of the milk industry. The proponents of this idea may find something in recent experiences with the code to encourage them in the belief that more of the same would get some good results. If they have found such encouragement they are very ingenious.

Mr. Wallace and his assistant administrators some time ago gave the Chicago milk shed the best of the New Deal genius, with the result that the milk industry was curdled in a way it hadn't been before. The mayor and the city council finally got the situation straightened out after a violent strike, and there is some hope that if the federal government will keep its hands off the cow the city will get along fairly well.

What the milk industry appears to need is more industry and less regulation. By more industry is not meant a reflection upon the leg work of the milk producers and distributors, but a suggestion for more head work. It can be repeated that the use of milk is like the use of many other articles in competitive production. The consumer cannot be tied to its horns, but he can be induced to use more largely of the product. He can also be driven to use much less of it. There are necessitous uses for milk, but they will not take the whole product of the Chicago milk shed. Increased use can be promoted by attractive prices and attractive qualities, as is true of uses more imperative than that of milk.

As a beverage milk must gain customers in competition with many other beverages—fruit juices and beer, to name two of them. Price is always a factor in consumption and a fixed price, fixed beyond the willingness of the customer to pay, will not promote the use of milk. Regulation tends to standardization, and that discourages much of the enterprise needed to get customers. A successful milk policy will be one offering the user a choice of varieties of milk at prices which satisfy him as fair.

THE CITIZENS' ASSOCIATION.

The fifty-ninth annual report of the Citizens' Association of Chicago calls attention to the activities of a useful organization. For more than a half century this body of public spirited men has endeavored to accomplish the purpose set forth in its constitution when adopted in 1874: "To insure a more perfect administration in our municipal affairs; to promote the general welfare and prosperity of the city; to protect citizens, so far as possible, against the evils of careless or corrupt legislation; to effect the prompt enforcement and execution of the law; to correct existing abuses of law, and to prevent their future recurrence."

Such organizations as the Citizens' association are invaluable in a community. The lack of them would indicate one of two things—the existence of government almost perfected in its true serviceability in all its branches, a condition which may be regarded as at least slightly Utopian, or the indifference of all citizens to the various phases of public life. Such indifference would be warrant for anything that happened. However bad it was it would be deserved.

The Citizens' association and its kindred organizations in Chicago serve the public by making the investigations and studies they have qualified themselves to make, by giving public information, and, quite as important in its way, by revealing to the governing officials that there is a watchful public interest.

THE STEEL CODE AS A HORRIBLE EXAMPLE.

Mr. W. S. Tower, executive secretary of the Iron and Steel institute, tells the world, apparently with pride, that since the steel code went into effect the direct outlay for wages has increased 70 per cent for each ton of finished steel.

An examination of his figures discloses that in June the steel companies paid $24,434,000 in wages. In November, with the code in effect, the wage bill was $24,838,000. The increase of $404,000 is something over 1.6 per cent and is so small as to be negligible as an influence on the national purchasing power. The cost of living has increased more than that.

The 70 per cent increase which found its way into the headlines, no doubt to the great satisfaction of Gen. Johnson and Mr. Richberg, is a very different matter. It has nothing to do with the purchasing power of labor which NRA was intended to increase. It means merely that less steel was made in November than in June, though normally November is a bigger month than June in the steel business. Accordingly the cost of what was made was higher by 70 per cent than it was before the code became operative. The labor in a ton of finished steel cost $13 in June and $22 in November.

An examination of these figures reveals no social gain of consequence and a great social loss. Because of the code less steel has been made and less steel has been sold to those who want it. Therefore there is less work for those in steel using industries. A clearer example of the fundamental absurdity of NRA as a measure of recovery could not be found.

The road to recovery, it cannot be said too often, is not the road of higher costs and higher prices. They can only serve to prolong the depression. Larger volume of production and not higher prices is the way out.

DIMINISHING RETURNS.

At the end of the fiscal year 1932 the government looked at its books and found that it had fallen nearly three billion dollars short in collecting enough to pay expenses. That is a modest deficiency by present standards. But it was not so then, for we were in 1932 still the old fashioned people who believed that a deficit was more to be spurned than sought after. Congress and the administration resolved to do something about it.

There are two ways to cure a deficit: Spend less or collect more. The government elected to do the latter. Taxes were laid on gasoline, automobiles, soda pop, and fifteen other items. That was supposed to produce 450 million dollars. The postoffice was put down for 160 million dollars by raising the letter postage rate. A tax on checks, admissions, telephone messages and the like, was credited with 152 million dollars. And thus the budget was put in balance. But was it?

Calculating what a tax on incomes will bring isn't a simple problem of multiplying what people made last year by the new rate of assessment, although that has been the assumption back of most of our fiscal legislation. The income tax in 1932 produced a little over a billion dollars. To get the desired larger amount in 1933, it was reasoned that all that was necessary was to raise the rate, eliminate exemptions, reduce credits, and put into effect administrative regulations of a more stringent order. Hadn't the income tax produced nearly four billion dollars in one year? It had and there certainly must be more where that came from.

The internal revenue report for the past fiscal year has just been published, and it should remove many of the illusions of those who planned the government finances for 1933. Not only did the income tax receipts fail to yield the four billions of a peak year, the three billions of the depression year 1921, or the two billions that an income tax always seemed good for, but they actually fell 300 million dollars below those of the preceding year. A higher rate produced 30 per cent less than the lower rate had yielded the year before.

There is a point in taxation beyond which increases in rates produce not more but less returns. The rates in the tax law of 1932 obviously went beyond that point. Under the most favorable conditions business enterprise is an uncertain risk. More often business fails than it succeeds. The successful business man must be permitted to keep for himself a substantial portion of what he might earn or he will not engage in new ventures. If the promise of reward is not large enough in the event of success, the fear of failure is too powerful and the risk of loss is not taken. An income tax law defeats itself when its rates are so excessive that it discourages those who are expected to pay from engaging in income earning activities.

The present depression is being prolonged by the absence of any new activities except those governmentally paid for, which require capital goods. Funds may be necessary to provide relief during a depression, and an income tax may be an appropriate means of collecting a portion of the money required. But an income tax which removes the incentive from business enterprise prolongs depression and the need for relief.

GOVERNMENT INFORMATION.

Included in the data supplied by the war department for the information of proponents of the Great Lakes-St. Lawrence seaway is the statement that the twenty-seven foot channel would permit eighty per cent of the ocean going cargo vessels of the principal maritime nations of the world by number and seventy per cent by tonnage to navigate the great lakes. The disparity between the percentages leaves the somewhat disconcerting impression that in the twenty per cent that would be excluded are the world's best, and consequently most economical, carriers.

Further, the statement appears that "5,457 vessels with a combined tonnage of twenty-two million tons have a draft, fully loaded, of twenty-six feet or less." Because of the known difference between the buoyancy of salt water and fresh water a vessel that would draw twenty-six feet in the salt water Gulf of St. Lawrence would require ten per cent more draft, or twenty-eight and one-half feet, in the fresh water canals, where only twenty-six feet navigable depth will be available. The draft will vary with the vessel, but a boat loaded at a foreign port for a twenty-seven foot fresh water canal could scarcely risk any greater depth than twenty-three and one-half feet.

[Bloomington, Ill., Pantagraph.]

One of the most revealing little stories to come out of Soviet Russia recently was that telling how Russian women are demanding a new deal in the matter of clothing.

Under communism the state clothing trust has striven to give the citizens clothing that will be durable and comfortable, but it has paid no attention whatever to style.

Pride in one's appearance seems to be a hallmark of the bourgeois attitude; the citizen of a communist state, one gathers, has no business worrying about his or her looks.

But now the people of Russia, and especially the women, are getting tired of clothes that are like an endless series of drab uniforms. They are demanding style, snap, decent colors, trimness; and the clothing trust is beginning to hearken.

A Moscow store the other day displayed—for just about the first time since the revolution—a formal dinner gown.

Human nature, evidently, is about the same under communism as under capitalism.

THE SOB SISTER.

She—Why not?

He—We'd feel we weren't doing right by our knell.—Exchange.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

How to the Line, let the quips fall where they may.

THE BAN IS OFF "ULYSSES"! You can go right into a store now and ask for the book without blushing or saying that you didn't want to read the horrid thing yourself; you were just buying it for Aunt Laura, who had a rotten mind. But before this if you were caught with a copy of "Ulysses" on you then you were liable to be jailed, fined, or shot at sunrise. But what a changing world! Now you can buy it at bookstores, drug stores, newsstands, grocery stores and everywhere else, and it's just as respectable and proper to buy it as it is to buy coffee, whisky, neckties, milk or gin.

IT'S VERY EASY to understand "Ulysses" if you only read it the right way. You must stand on your head while you read it and hold the book sideways. As you read it you must recite backwards "Curfew Shall Not Ring Tonight." It is better to read "Ulysses" in the French edition. But you say you do not read French. Ah, so much the better. In that case the meaning becomes much clearer.

AT A DINNER if the lady on your right begins right after the soup on "Ulysses" by asking you what you think of it, all you need to say is that you think the doctor was the murderer, although it may have been the janitor, but that the author's attempt to make you believe the old grandmother did the killing is proof enough that she didn't, because you've read enough detective stories not to be fooled that way.

YOU DON'T HAVE TO SAY any more. If anybody asks you your opinion of "Ulysses" you can be very sure that they don't care two hoots in Hades what your opinion is. All they want to do is to unload their opinion of the book on you. All you've got to do is to stand back and let 'em rave.

WHEN THEY GET perfectly red in the face and their eyes get glassy and they seem to be choking to death you had better come across with a few words on the subject until they catch their breath, rest up a minute or two and get going again. But don't say you like "Ulysses" very much, because that makes a "Ulysses" fan act like he had hydrophobia. People may say they like a certain kind of cigaret, or a certain brand of chewing gum, or a particular make of chocolate caramels. But they mustn't say they like "Ulysses." Oh, gosh, no. When any one asks you that you must shudder, turn pale and jibber when you mention the word "Ulysses." You'll build up such a reputation for erudition and exhaustive knowledge you'll be asked to lecture to a woman's club.

SILVER GHOST.

The memory of some lovers' hour,
Lingering after love is done,
Is like that softer radiance
Which owes its being to the sun;

Is like the moon which will not leave
The sunless earth to utter night,
But makes the silver ghost of day
Out of lovely borrowed light.

ADELAIDE LOVE.

EVERYTHING ONE BUYS in the drink stores nowadays seems to be "blends." I wouldn't mind blends really if they wouldn't blend in so much red pepper. But the rum clerks say the hootch in the prohibition era was jazzed up so high that the American taste was destroyed and that now they insist on whisky that has a bite. Some of the blends I've met have a bite all right. A bite and a kick and a punch and a strangle hold.

"ITALY BOOSTS DUTY 60 Per Cent on American Cars to Protect Her Own Infant Industries."—Headline. Hey, Italy, stop that; you're stealing the very foundation of the Republican party. You send that Protection of Infant Industry thing right back to the U. S. A. where it was invented, patented, copyrighted and privately owned by the G. O. P. Gosh, Italy! have a heart! That's about all the Republicans have left. Would you take the last crust away from the poor things?

FEEBLE PROTEST.

Nuts to advertising copy
Ballyhooing endless floppy
Hats and linen suits for where it isn't snowing.
How can I expect to knuckle
Down to working when each buckle
On my luggage hints at packing up and going?

Compensations must be many,
But I'm damned if I've found any.

DALE FISHER.

FROM THE TRIB. Friday, Jan. 26, 1934: The Illinois legislature in session at Springfield yesterday was again unable to pass a liquor control bill. For over fifty years now the legislature has wrestled with the problem, but the only clause in the proposed bill on which there seems a unanimity of opinion is the one that requires the motto over all bars—"An Egg or a Clam with Every Drink."

"SEEK TO DISCOVER Cause of Loss of Railroad Revenue."—Headline. It's probably because all those who ought to be buying tickets in the depots are lined up outside along the highway wriggling their thumbs at the automobiles.

NAMES.

Of all symphonic names romance has starred,
Including Launcelot and Abelard,
I wonder why when some man stirs my heart
His name's prosaic, Albert, George, or Art!

LILA TERRY.

GREECE wants to get rid of Mr. Insull, the administration wants to get rid of the CWA and Russia would like to get rid of the Japs. How true it is that in this world we all have our troubles. THE WHITE MAN AND ALBINOS.

ALBINISM is a condition in which there is almost an entire absence of the pigment which gives color to the skin, the hair, and the eyes. It does not affect the pigments of structures other than these. The blood is properly red, and the liver, kidneys, muscles, and other organs within the body of an albino are normal in color.

Albinos are animals (including men) born with the condition called albinism. Albinism affects whites, blacks, and reds among men, and probably also browns and yellows. It affects fish, guinea pigs, rats, and a long list of other animals.

Why it is, no one knows. It is congenital but not inherited, and, like birthmarks and cleft palates, there is no good explanation. Probably this occasional tendency to albinism has been present in man and animals since the world began, and probably also the tendency toward it is not on the increase.

There is a speculation that albinism explains the origin of the white race. In the beginning, this surmise says, the man animal was pigmented. Somehow or other a male and a female albino came to be born. They mated, and, for some reason contrary to present inheritance law, the quality of whiteness or deficient pigment appeared to stick. Their children were white. This theory probably is not true, but there are legends of white men found in America by visitors to the early Indians that are almost certainly based on instances of albinism.

Nearly every one of the more intelligent Indian tribes had this white man legend. Cortez found it when he landed in Mexico, and Montezuma's belief in it caused him to welcome the Spaniards half way. The Chickasaw Indians had the same legend in Mississippi. So had the Cherokees in eastern Tennessee. It was one of the legends of many tribes of Indians in various parts of the country.

One of the best descriptions of albinism is that of Wafer, written about the San Blas Indians in Panama in 1699. Allsoff wrote of an Indian tradition of "a strange white race which preceded them." The Cherokees tell us that when they first arrived in the country they found it possessed by a certain moon-eyed people who could not see in the daytime. They were considered an albino race, "and these wretches were expelled. They lived in houses made of logs and covered with dirt. They made war on them and drove them away."

This is almost exactly the Chickasaw tradition. Barton wrote of albino Indians in 1797. Some of the statements written by Wafer one hundred years before Barton wrote are worth quoting:

"They are white and they are of both sexes. Yet there are few of them in comparison of the copper colored, say one in three hundred. When two of them marry their children are red. Albinos are born to the copper colored. It is not a question of women lying with white men, for white men seldom go among these Indians, and when they do they have but little commerce with the women.

"A cross between a white man and an Indian woman is of a different appearance. They are born that way. I have myself seen one that was less than a year old. They differ from other Indians principally in respect of color, though not in that only. Their eyebrows are milk white also, and so is the hair of the head, and very fine withal and inclined to curl. They are not so big as other Indians. Seeing so clear as they do on a moonlit night, we used to call them mooneyed.

"For they see not very well in the sun poring in the clearest day, so that in the daytime they cannot go abroad unless it be a cloudy, dark day. They are weak people and not very fit for hunting and other laborious exercise. The copper colored Indians seem not to respect these so much, looking on them as somewhat monstrous."

ICE AND APPENDIX.

A Reader writes:

1. To what exient do ice applications aid appendicitis patients?
2. Has the cold any direct action on the appendix?
3. Does it serve to ease the pain before the operation temporarily?
4. Would you advise it to be done to a patient before the doctor comes?

REPLY.

1. To a limited extent, but enough to determine whether some cases require operation.
2. Yes, practically speaking.
3. Yes.
4. Yes.

BANKRUPTCY.

Chicago, Jan. 17.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—I was working for a bakery concern which required a $100 bond. This was taken out at a rate of $5 a week until paid. I then received a receipt for $100 cash bond on Nov. 17, 1931. In the following year, 1932, he filed voluntary bankruptcy and the routes which we were running were transferred to another concern of which he was made general manager. He promised to return our money, so we didn't go to court, but when he got his release from court he claimed he did not have to give us the bond money. Can we sue him or have we any legal way of getting this money back? E. S.

Section 732 of the article on bankruptcy in Corpus Juris is in part as follows: "While a discharge extinguishes the debt as a legal liability, the moral obligation of the debtor to pay is not extinguished, but constitutes a sufficient consideration for a new promise by the debtor to pay the debt, which may be enforced against him. In order to constitute a new promise there must be a clear, distinct, and unequivocal recognition and renewal of the debt as a binding obligation, but it is not necessary that the new promise should be in writing. . . ."

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

INSURANCE.

Chicago, Jan. 20.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—A party wants to take out insurance on another party without the second party knowing anything about it. The first party will be beneficiary and agrees to pay the premium. The first party is a cousin of the second party. Can he do this? F. Y.

There is a general rule of public policy against a party's taking out insurance on another person's life where he has no "insurable interest" in that life. This means that for the policy to be valid you should stand to gain by the continuance of the life of the insured and to lose by his death. On the bare facts stated we would doubt the validity of the proposed insurances.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

FROM ACROSS THE SEA

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN.—A great number of German castles, once the seats of luxury loving princes and great feudal lords, are now serving the new masters in Nazi Germany.

The Mindelburg castle, on the northern slopes of the Bavarian Alps, has been converted into the "National School for Peasant Leaders." Here the young farmers, picked as leaders of the newly founded "agricultural estate," receive their National Socialist training. Membership in the "agricultural estate" is compulsory for everybody employed in farm work.

Mindelburg had its heyday in the fifteenth century, when it was the stronghold of the powerful feudal lord, Georg von Frundsberg. He was in charge of the imperial army as "highest captain of the Holy Roman Empire."

Castle Hohenstein, in Saxony, one of the oldest castles in Germany, has been converted into a prison for political offenders.

Perched high on a steep rock, with its heavy gates and drawbridges closely guarded by Nazi storm troopers, the castle offers no chance for the enemies of the third reich to escape.

In the early middle ages the castle was the stronghold of the haughty robber barons, Von Michelsberg. In the middle of the fourteenth century the castle passed into the possession of Hinko Berka von der Duba, a powerful lord, whose landed property stretched far into Bohemia. In the fifteenth century Castle Hohenstein was owned by the electors of Saxony. Ample opportunity for salmon fishing and deer hunting made the castle one of the favorite retreats of the Saxon rulers.

In the middle of the nineteenth century the castle glamour dimmed and it was converted into a reformatory. Later the castle was turned into an inn. With its 100 rooms and beautiful location in the so-called Saxon Switzerland, it was a favorite goal for thousands of youthful hikers in Germany.

Castle Kepp, in Saxony, will be converted into an old people's home under the present régime. It was erected by Count Marcolini, once prime minister of Saxony.

During his premiership the finances of the country suffered heavily. Nevertheless he erected beautiful palaces all over the country, gave full time work to the famous Meissen china factory, and when he died he left to his heirs, besides many other treasures, 350 heavily embroidered waistcoats.

In the latter part of the nineteenth century Castle Kepp became the property of the grand dukes of Mecklenburg-Strelitz. After that it changed hands repeatedly. For several months it served as headquarters for a Steel Helmet labor camp.

Recently an attempt was made to auction off the castle. The minimum price was fixed at $36,000. The highest bid was made by the two daughters of the grand duchess of Mecklenburg-Strelitz. The youngest daughter, Jutta, is Princess Danilo of Montenego.

The sale showed that there is no market for feudal palaces in Nazi Germany. The highest bid was $23,000. The castle will now be converted into a home for the aged.

Another castle to be taken over by the Nazis is Castle Seeburg, near Mansfeld, in central Germany. It serves as a school for political leaders of the Nazi party.

Castle Neuenburg on Unstrut was recently occupied by the Hitlerite Fighting League for German Culture. Castle Sachsenburg, near Zschopau, in Saxony, was converted into a school for National Socialist women leaders.

BUSINESS RUINED BY A CODE.

Metropolis, Ill., Jan. 18.—Your editorial on "Planners and Politicians" regarding the Connecticut manufacturers' appeal for relief from the NRA code was interesting to the writer because our own plant in southern Illinois is having experience in a similar way under the lumber code.

Our veneer plant located on the north bank of the Ohio river has been placed by the lumber code under a 30 per cent higher minimum code wage than for competing plants in towns just across the Ohio river on the south bank.

This arbitrary discrimination with such a large and unreasonable 30 per cent wage differential between competing towns on opposite sides of the Ohio river has, of course, resulted in our plant having to shut down, with its two hundred employés put out of work.

Our company has been in operation for over fifty-five years, and if we want to continue under the lumber code we would have to move our plant from Illinois across the Ohio river into Kentucky.

NEW ATTACK ON THE HOLC.

Chicago, Jan. 19.—I am wondering if it has escaped the notice of every one that the Home Owners' Loan corporation is now in the hands of the Chicago Real Estate board? It is not a favorable position for them to be in, nor is it a favorable position for the C. R. E. board. And it most assuredly is an uncomfortable position for Uncle Samuel, besides the forgotten man, who in the last analysis is called upon to pay the bill.

All the members of the C. R. E. board are real estate men, forming the association to benefit their members, and use its influence to promote their best interests.

It is like placing in the hands of a defendant the power to act as judge and jury at his own trial, besides paying him a fortune for his time, and allowing him to place his own value on the property of all his relatives, and then go over to the U. S. treasury and get the cash.

THE CITIZEN'S RIGHT TO ARMS.

Berlin, Wis., Jan. 16.—Just a line to let you know that I believe your article entitled "The Right to Bear Arms," in last Sunday's paper, hits the nail right on the head. If our lawmakers would read it and act accordingly we would have better and saner gun laws. You surely have the thanks of every law-abiding citizen for the timely subject.

AN INTRODUCTION TO LINCOLN.

Fort Wayne, Ind., Jan. 23.—We wish to take this occasion to express our appreciation of the very fine thing you are doing in contributing over the radio and through THE TRIBUNE information which will cause a deeper appreciation of Abraham Lincoln's life.

It appears to me that the crossword puzzle contest is altogether worthy and its educational features woven in with the Lincoln story make a significant approach to the 128th anniversary of Abraham Lincoln's birth.

LOUIS A. WARREN.

STREET CAR VS. BUS.

Chicago, Jan. 16.—Just as an innocent bystander, I wonder why it is that the politicians, press and other self-appointed guardians of the people's interests always pick upon the street car and elevated companies, and yet never make the slightest criticism of the bus company!

The street car companies have to maintain their rights of way, and when they do make any money have to pay 55 per cent of their net profits to the city. The elevated company has a very substantial investment in its right of way and has to pay taxes aplenty on it, and both maintain just about the highest wage scale for their employés of any similar lines in the country.

On the other hand, the bus company, its vehicles undermanned in the most congested districts in the city, as far as I've learned, pays nothing for the privilege of running its buses on most of the choicest streets and boulevards, the pavements of which their heavy vehicles pound to pieces, while buses passing each other and failing to keep in their designated lanes are the cause of much traffic delay.

Yet, with all these extra privileges they enjoy, the 10 cent fare charged by the bus company seems to raise no protest, while the cheaper fares of the elevated and surface lines are constantly the subject of attack.

There's something funny about this situation somewhere. Do you know where it is? WALTER G. PIETSCH.

COCKTAIL PARTIES.

Lake Forest, Ill., Jan. 15.—A recent editorial in THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE emphasizes the "proper use" of beverage alcohol and extols the "amenities of fine wines with fine food," at the same time denouncing the drinking of cocktails as evidence of a crude and brutal taste in food and drink.

May I venture to remind you that the young women who edit the social views in THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE are evidently quite innocent of such fine distinction? It would seem that they are doing their utmost to spread the glad tidings of liquor ad libitum in general, and cocktails in particular, ad nauseam to many of your readers.

If, as you assert, you are opposed to hard liquor, to the extent of refusing advertisements for such liquor in the world's wettest newspaper, would it not be well to turn a watchful eye in the direction of other departments of your paper, which would appear to have received contrary instructions?

CATHARINE COLVIN.

A WAY TO SAVE MONEY.

Chicago, Jan. 22.—You can cause a big reduction in taxes levied for Cook county poor relief if you will start a campaign to force the Cook county commissioners to follow the example set two years ago by Los Angeles county and transport to their former homes in other counties and other states all persons who are public charges on Cook county who have resided in Cook county less than 20 years. This program will rid the city of the masses of pauper Negroes who came here because they imagined a former mayor was the reincarnation of Abraham Lincoln.

G. O. P. INSURGENT FORCES SUGGEST A PEACE PARLEY

Extend Olive Branch to County Committee.

The Crowe-Barrett-Pacelli group of Republican ward committeemen, which has been at odds with the county central committee over the slate of candidates for the April 10 primary, yesterday made overtures for peace. Its leaders proposed a meeting with representatives of the central committee to settle their differences.

The insurgents bolted the central committee when a tentative slate was made known. They charged that George F. Harding, former county treasurer, was dominating the preparation of a county ticket and set out to name their own slate. Now, in the interest of harmony, they propose to submit their grievances to arbitration.

Send Letter to Weber.

"We are eager to have harmony so that it will be possible to elect a Republican ticket in November," said George F. Barrett, spokesman for the rebels. "We are sending a communication to William H. Weber, chairman of the central committee, suggesting that he appoint a committee of five to meet with the same number of representatives of our group."

The central committee now has a group of 13 committeemen working on a slate. This body was to have reported last night, but its labors were uncompleted and the scheduled meeting of the central committee was recessed until tomorrow afternoon.

The Democratic nominating committee will start work today to sift out candidates from the hundreds of names submitted to it. Ald. John Toman [23d] had been the only name put up for sheriff until yesterday when Thomas J. Bowler, president of the sanitary district, was suggested by the 41st ward Democratic organization.

Submit Jarecki's Name.

The name of County Judge Jarecki and Judge Peter H. Schwaba have been submitted for county judge. A third candidate for the office is Municipal Judge Thomas A. Green, who announced he is having his petitions prepared.

Citizens' Action, a civic organization in the Hyde Park district, yesterday urged the Democrats to nominate J. L. Jacobs for assessor. It suggested that both parties leave ward committeemen off their slates or else have office holders or candidates resign their political posts. George O. Fairweather, assistant business manager of the University of Chicago, acted as spokesman for the group.

JUDGE UPHOLDS A HUSBAND IN ALIMONY FIGHT

Judge Rudolph F. Desort, in the Superior court, yesterday upheld the contention of Attorney Harry X. Cole that it is inequitable for a childless young woman to receive permanent alimony from her husband under a separate maintenance decree which prohibits him from remarrying.

Attorney Cole represented George H. Apperley, 6042 South La Salle street. Apperley was threatened with a sentence to the county jail alimony row because he was $230 in arrears in alimony payments to Mrs. Alice Apperley, 35 years old, 7938 South Wabash avenue, who won a separate maintenance decree against him in 1928. They were married in 1921.

"This is an inequitable situation," asserted Attorney Cole. "The couple have no children. Mrs. Apperley has drawn alimony already for almost the length of their marriage period, and her husband is prevented from remarrying. If she will not amend her bill and get a divorce, I wish to file a cross-bill for divorce on behalf of the husband."

Mrs. Apperley amended her plea and Judge Desort granted her a divorce on the grounds of desertion. He reduced Apperley's alimony payments from $10 to $8 a week, and provided that they should stop after three years.

$812,000 "PROFIT" REPORT OF STONE FIRM ADMITTED

Frederick Doyle, former advertising manager for H. O. Stone & Co., defunct real estate investment concern, testified in Federal Judge Philip L. Sullivan's court yesterday that he prepared an address for Henry F. Norcott, president of the company, which claimed a profit of $812,000 for the business in 1928.

Doyle was called as a government witness in the trial for five former Stone officials on charges of using the mails to defraud. The government contends that the Stone company, which failed in 1930 for $14,000,000, was losing money at the time the address was prepared.

Doyle, asked if the 1928 financial statement was prepared by a Stone official, whereas outside accountants had done the work in previous years, said that he did not know.

Howard Shaw Memorial to Be Open Today

Antiquarians to See Gallery at Art Institute.

BY JUDITH CASS.

THE annual reception of the Antiquarian Society of the Art Institute this afternoon will be even more important than it usually is—and it always is one of THE important social events of each winter—for it opens the Howard Van Doren Shaw memorial gallery in McKinlock court.

The late Mr. Shaw not only was one of Chicago's best known architects but he was a trustee of the institute and one of its stanchest friends and the architect of the beautiful theater that the William O. Goodmans built as a memorial to their son, Kenneth Sawyer Goodman. So it seemed fitting and appropriate that a group of his friends should contribute to a fund—the contributions were large and small and there were a great many of them—to establish a gallery in which architectural gems should be exhibited as a memorial to him. Architectural treasures worthy of having a place in this gallery are hard to find, so David Adler and Robert Allerton searched for several years before they found enough to open the gallery. Their search has been well worth while, however, for the pieces that will be seen today are stunning bits of architecture. More of them anon, however, for it is with the social side of the reception that we should be concerned, although we found it hard yesterday to remember that after a preview of the gallery.

Relatives Will Attend Reception.

Mrs. Potter Palmer, president of the Antiquarians, and Mrs. Shaw and the three Shaw daughters, Mrs. John T. McCutcheon, Mrs. Clay Judson, and Miss Theodora Shaw, will receive this afternoon from 3 to 5 o'clock. Pouring will be Mrs. J. Ogden Armour, Mrs. Charles B. Goodspeed, Mrs. Frank Mulford, Mrs. George A. Ranney, and Mrs. Kersey Coates Reed, and acting as guides will be some of the younger members, including Mrs. Oakleigh L. Thorne, Mrs. Potter Palmer III., Miss Geraldine Swift, and the Misses Eleanor and Patty McCormick.

The tea table, decoraied by Mrs. James Ward Thorne, will be laid in a small room on the McKinlock court adjoining the Shaw gallery. In this room are some interesting architectural pieces, not part of the Shaw exhibit, however, including a pulpit from the Zoar chapel in London built in 1700 by Sir Christopher Wren and given to the institute by Robert Allerton 15 years ago and kept in storage until now; a pine chimney piece from West Harling hall in the County of Norfolk, England, with a portrait of the owner of the house, Richard Gipps, above it, given to the institute by the Antiquarians, and a corner cupboard from a taproom in old Port Tobacco, Md., when used to be a busy port and now is a tiny settlement.

Beautiful Pieces in Shaw Gallery.

The Shaw gallery has only a few exhibits now, but they are of such beauty and interest that one is glad there aren't any more. A fine old English house at 179 Lower Clapton road, Hackney, London, that was built in 1703 and was torn down recently to make way for business buildings, contributed three of the loveliest examples of architecture, a gate and piers which are exhibited now so that one looks through the great gate into the McKinlock court, the exquisitely carved pine doorway of the house, and a lead cistern which stood with its mate on either side of the garden door. These cisterns, explained Miss Bessie Bennett, curator of decorative arts, yesterday, caught the rainwater that was carried down from the roof by pipes and from them was taken all the water for the household and garden.

If they were decorative they stood near the front or the garden door, but if they were strictly utilitarian they were put at the service door.

The one in the Shaw gallery is decidedly ornamental, embossed with symbols of the seasons, of faith, hope, and charity, and various other things, and with the initials of the owner, William Burton, on it, so even if she weren't sure of it Miss Bennett would feel safe in saying that it was in a prominent place.

Charming Pine Doorway from Lombard Street.

A charming pine doorway [1700] from Lombard street, London, where a group of very wealthy Jewish merchants used to live, is there, and another beautiful English doorway of the 18th century illustrating the Chinese-Gothic period. The only exhibit in this gallery that is not 18th century English is a fascinating doorway from the old Freeman house in Freemansburg, Pa., that was built at the end of the 18th century.

Another gem in the Shaw gallery is a shop front from 4 Market place, Faversham, a village about sixty-five miles from London, in which are exhibited a rare collection of old shoes, most of them the gift of Mrs. J. Ogden Armour and some of Mrs. Potter Palmer.

In writing so enthusiastically about the permanent exhibits we may seem to be forgetting the temporary ones that are opening today, bead pictures loaned by Mrs. Frank Mulford and paper weights loaned by Oakleigh L. Thorne, but we don't mean to neglect them, for they are interesting, too. Many of the bead pictures are amusing because of the naiveté of their subjects, or perhaps of those who made them, but all are marvelous examples of this form of needlework.

Use Flowers for Heads of New Hairpins

BY RHEA SEEGER.

New things that will go to your head!

Tiny gold and silver hairpins fastened to tiny poppies, cornflowers, or daisies, charming "finds" for the very young shopper. Or you can buy clusters of buds and blossoms similarly anchored to metal hairpins to be tucked in among your curls.

And what is probably the best collection of small side and back combs, plain and undecorated, is now ready for the appreciative buyer. They have been missing for seasons, so a rush is expected.

New white collar and cuffs ensembles . . . all of them fluttering and almost dripping with lace, ruffles, and frills. Quite devastating accents for the many simple black and dark daytime frocks that shriek for white contrasts to make them the irresistible costumes you have dreamed about.

Look for the crisp cross-barred organdies in ruffled wide ascots and cascaded jabot effects that will snuggle provocatively under the high chin line . . . the all white lace affairs that are as fragile as only lace can be, and some exciting new nets edged with narrow rickrack braid, and some white "sheers" frosted with narrow Val. lace in puckered rows on both well fitted collar and cuffs.

There is gay costume jewelry splashed with Mexican color schemes, spicy bold, blazing lines of black, orange, scarlet, and green on ivory composition clips, bracelets, and matching earrings. They will do grand things for fuzzy dark wools. And some sheer linen handkerchiefs, also blazing with this hot Mexican color contrast, are as new as anything you can find.

Amazingly refreshing new blouses are in . . . dainty things of dimity and pastel tinted organdy, with white models trimmed with contrasting color also in the spotlight. These flattering, very feminine new models can be worn immediately with two piece dark silk and sheer wool suits. They are subtle hints of the charming lingerie white and pastel tints that will be unpacked for spring suits in a few weeks.

Noted British Critic Declares Opera in England Is "Washout"

LONDON, Jan. 25. (AP)—Sir Thomas Beecham, noted conductor and critic of music, calls opera in England "a washout."

"There is no future at all for opera here or for opera singers," he told the Society of Musicians, "and it is best to face the fact.

"We cannot produce in this country the type of voice necessary for a dramatic soprano in the German sense of the term. I bet £100 to a brass farthing that no such voice exists in this country or the British empire. I have heard them all."

THROUGH THE LOOKING GLASS

Fashion for Faces—Paste rouges seem to have it all over the compact kind for the moment, perhaps because they lend themselves so well to the slightly shiny effect the best groomed skins are wearing now. Any number of the good cosmetic lines have a paste product.

And one salon on the boulevard simplifies the selection of the right rouge with a tricky little fan shaped chart based on what they estimate to be the eight basic skin tones. When their makeup expert matches you up with its help the chances of breaking out in the wrong color cheek spots are absolutely nil. And she'll not only match you up but make you up—all free-for-nothing if you'll just phone for an appointment.

Fashions for Fingers—A delectable shade of nail polish that doesn't make you think of raw meat but still isn't wishy-washy is a blend of light and dark cherry in one of the good brands. Bright but not bizarre. . . . And then there are two white enamels for the nail tips to be found on State street and in some drug stores. Even the stubby fingered can fake tapering nails with it. It's applied over the tips just as polish is to the lower part of the nail. We tried it out on several people—and one friend who is guinea pig for a lot of our experiments reports that it helped keep her nail tips from splitting.

A company that pioneered in the nail polish field, both dry and liquid, and which should, and does, know all about hand care, has brought out a dandy cream for bleaching and softening. Because it's quickly absorbed and doesn't leave the hands messy it's fine for the poor working girl who has to wash her hands a dozen times a day.

And, if you're wondering what to do about scraggly outlines, remember that more than one Chicago shop will trim out your eyebrows with an electric machine—a boon to squeamish sisters who can't stand the irritation of tweezing. You hardly know it's being done.

BY CHARLES COLLINS.

The Players' Guild, composed of south siders who love the drama and refuse to let it die, have scored a "scoop" on the professional stage by giving Chicago its first taste of the playwriting of Mordaunt Shairp, a new Britisher whose "Green Bay Tree" is now an important subject in the talk of New York. This piece, presented in the Chicago Woman's club theater last night, is called "The Crime at Blossoms," and it proves to be a quaint little item in the line of humorous murder mysteries.

A double murder has been committed in the rural cottage that a debt-stricken young couple leased to summer lodgers. They return to find that their happy home has become a point of national interest and a shrine of melodrama which morbid trippers love to inspect. So the young wife, worried by her lazy husband's reluctance about earning an honest penny, converts the cottage into a professional chamber of horrors—admittance, one shilling—and delivers lectures about the crime to busloads of trippers.

In the end the real murderer returns to the spot where the bodies were found and tells the true story, thus upsetting a growing business and putting an end to the ballyhoo that had annoyed the neighbors. It's a neat bit of British whimsey lightly satirizing the murder mystery "fans."

The Players' Guild cast struggles sincerely with various forms of English dialect—public school, cockney, Oxford, and rural—and, barring a chronic slowness in tempo, they make a good semi-pro job of the performance. The stage setting, showing the interior of an Elizabethan cottage much esteemed for its ancient beauty, is excellent.

"The Crime at Blossoms" will be repeated tonight and tomorrow night.

May-berry Wreath.

BY NANCY CABOT.

This dainty wreath, in soft greens and yellow, is apropos of early spring and all natural beauty. A spread made of May-berry wreaths is of a loveliness that affords a certain spirited uplift, as well as gayety and life. Artistic needleworkers can transfer these qualities to their blocks, and thus create rare treasure to pass on to posterity.

Once "Richest Church" Will Have Birthday

St. Chrysostom's No Longer "Society" Project.

BY RUTH DE YOUNG.

Is there a "society" church today?

The question has arisen on the eve of the fortieth birthday anniversary celebration tomorrow at St. Chrysostom's church, once styled by the late Bishop Charles Palmerston Anderson as "the wealthiest church in Chicago."

As to St. Chrysostom's the question is answered by an official of that parish: "This is no longer a wealthy parish. That day is past. St. Chrysostom's is a hard working, ordinary type of parish with a well balanced program embracing every stratum of society."

Interesting and true. The budget of the church, which has been the scene of many fashionable weddings, is proof in itself. It has turned somersaults backward the last couple of years.

With good effect, however. Members who had thought of the church only in terms of an 11 o'clock Sunday morning prayer, a bridal veil, and a corsage of Easter orchids are rediscovering it in terms of its vital part in community life and its ministration to rich and poor alike.

"Mention St. Chrysostom's by way of fashion or society to a goodly number of its faithful members today and you immediately start an argument," remarks one who is an intimate observer. "The depression has mellowed the congregation into a hard working and sympathetic whole."

Especially is this apparent in the community center sponsored by the church and now directed by Miss Louise Neff through Mrs. William E. Parsons, chairman of St. Chrysostom's social service committee. Three hundred children from back of Clark street come to the church four afternoons a week to learn gymnastics from Miss Anne Byron Smith and Miss Dorothy Dewes . . . to study in the little library with Miss Barbara Eldridge . . . to play games and solve puzzles with Miss Eleanor Jerrems. And it's well known that these post-debutante teachers anticipate the sessions just as much as if not more than their Greek, Italian, and Polish pupils.

Dr. Norman Hutton, a former rector of St. Chrysostom's and one of the most beloved ministers ever to have served the church, will want to visit the community center this week-end. He is arriving today from his home in Wellesley, Mass., to attend the fortieth birthday celebration and to be the guest of Frederic F. Norcross, the senior warden, at his apartment in the Ambassador East.

The three days of festivity which have been planned with a spirit of democracy in mind will hold interest for every member of the parish, the youngest to the oldest. They will start this evening at 8:15 when the Rt. Rev. Herman Page, formerly of St. Paul's, Kenwood, and now bishop of Michigan, preaches a sermon in the church auditorium.

Tomorrow the anniversary of St. Chrysostom, the program will open at 7 o'clock in the morning with a holy communion service and continue with a second celebration at 10 o'clock conducted by the Rev. John C. Evans, formerly acting rector. At 3 o'clock Dr. Hutton and three former curates will address the young people of the parish at the anniversary service of the church school. In this audience Dr. Hutton will discover the children of many of the young couples whom he married during his twenty years as St. Chrysostom's rector.

After the holy communion service at 8 o'clock Sunday morning and the 11 o'clock festival service preached by Dr. Hutton, the fortieth birthday party will come to a close with a reception in the guild room between 4 and 6 Sunday afternoon.

The rector and Mrs. Dudley S. Stark and members of the women's guild, with Mrs. Harold Eldridge as the president, and Mrs. D. Mark Cummings, honorary president, will receive. Assisting as hostesses will be Mrs. George A. Ranney, Mrs. Bruce Borland, Mrs. Fletcher Durbin, Mrs. George B. Foster, Mrs. Joseph H. King, Mrs. M. Paul Noyes, Mrs. John T. Redmond, Mrs. Harold C. Smith, Mrs. Albert A. Sprague, Mrs. Benjamin F. Taylor, Mrs. L. Parsons Warren, and Mrs. Edmund J. Doering.

Front Views and Profiles

By June Provines

A BIT of humor was salvaged from even so serious a situation as the milk trouble. A fellow who recently opened a small independent milk depot was worried considerably because his wife helped him in the store and he was afraid she might be harmed by the trouble makers. It was explained to him that no one would harm her, as all any vandal would be interested in doing would be to threaten the owner by destroying milk or throwing a bottle through the front window, and that such a gesture usually was made in the early hours of the morning.

Suspense—Puns—Paraphrase. Meditation—Indignation.

The dealer said he hoped that if a bottle would be thrown in his window it would happen soon and be over with, so his wife would be in no danger. He did not mention the matter for several days after this discussion. Then early the other morning he called the friend with whom he had been discussing the situation.

"It happened," he cried gleefully.

Naturally the answer was: "What happened."

"My wife will be all right," he answered. "A milk bottle was thrown through the window at dawn."

A FELLOW writes in that B. J. Gartlan says that dreadful pun we perpetrated last week about the Ceres atop the Board of Trade building at least taught him what the big statue really is. He always had thought it was the grain-eyed monster.

AND Dick Francis points out that from Harriet Monroe's pointed criticism of "Forgotten Frontiers" in the January issue of Poetry magazine, it would seem that all Dorothy Dudley's book needs is a little Monroe doctorin'.

A FRIENDLY impulse that came to nothing was that of Mrs. Charles H. Bush, who recently returned from the Far East with her daughter, Carol, leaving her other daughter, Emmeline, in Peking with Mrs. William Calhoun, to study. She decided to stop at Kyoto in Japan to see Mrs. E. W. Everett, who went to Japan last autumn to continue her studies with the Zen sect of Buddhists. Unfortunately, Mrs. Everett had just gone into the Nanzenji temple for a two weeks' stretch of meditation, during which time she would not emerge. Mrs. Bush and her daughter didn't wait.

TWO ragged panhandlers, who for the moment had stopped their activities, stood before the plate glass window of a Michigan avenue fur store.

"That's not Hudson seal," one of them said indignantly.

"No! It's a rank imitation," responded the other with equal heat.

Finds Sunday School Boys Are No More Honest Than Others

Sunday school boys aren't any more moral than the youngsters who slip away on the Sabbath to go fishing or to caddy at a golf club, Edward Randolph Bartlett, graduate student in education at Northwestern university, reported yesterday.

Mr. Bartlett made his statement as a result of an investigation of the effect of weekday classes in religious education. Pupils who attend such classes are superior in Biblical information to those who do not, and slightly above the average in ethical information, but this knowledge, he found, did not have any bearing on honest behavior. The religious education students scored about 16 per cent higher on tests of New Testament knowledge and 8 per cent higher on questions from the Old Testament.

"In the ability to make ethical discriminations," Mr. Bartlett stated, "sex differences do not appear to be significant. As regards deceptive behavior, the same proportion of religious education and nonreligious education pupils cheated in classroom tests.

"Biblical knowledge and information were found to bear practically no relation to honest behavior among either the religious education group or others, and membership in Sunday church school is apparently unrelated to honest behavior, as measured by present tests. . . ."

Anita Loos Answers Van Loon Attack on Hollywood Culture

Hollywood, Cal., Jan. 25.—(AP)—The lament of Hendrik Willem Van Loon, 270 pound Dutch writer, on Hollywood culture brought a pert retort today from Anita Loos, 100 pound writer of the movie colony.

Stopping here yesterday on a world cruise, Van Loon said motion pictures have corrupted the world's culture and manners.

"What better breaks is art getting anywhere than are being given it by Walt Disney, Garbo, Chaplin, and Dressler?" demanded Miss Loos in reply today.

"Next week," said Miss Loos, "Leopold Stokowski is coming out here to start pioneering work for great music in films."

Described by Miss Loos as her "old high brow palsy walsy," Van Loon deplored that "wherever you go you find people imitating the monstrosities of Hollywood."

"In Australia," he said, "they take you out and say 'Loo here, we are just like the United States'—and what you see is not the United States but a reproduction of Hollywood movie sets."

"Cheer up, Hendrik," the author of "Gentlemen Prefer Blondes," advised. "It may irk you that Australia is growing to look like Hollywood. But what did it look like before?"

Economical tips for week-end food shoppers—a weekly radio feature—will be presented today by Mary Meade over station W-C-N. Tune in at 2 o'clock for Miss Meade's market chat.

BY MARY MEADE.

Ever make candy out of apples? It does have a weird sound, I'll admit. But it happens to be one of the brightest ideas some sweet toothed candy lover has yet thought up. A thoughtful soul has already christened them most appropriately, so I'll not exert myself, but merely tell you about one of the most pleasant confections to eat and to make that I have yet bowed unto. The name, to skirt further palaver, is:

APPLE CRYSTAL.

For this you will need a crisp, juicy apple. The Jonathan or Delicious will, either of them, accommodate you. The proportions are:

2 cups sugar
1 cup water
1 medium apple

Cook the sugar and water over a slowly dawling flame until they boil. Meanwhile peel, core, and cut the apple into quarters. Now proceed to cut each quarter into three slices. Drop these slices into the bubbling sirup and cook with gentle care until they are transparent and easily pierced by a woodpin (pu-leese don't call them "toothpicks"!)

Now fish the slices out of the sirup, treating them kindly to prevent breakage. Drain them over the sirup a moment, then place them on a sheet of waxed paper for twenty-four hours. At the end of this time roll them in granulated sugar and then roll again in sugar at intervals of twenty-four hours. If moisture seeps out on the paper transfer the apple crystals to another sheet. After the third rolling let the slices lie on the paper until no more moisture exudes and they have taken to themselves a dry, crystalline appearance. At this point the job is complete and the crystals may be packed away in a covered container and kept in a cool, dry place. This amount of sirup, by the by, takes care of five apples, one-quarter cup of hot water being added to the sirup after skimming out each batch of twelve (one apple).

But if you're out stalking variety don't let any one persuade you that all apple crystals must be of the same size and shape. To give them more of a feeling of fun cut the apple crosswise before coring, then remove the core and cut gay shapes from the rings with a vegetable cutter. All sorts of these cutter affairs are now on the market to help a gal in cutting up. One is a friller with a score of other uses to make it practical. With this a double or single ruffly frill may be skrewed out and crystalized as were the slices.

Then, still on the subject of apple crystals, try these out as candies or find other uses for them. I've even caught smart hostesses using them to garnish fruit salads, to top off an ice cream service, or to glorify the whipped cream dashed over the crest of a dessert.

Which settles the crystal question. But have you yet taken a nose dive into apple possibilities and come out with Apple, Carrot, and Raisin Salad, Baked Maple Apples, or Almond Crusted Apples?

The salad is made simply after this fashion:

APPLE, CARROT, AND RAISIN SALAD.

Use an equal measure of apples (sliced thin with their skins on) and sliced carrot. The carrots should have been peeled and let stand in cold water for an hour to become crisp. Add a scattering of very plump, soft raisins and serve with whipped cream mayonnaise.

To make maple apples choose good bakers and cut each of them in two lengthwise of the core. Core them and in the hollow of each half dot a small piece of butter and a teaspoon of brown sugar. Place the apple halves in a baking dish and sprinkle the tops with flour, sugar, cinnamon, and nutmeg. Now stir one-half teaspoon of strong maple flavoring into a cup of water and pour it over the apple. Bake, basting now and then in a moderate oven until tender.

So we wind up with Almond Crusted Apples. Fill peeled, cored apples with apricot or your choice of jams. Brush over them well with beaten egg white, then dust heavily with finely ground almonds and brown sugar mixed together in equal parts with fine dry bread crumbs. Bake in a covered pan with a very little water until tender.

SAUERBRATEN IS JUST POT ROAST WITH ADDED ZEST

3 pounds rump
1 cup water
1 cup vinegar
2 large onions
1 teaspoon salt
8 bay leaves
12 whole cloves
1 tablespoon sugar
¼ teaspoon pepper

Pour water and vinegar over the meat. Slice the onion over it and add the other ingredients. Let stand for 48 hours, turning several times. Remove from the spiced vinegar and cook as an ordinary pot roast in a tightly covered kettle until the meat is tender. Add about 2½ cups of water. For gravy thicken the liquid in which the meat was cooked with 2 tablespoons of flour mixed with cold water.

The following menu is suggested by the New York State college: Sauerbraten, mashed potatoes, stewed tomatoes, cabbage salad, and tapioca cream with strawberry jam, milk for the children and tea or coffee for the adults.

Pork Chops, Loin Roasts Are Good Week-End Buys

The following information for the guidance of consumers is supplied by the committee on marketing information of the meat council of Chicago. "Pork chops and pork loin roasts represent outstanding buys in Chicago retail meat stores at the present time. Fresh shoulder roasts of pork and fresh ham also are selling at unusually low levels. Pot roasts of beef are available at somewhat lower prices than have prevailed in recent weeks."

A Tale of Two Soups

America tasted them and clamored for more!

Cream of mushroom. Noodle soup. Last year Heinz introduced them. People tasted them. Families raved about them. They told their friends. From kitchen to kitchen the news spread. News of two unbelievably tasty soups! Ready-to-serve soups. Ready-to-serve, in flavor, in consistency. As freshly delicious as any ever ladled from a chef's soup kettle.

Good cream of mushroom and noodle soup are not easy to make. Until recently, only well-taught family cooks could prepare them successfully.

Heinz adopted their prized recipes, their methods. Heinz follows them to the letter. Procures ingredients more choice than are available to the family shopper. Concocts soups in small batches. Cooks them slowly in open kettles, under the care of skilful chefs. Submits each batch to the Heinz Flavor Jury before sealing fresh into tins.

Heinz home-recipe soups are finished soups. Please add nothing to them. Heinz soup chefs have done the whole job for you.

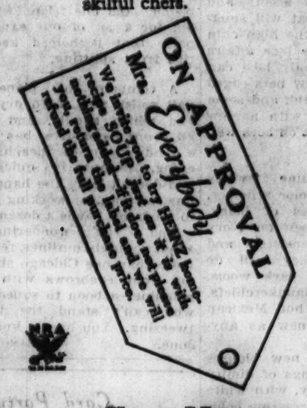
And American palates have approved their achievement, as your own grocer will tell you. Tell him you'll try these remarkable home-recipe soups of Heinz.

Cream of Mushroom

Tender cultivated mushrooms, cut into tiny cubes, are blended with wholesome sweet cream, then delightfully seasoned to bring out the true mushroom flavor, and slowly cooked under the supervision of skilful chefs.

Noodle Soup

Heinz makes the noodles in air-washed rooms. Long, thin and tender, they are cooked in well seasoned broth which has been simmered for hours. This soup cannot be told from well-brewed home-made soup made in your own kitchen.



Your Money Refunded if you don't like them better

You will like Heinz Soups, or they will cost you nothing. Your grocer is authorized to refund every penny you paid if you do not think they are the best you ever tasted.

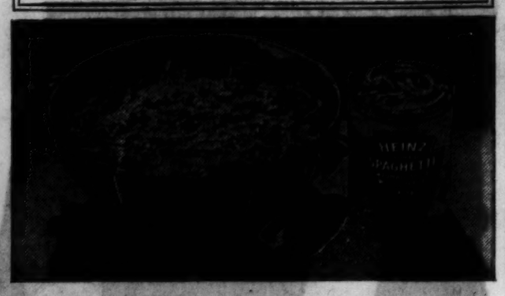
Cooked Spaghetti to Go With Thrifty Meats



By Josephine Gibson

Hear Miss Gibson's radio talks on foods. N B C. Monday, Wednesday and Friday morning.

A pound of veal or a little left-over pork—such thrifty meats as these can be combined in no time at all with Heinz Cooked Spaghetti. And the resulting dishes are brand new treats for the family. There are a hundred recipes for merging all manner of meats with Cooked Spaghetti. Here are just two. Watch for others!

LEFT-OVER ROAST PORK WITH SPAGHETTI:—Cook one medium onion, minced, and one-half cup finely chopped celery in four tablespoons butter until tender. Add one and one-half cups of diced cooked pork, sprinkle with one tablespoon flour and brown. Add one-half cup of water, stirring until thickened, then add one teaspoon salt, one-quarter teaspoon of pepper, one teaspoon Heinz Worcestershire Sauce. Add one large tin Heinz Cooked Spaghetti and heat thoroughly. Serve hot and sprinkle with grated American cheese.

ESCALLOPINE OF VEAL WITH SPAGHETTI:—Slice thin one pound veal cutlet, cut into very small servings, and season with salt, pepper and onion juice. Dip in flour and brown in frying pan with butter. Sprinkle with one teaspoon Heinz Worcestershire Sauce add one-quarter cup water and simmer till tender (about 20 minutes). Add one large tin of Heinz Cooked Spaghetti and allow it to heat thoroughly. Heap in hot serving dish, place meat over top, garnish with sprigs of parsley.

NEW STANDARDS PROTECT BUYER, SELLER OF EGGS

Meat Prices Attractive in Local Shops.

BY PAUL POTTER.

Food shoppers purchasing eggs in Chicago stores today and tomorrow will find evidence of the new Illinois egg standards, which are an aid to consumers in getting better quality eggs and also are designed to pay Illinois poultry farmers for quality production and better handling of this important food item.

With no evident increase in price, the consumer can be guided by the new classifications by which eggs are to be sold in stores. Inspectors from the office of H. I. Lepman, superintendent of the Chicago bureau of the state department of foods, are examining samples in enforcement of the new standards.

Grade A Is Top Quality.

The grade A egg is called a "hennery" egg and is the top quality, selling for several cents' premium per dozen. Grade B includes all eggs that qualify as strictly fresh eggs under the new state standards. Grade C can be labeled "fresh," not as fancy as the two top grades. Other eggs classed as merchantable but not meeting the requirements of the first three grades are sold as Class D. Iowa, Michigan, and Wisconsin recently have placed similar grading systems in force.

In other food lines shoppers will find sufficient changes this week-end to make the task interesting. In meats, vegetables, fruits, dairy products, and staples the end of January finds many of these products bearing changing price tags on grocery and market counters and shelves.

Attractive Meat Prices.

Pork, veal, and beef cuts continue to be most attractively priced, while lamb of good quality increased slightly again this week. Farmers this week marketed 30 per cent more hogs than in the same week a year ago. The increased consumption of pork and pork products is due to fairly low prices which have prevailed for several months.

The southland truck and orchard states are contributing heavily to the Chicagoland larders. New potatoes, still comparatively "luxury" priced, are slowly beginning to compete with the northern grown cobblers, round whites and baking types which rose 2 to 4 cents a peck again this week to a point double that of a year ago. The 1933 crop was smaller by about 25 per cent than the 1932 harvest.

Southern grown wax and green beans, lettuce, tomatoes from Florida, Cuba, and Mexico, and Florida strawberries are lower in price for the week-end. Lettuce from the south and west has become so plentiful in Chicago and other markets that growers are planning to prorate shipments to prevent flooding the market.

No Spinach Shortage.

A shortage of broadleaf spinach which developed three weeks ago has been solved by larger shipments from Texas and Louisiana, to supplement the curly leafed Savoy type. The latter is plentiful but not as popular in Chicago stores as it is in other major markets of the United States. Cauliflower, bunched carrots and celery also fall into the bargain class for the week-end shopping list.

Citrus fruits, despite a producers' program of curtailing shipments to bolster prices, offer quality fruit at attractive prices. Especially low in price are oranges for juice. Grapefruit, lemons and limes present other bargains useful for mixing drinks, in cooking, or for table use. Cooking apples also are bargains in many stores, with a slight premium for the largest and best quality greenings.

ROOSEVELT CAKE PARADE THROUGH LOOP TOMORROW

A birthday cake parade in honor of President Roosevelt's birthday, Jan. 30, will be held tomorrow noon with living figures representing the ingredients that will go into the real cake which will weigh a ton. The parade will start just north of Michigan avenue link bridge and proceed to Randolph street, wind through the loop, and back to Michigan avenue at Congress street and Grant park.

In the line of march will be the Board of Trade band and a fife and drum corps, to be followed by the symbolic figures of heroic size—such as wheat, flour, vanilla, baking powder, sugar, salt and spice. A dozen chefs, with a huge ladle, will be on one float. The climax of the parade will be the real birthday cake [donated by the Ward Baking company] on a float surrounded by children. The cake will be deposited in a tent in Grant park on Tuesday, and will provide 32,000 slices, to be sold to the public.

Ingredients required for the cake are 6,723 eggs, 310 pounds of butter, 600 pounds of sugar, 500, flour; 383, milk; four pints of vanilla and 8 pounds of baking powder. The icing alone will weigh 400 pounds. It is estimated that five men will be kept busy 10 hours mixing ingredients and another 10 hours will be needed to bake the cake.

Restaurant Strike

New York, Jan. 25.—[Special.]—Prepared to strike tomorrow night unless its demands for recognition, higher wages, and shorter hours are granted, the Amalgamated Hotel and Restaurant Workers' union sent an ultimatum today to the New York State Hotel association and the American Hotel association.

B. J. Field, secretary of the Amalgamated, announced that after 5 p. m. tomorrow, unless the union's ultimatum had been met, 12,000 waiters, cooks, and other kitchen help in various hotels and restaurants would be summoned to quit their posts. He added that the union was having trouble in keeping the workers on their jobs pending expiration of the ultimatum.

Five Wives Lure Husband to Party; Kick Him to Death

In time the five became friends and the fifth lured the unsuspecting husband to a party at which all were gathered. The five wives kicked and beat him to death.

PRINCE MDIVANI REJOINS BRIDE ON YOKOHAMA DOCK

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

TOKIO, Jan. 26.—[Friday.]—Prince Alexis Mdivani and his bride, the former Barbara Hutton, the Woolworth five and ten cent store heiress, were reunited on their honeymoon at Yokohama this morning. The princess arrived from San Francisco aboard the Tatsuta Maru. Her Georgian prince had reached Japan two days earlier from Vancouver, B. C.

The prince recently left his wife in the United States in order to reach Canada and avoid contact with the law in connection with the trial of his two brothers, Serge and David, on theft charges in Los Angeles.

Functionaries of the Imperial hotel in Tokio were dumfounded yesterday when the prince casually requested to be connected by telephone with Paris. Hotel officials went into conference with the ministry of communications, which announced that Tokio-Paris telephone service would be inaugurated next April.

APPLE PIE FAR IN THE LEAD, PIE SURVEY SHOWS

It's Men's Choice All Over the Country.

A nation wide census of pie eaters, involving an analysis of 12,000,000 meals, shows that apple pie is the most popular of all American foods. Among pies, apple is the men's choice in all parts of the country. Women also prefer apple pie in the east, but in the west they show a slight preference for lemon meringue.

The pie census, reported by a woman's magazine, indicates that cherry pie is growing rapidly in favor everywhere in America. In fact, cherry is going ahead so fast that if it continues its present rate of gain, it may be expected to outstrip apple pie in about 65 years.

The pie industry, however, has suffered seriously from the depression of the last four years. Americans eat one-third fewer pies now than they did at prosperity's peak. They ate 75 million dollars worth of pie in 1929, but only 55 million dollars worth last year.

The 20 most popular pies, after apple, cherry and lemon meringue, are: pineapple, mince, pumpkin, prune, custard, raisin, rhubarb, strawberry, cranberry, chocolate, apricot, cocoanut, blackberry, raspberry, cream, date, huckleberry, cheese, squash, and peach.

The peak season of the year for the consumption of pies varies considerably in different parts of the country, but is usually either September or February.

FISH FULL OF THE TANG OF THE SALTY SEA

That's the only kind of fish to eat—fresh caught, fresh-smelling, fresh-tasting fish.

That's why people who are fond of fish won't accept any brand but 40-Fathom. They know that old fish are tasteless. They know that 40-Fathom Fish are always full of the luscious, juicy tang of the sea.

40-Fathom Fish are instantly sped to your dealer, straight from the deep-sea nets in which they are caught. Wrapped securely in the famous 40-Fathom wrapper, they cannot lose their delicious flavor and aroma.

They are the pick of the catch, full and meaty, boned without heads, tails or waste. Ready for the fire without even washing—easy to cook as bacon.

You cannot tell how fish are going to taste when you buy them unless they are in the 40-Fathom wrapper. So play safe and ask for 40-Fathom Fish in the 40-Fathom wrapper. It is your guarantee of fish full of the delicious tang of the sea. If you are offered fish that is not wrapped or is not in the 40-Fathom wrapper, refuse it. Look for the name and the picture of old 40-Fathom on the wrapper.

HEAVEN OR HELL JUST A SUNDAY MEAL ON RHINE

Zwetschgenknoedel Also Is a Favorite.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Jan. 25.—"Heaven" and "hell," "dippelabbles" and "zwetschgenknoedel"—those are some of the dishes you may enjoy in a German household one of these "roastless" Sundays—and if you want to know what the supposedly hottest part of creation is like, in a culinary way, I herewith proffer the recipes.

This dish ["hell"] hails from East Frisia and gets its name from the fiery condiments, black, white and red, which spice its gravy. Browned onions, layers of sliced potatoes, layers of preferably browned bits of meats and salt pork are covered with water, baked in an oven, and the dish is served thoroughly peppered and as hot as possible.

Then There's Heaven.

"Heaven" is the dish of Silesia. Fat bacon and prunes and potatoes or flour dumplings are boiled together, and spell culinary bliss in Silesia.

Lest you believe I was trying my imagination on the word "dippelabbles," let me tell you about this dish. Its home is in the cooking utensils of the Saar district, which will be in the world's political limelight in the coming months, as it is here that the last plebiscite ordered by the Versailles treaty will stir old hatreds and political passions.

The Saar hausfrau won't have much time for politics if her family is very fond of "dippelabbles." It calls for three pounds of raw hand grated potatoes, rolls soaked in milk, browned onions and leek, some flour, pepper and salt, bacon and ham, all "nicely done in fat" and baked in an iron dish for about an hour until a light brown crust forms.

Just an Average Dish.

It is then served on a round dish—the recipe insists on this shape—with pickles. Yes, this is an average dish for the regulation family of four.

"Zwetschgenknoedel," which I picked up for its amusing name, is really an Austrian dish—but relations between Germany and Austria being somewhat strained, this dish appears in Berlin's daily press as "specialty of Tyrolese Germans." Part of Tyrol is Italian, another part Austrian—yet Tyrolese Germans is the label.

The dough is made of boiled and riced potatoes and flour rolled out and cut into two inch squares. In the middle put your prune—or "Zwetschge" and roll dough around it, boil in salt water, pour off the water and cover with brown butter.

Government Recommends Them.

These dishes are being recommended in the German press nowadays for the "roastless" Sunday, when the hausfrau is supposed to serve a cheap stew and turn over the money thus saved to the government welfare collections for winter relief. The dietetic vitamin angle of these dishes is somewhat astonishing for the American cook.

Personally, I believe these recipes explain to a great extent why Germans, despite marvelous constitutions, spend a great part of their vacations in spas, going through severe cures under the doctors' supervision.

COATING OF ICE WILL HELP KEEP MEAT FROM DRYING TOO RAPIDLY

Frozen meat can be kept from drying too rapidly by coating the pieces with a thin layer of ice, according to the North Dakota agricultural experiment station.

Expose each piece to the extreme cold temperature until frozen. Allow a pail or tub of water to get to the freezing temperature. Break the ice on the surface and dip the frozen meat into the cold water. As the meat is much colder than the water a coating of ice will form on the surface of the meat. This coating of ice will prevent the meat from drying. Store in a box in a cold place until the meat is wanted. If the frozen pieces are packed in a box or barrel of snow they can be kept frozen through quite a spell of mild weather.

Alternate freezing and thawing of meat should not be permitted. In turning to ice the juice within the cells expands and this breaks the cell walls. When the meat thaws the juice drips out and is largely wasted.

Meat once frozen should be kept frozen until it is to be used. If mild weather occurs, the meat should be canned or salted down as soon as it thaws.

Artist Fisher's Secretary Principal Legatee in Will

New York, Jan. 25.—[Special.]—Miss Kate Clements, who was for more than twenty-five years secretary to Harrison Fisher and whose features first inspired the illustrator to print the "Harrison Fisher Girl," is the principal legatee under the will of Mr. Fisher, filed today. Mr. Fisher died last Friday. In his will Mr. Fisher said of his bequest to Miss Clements that it was made "in grateful recognition of her many years of efficient and devoted attention to me and to my affairs."

MENU MAKING MEANS COLORS, TEXTURES, TOO

While Calories Also Have Their Place.

BY DOROTHY PARKHURST.

There's more to planning menus than counting calories and reckoning with vitamins and minerals. There are textures and colors to be considered, repetitions of flavors to be avoided.

Sounds complicated, doesn't it? But just a few simple rules should be remembered which with use will become a sort of sixth sense. After a year [that's 1,095 meals!] planning perfect menus should be as easy for you as boiling water.

Find Time to Plan.

When the breakfast table is cleared and the dishes washed, most housewives begin arranging the day's menu. But don't. It's so much more fun to think along the line of food combinations when one has an appetite; perhaps the middle of the morning would fit in with your time schedule.

But on to the rules. Do not serve the same food twice in the same meal. No matter how much we enjoy cheese, it's incorrect to serve au gratin potatoes and cheese muffins together. Cream of tomato soup and sliced tomato salad in the same meal are also taboo.

Vary the methods of preparing foods. Creamed salmon and creamed potatoes are not good partners. It's much smarter to French fry or bake the potatoes to accompany a creamed meat.

Then, some foods are bland in flavor, others are strong. If the first course is a shrimp cocktail with a nippy sauce, let the next course be a bland soup, such as chicken and rice. The combinations of corned beef and cabbage or spare ribs and sauerkraut should be accompanied by a mild flavored vegetable, never such strong ones as Brussels sprouts or tomatoes.

An attractive dinner plate is one which does not contain foods which clash in color. The combinations of the colors in beets and tomatoes or carrots and red cabbage are to be avoided as much in foods as they are in dress.

A repetition of texture should not occur too often in one meal. A good variety is present when crisp uncooked vegetable salads and mashed cooked vegetables are served together.

Avoid Kindred Dishes.

Avoid the "sameness" of these combinations: creamed meat and cup custards; gelatin salads and gelatin deserts; cheese soufflés and fruit whips.

The heavy meal calls for a light fruit dessert just as the lighter meal which features salad or soup may be followed by rich cakes, pies, and puddings.

Introduce surprises into meals by trying new recipes. But to repeat an oft mentioned word of warning—best not to try out a new dish for company until it's been tested first by the family.

If you've always tried to keep your menus in mind you've yet to discover how much wear and tear on the thinking apparatus can be saved by writing menus down.

Household Hints

Bring the meringue in contact with pie shell all the way around. This prevents the meringue from pulling away from crust when the pie is cut.

Baking meringue in a slow oven [300 degrees F.] for 20 minutes results in a well baked meringue that will not fall or become watery when taken from the oven.

The Feature Magazine
with next SUNDAY'S TRIBUNE

HE made more money than any other person in the history of the world! He is the world's richest man. He possesses a fortune greater than that attained by Kings! Yet he started his business career without a dime—as an errand boy in a Cleveland produce house.

The story of the spectacular rise of John D. Rockefeller from obscure childhood in a little New York farmhouse to Champion Money-Maker of the World is one of the most absorbing accounts of human achievement ever written. It traces the origin of the Rockefeller family, tells how John D. got his start in business, the hardships of his early days, his ultimate rise to become the world's Oil King, and how his fortune is administered today.

This authentic story of the Rockefeller Dynasty is one of the most interesting true life stories ever written. It will appear exclusively in a TWO-PAGE PICTORIAL NEWS-REVIEW in The GRAPHIC, the feature magazine given with next Sunday's Chicago Sunday Tribune. Illustrated with 30 photographs!

Charges Husband Left Her on Day Twins Were Born

Mrs. Gladys Farley, 6109 Kenwood avenue, charged yesterday in a bill for divorce filed in the Superior court by Attorney Norman Becker that her husband, John, deserted her four years ago on the day that their twin sons, Donald and Ronald, were born. Farley had told her before the babies came that he did not want any children, the bill charges.

THE WILD BIRD

By OWEN JOHNSON

SYNOPSIS.

Barbara Brawne, aged 22, is completely dominated by an adoring, though jealous father, who is against every modern idea and improvement. Lynwood, their home, is in the prim and proper village of Oxbridge, a place of intellectual sanctity. Barbara seems predestined to join the ranks of the village spinsters. She contemplates rebellion. Gregory Rance, popular novelist, is visiting her cousin, Laurie Chiswick. They are mutually attracted. Barbara overhears Rance asking Laurie about her. He says she is the sort of girl he'd want to marry. Laurie leaves and Barbara makes her presence known to Rance. She asks him to marry her.

INSTALLMENT XI.

IN REVOLT.

Lunch over, while Thomas was storing the bags in the carriage, Barbara's father drew her aside.

"I suppose you know how much all this nonsense has upset me?" he said querulously.

She met his eyes calmly and triumphantly.

"It isn't nonsense, father. We are just beginning to understand each other."

"You have hurt me deeply," he said in a low voice. "I feel as though I had lost you."

She did not relent.

"That's not fair and you know it. I can't be answered that way any more."

"You are hard, very hard," he said, staring at her with a new fear in his eyes.

"Father, I don't want to leave my home," she answered point-blank. "Don't drive me to it!"

He opened his mouth to speak, stopped, stared at her as though everything were tumbling about him like a pack of cards, and went out so completely dumfounded that he could find no reply.

Mr. Disbrough came up.

"Goodby, Miss Barbara."

"Goodby, Mr. Disbrough."

There was just the trace of a smile as she answered with an equal formality.

The landau rolled away just as, looking down the avenue, to her dismay

"I must not let myself be carried away and I must not get too close to her," he thought.

she saw Rance striding up. Her father whipped about in his seat and stared at the intruder. She turned and ran up to her room.

When she came down to the drawing room, Rance was waiting for her.

"Have I kept you too long?" she asked, avoiding his eyes and thinking, "He has come to lecture me for a silly romantic little person."

"She's fallen back on formality. She regrets and wants to retreat," he thought in turn. He smiled and answered with a wave of his hand, "Only about a hundred years, Miss Brawne. I'm still struggling out of the past as you see."

"I'd rather he'd be like that than noble and magnanimous," she thought.

"Then you haven't been bored?"

"I've been intensely interested."

"It's a queer museum sort of room, isn't it?"

"Without it you would not be comprehensible."

"You are wrong in what you are thinking."

"What am I thinking?"

"You think I didn't mean what I said last night."

"Well?"

"And you are wondering what is the most tactful way to extricate yourself. To be generous without being a prig," she said with a flash of spirit.

He rubbed his chin reflectively.

"Plenty of pluck," he thought.

"You seem to be quite sure of what's in your mind. But you are just a bit frightened, aren't you now?"

"That's natural—of course, I am!"

He laughed outright at this.

"Are we going to talk here or outside?" I don't want to be interrupted." She reflected.

"I'd rather you'd not be seen here. It just makes explanations difficult. You're not just any one you know. The aunts are in the garden, but we can go around by the river. Take your hat."

He followed her through the musty hall and out by the library windows, thinking:

"It's incredible this house, feels as though a spell were over it and every one in it. Wonder what the ogre is like?"

They went down the path she had gone the night before, saying perfunctory things that did not in the least correspond to their thoughts.

"Here we are," she said, stepping around a turn of the river and coming to the gate. "But we are better here." She withdrew a step and sat down on a bench that was screened by a grove of oaks and maples.

He sat down looking at her.

"Well, it's daylight now," she said at last pointedly.

He nodded.

"You remember what you told me." She raised her glance and looked at him coldly. "Last night it was an impulse, now it sounds to me the most natural and sensible thing I've ever done."

"Sensible?"

"Yes, from my point of view that is. Please, Mr. Rance, seriously consider marrying me?"

"That isn't all you said last night."

She shrank back as though he had hurt her and her eyes clouded over.

"You might have been more generous."

"Why? Didn't you mean it?"

She closed her eyes, throwing back her head, with a nervous catch of her breath.

He rose, with a feeling of guilt at having forced a confession that, to his own amazement, something savage in him demanded.

"I mustn't let myself be carried away," he thought, frowning, "and I must not get too close to her. There is something dangerously combustible about her. If she puts her arms around me again? No, I must keep my head. I'm not going to hurt her if I can help it."

"That is the mistake I know I made," she said in a low voice. "That's what frightened you—what complicates everything."

"Why do you say I'm frightened?"

She opened her eyes and searched his face.

"Yes, yes. That's mixed up everything. We should have talked things over sensibly—taken our time—because——"

"Because——"

"Because then you wouldn't be afraid of committing yourself. You could withdraw any moment. Now—now you're afraid of me and of yourself, too."

"And yet," she said smiling, her slow challenging smile, "the woman you marry must adore you!"

He forgot his fears and came and sat down beside her.

"I said that and it's true."

She smiled for herself.

"You made no mistake there, Barbara."

"That will be waiting for you," she said in a low voice. "Now let us put all sentiment away. You will believe now, that you are not talking to a girl carried away by a romantic impulse, won't you?"

He nodded slowly.

"I may have seemed incomprehensible to you, but is there anything so difficult to understand in what I'm doing? All my life I've been kept within walls. Every man who was interested in me has been frightened away. Everything I do, or say, or think is subject to cross-examination. A woman who has had liberty of action would do differently. But I have been so hedged in that to [illegible]—to dare to do what I did was to overturn everything. It couldn't be anything moderate or restrained. It was an act of revolt. Gregory, I am in revolt."

TEMPERAMENT OF CHILD FACTOR IN RIGHT DISCIPLINE

Individual Differences Require Careful Study.

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

I laid down my pen for the fourth time that morning. The laundryman wanted to see me about a lost sheet and said he'd like a check.

As he took the check he pulled out a fat roll of bills.

"I should think that would be a little too inviting to carry around over country roads," said I. "Have you ever been held up?"

"Some of us have," he answered. "Arent's you afraid?" I asked.

"No," he said in his clipped English speech. "We're on the lookout all the time. The boys are pretty quick and they keep their heads. One chap who had his roll taken away tried to make a mental note of the looks and clothes of the one of the gang who was holding the gun. The instant they had gone he phoned the police and they caught all three of them.

"But my brother, when he was held up, did differently. 'Hand over your roll and make no noise,' said the hold up man after they had jerked him off the truck.

"'Well, I suppose I may as well,' said my brother, reaching slowly into his pocket with his left hand. Then quick as a flash he whipped his right forward and knocked the man with the gun cold. At that the accomplice hit my brother with a blackjack and ran. And that gang is after him now."

"That wouldn't be my way," I volunteered.

"No, not mine either," said the driver. "But my brother's like that. He couldn't help it. You can say anything to him—but let any one touch him and he sees red. I'm different. It's the talking that gets me. Even when I was a small chap, scolding and nagging just seemed to hit nerves in my head—but a whacking didn't bother me at all.

"Long ago in England when I was about nine I had a teacher who used to scream and yell at all of us, especially me. I don't remember doing anything very bad—but I was slow in my arithmetic.

"One day she stood right over me and kept at me in her awful voice. I thought to myself, 'If she does it again I'll hit her.' In about five minutes she began yelling at me again and walked away. . . .

"You know those little inkpots we used to have in school desks? My hand reached out for mine and before I knew what was happening I had flung it right at her."

"What happened?" I asked.

"O, it caused a lot of trouble. I was beaten by the principal, but my father stood up for me. He told them I'd be all right if they'd correct me quietly—that I'd always been like that but that he and my mother understood me and never yelled or screamed at me. . . ."

It was an interesting conversation to me. It showed graphically how different children's reactions may be to the same situation—that they often cannot help these reactions—and that we must be guided by their idiosyncracies in our management of them.

Bake Apples with Bits of Leftover Vegetables

An appetizing dish may be made of bits of left over vegetables and apples. Core apples and stuff them with diced remnants of celery, carrot, cauliflower, green beans, etc. Place the apples in a baking dish, pour over them some meat stock and bake in a moderate oven [350 degrees F.] until the apples are tender.

POMEGRANATES MAKE BEAUTIFUL RUBY RED JELLY

Other Fruits Available in Winter Time.

BY MABEL BRYANT.

Just because the calendar says February or March instead of July or August need not deter housewives from jelly making. Right now there are many fruits which make delicious jams and jellies. Pomegranates, which are now available, make beautiful ruby red jelly when combined with tart apples—Baldwins preferred.

To make this jelly use the kernels [arils] of three pomegranates and three apples. Cut apples up fine rejecting only the blossom and stem end of fruit. Cook both together until soft. To the strained juice add an equal amount of sugar. Cook until the juice congeals in drops from the spoon.

Dried Apricot Conserve.

A delicious conserve may be made of dry apricots, which are better than the fresh fruit as we usually get it. The reason is that apricots to be shipped must be picked before they are fully ripened, while the fruit to be dried is allowed to remain on the trees until it has taken on its full sugar content, fully ripe.

Wash one pound of dried apricots, put them through the food grinder, and add three pints [6 cups] of grated pineapple. Use a cup sugar to each cup of fruit. Boil together until thick. Pour into jelly glasses. Cover with paramn and seal.

Jam Made from Carrots.

Another jam is made with carrots. Choose young, large carrots, and after scraping and trimming take enough to weigh two pounds. Cut into slices and cook in just enough water to cover until soft, then press through a colander. Return to the saucepan with three pounds of sugar, the grated yellow rind of three lemons and the juice of six, a quarter of a cup of bitter almonds [or peach stone seeds] chopped into very small pieces, and three-eights of a cup of apricot cordial [nonalcoholic]. Cook until thick and store at once in sterile jars.

Greenings, Jonathans and Baldwins are still on the market. These apples are best for jelly as they are rich in pectin and make a delightful appearance when a mold is turned out in a glass dish. If Tokay grapes are available, two cups may be added to about six apples.

In making this jelly, do not peel, just wash well and cut away the blossom end, stem and seeds. Cut into fine pieces and barely cover with water. Cook until soft. Drip in jelly bag, but do not squeeze if you desire a clear jelly. Add cup of sugar to a cup of juice. Boil until the juice congeals in drops from spoon. Pour in glasses until cool—seal and store.

Household Hints

A spray attached to the hot water faucet is a convenience for rinsing dishes, likewise a time saver for the busy housewife if she must do most of her own work. Of course, there must be plenty of hot water available if the use of such a spray is to be advantageous.

Always melt marshmallows in the top of a double boiler over hot water.

A high stool in the kitchen saves the homemaker's feet many hours of use. It should be high enough to use conveniently at the sink and kitchen cabinet as well as the work table.

Miss Colbert to Shun Stage; There's Reason

Fears Effect of Failure on Her Film Career.

BY GEORGE SHAFFER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hollywood, Cal., Jan. 25.—[Special.]—The reception accorded Miriam Hopkins and Katharine Hepburn in their excursions from Hollywood to the New York stage has made Claudette Colbert thoughtful. Claudette, who used to be a Broadway theater darling, said this today:

"I fear I lack the courage ever to play on Broadway again. One takes such a chance going back to the stage. One might get a good play which, of course, would mean a great deal in reestablishing that contact. On the other hand, so many have gone back after being successful in motion pictures, only to find they were in plays that flopped after a run of only a few weeks or a few days. A bad performance on the screen which nine times in ten means a bad vehicle is not nearly so disastrous. A Broadway play that fails becomes very important—too important—I haven't the courage to try it."

She also said she admired "Miriam Hopkins, Katharine Hepburn, and Mary Pickford for attempting it. They deserved success and got it."

Surgeons think Margaret Sullavan, the elusive blue eyed brunette leading woman who vanished for eight days and came back to Hollywood with a fish hook through her left cheek, will be sufficiently recovered to go ahead with Universal's "Elizabeth and Mary" next week, in which she plays the queen of Scots.

The Sullavan girl is the latest of the crop of Hollywood enigma women, whose line began with Greta the Great and "Men's Suit Marlene" and Kapering Katy.

Getting tired of having newspaper and magazine writers attempt to interview her at Universal City, she left Friday before last and caught a plane for Chicago. Coming back Monday she explained she merely wanted to spend the week-end out of Hollywood, "of which I have been getting tired."

The fish hook was explained by Miss Sullavan as the result of a sudden desire to go to Arizona with some friends and catch trout. She tried to cast for them in the way a cowboy instructed her and nearly put the hook through her left eye.

In no place except Hollywood would 105 newspaper editors, drama critics, reporters, film studio executives, stars, and political figures pay $5 a head and don dress suits to turn out for a farewell dinner to a publicity man, but that's what happened here on the occasion of the departure of Arch Reeve for New York.

Reeve, for fifteen years head of the publicity departments at Paramount and Fox studios, was given a stag party where the ribbing was hearty but good natured.

One speaker, Joe Cunningham, scenarist, said: "I see why the party is being held in a basement." [The Venetian room of the Beverly Hills hotel is a sunken room.] "It's because they have invited all of Hollywood's underworld." Cunningham, who is not over long from New York, also said: "Hollywood is the only place in the world where you put on long underwear to wear a palm beach suit."

Harry Brand of the Twentieth Century staff said: "We wanted to get Will Hays for the main speaker, but he was too busy posing for newspaper photos with Sol Rosenblatt. Then we tried to get Fred Beetson [head of the Hollywood offices of the Hays organization], but Fred was too busy polishing a new fire marshal's badge he had just been given. So we let Joe Breen [of the Hays office] represent the Divine Hand in speaking."

Reeve was driven to the scene of his farewell party, clad in silk topper and tails, by a two horse tallyho which tied up miles of Hollywood and Beverly Hills boulevard auto traffic behind it, all to the utter indifference of the film celebrators.

Harold Lloyd, Jack Oakie, George Bancroft, Jerome Beattie, Rob Wagner, Bill Frazier of Lloyd's staff; Henry King, director; Superior Judge Ray Schauer; Will Hays, who came late, and Boxing Commissioner Harry Martin were among the guests.

Isabel Jewell has been joined by her mother, Mrs. Lee [coincidence—Isabel is thinking of becoming Mrs. Lee Tracy] Jewell of Shoshone, Wyo., while her father undergoes operations here in an effort to preserve his sight.

Jean Muir is back from New York after a sudden plane trip that started here last Jan. 9 on receipt of a wire that her father, George Knox Fullarton, was very ill of pneumonia. The father died before Jean and her mother could get to his side.

NEW YORK SOCIETY

New York, Jan. 25.—[Special.]—Miss Alida Schuyler Livingston, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herman Livingston Jr., was the special guest at a small dinner her cousin, Mrs. Robert R. Livingston, gave at her home tonight.

Maj. and Mrs. Anthony J. Drexel Biddle, Mr. and Mrs. Alanson P. Lathrop, Mr. and Mrs. John F. Sanderson and Mrs. T. Suffern Tailer were among those with guests for dinner last night at the Savoy-Plaza, where a new orchestra played for dancing.

Mrs. William Gibson Borland has come from Beverly Farms to an apartment at 940 Park avenue.

Antiquarians to See Gallery at Art Institute.

little study of a grave. Young Mr. Thorne's collection of paper weights is delightful, but it doesn't include any of those fascinating snow scene ones for they are much more modern than the ones he has collected.

The Swedish wall hangings that belong to Miss Florence Bartlett are not included in the list of exhibits featured by the Antiquarians, but they will attract much attention, nevertheless, for they are hanging in the gallery where the Mulford and Thorne collections are exhibited. These colorful hangings which have been exhibited before by the Antiquarians are to be the background for a wonderful Swedish exhibit that Miss Bennett is planning for next summer's World's Fair exhibition.

Jane Evans to Wed Dorrance Brown.

Chicago relatives and friends have received invitations to the marriage of Miss Jane Arden Evans, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Heard Evans of Balboa Heights, Canal Zone, formerly of Chicago, to Dorrance Brown, son of Maj. Gen. Preston Brown, in command of the 6th Corps area, and Mrs. Brown.

The wedding will take place at 8:30 o'clock on Thursday, Jan. 8, in the Cathedral of St. Luke at Ancon, Canal Zone, and will be followed by a reception at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Evans. Gen. and Mrs. Brown, who have been visiting relatives in Meadville, Pa., will go south for the wedding. The bride is a niece of Dr. W. A. Evans of Chicago.

At 5:30 o'clock this afternoon in the presence of the two immediate families Miss Kathryn Collins and Robert J. Graf Jr. will be married. The wedding is to be very simple and quiet, with dinner served afterward for the guests. The young couple will leave for Arizona and California, where they will spend the next few months.

Present will be Mr. and Mrs. William M. Collins, the bride's parents; William Jr., her brother; the Paul McNultys [Virginia Collins], the Robert J. Grafs, the bridegroom's parents, and Miss Barbara Graf, his sister.

About thirty guests will attend the party that Mr. and Mrs. James F. Oates Jr. are giving in their Lake Forest home tonight. Dinner will be served at tiny tables around a small dance floor. In addition to dancing there will be bridge, backgammon, singing, and ping-pong.

Women's Faculty Club Will Meet Today.

The Women's Faculty club of Northwestern University Medical school will hold its annual meeting and luncheon today at the Woman's Athletic club. Dr. Irving Cutter and Dr. William H. Holmes will talk and Mrs. Eugene Edwards will sing. Mrs. Cutter is honorary chairman of the club and Mrs. Loyal Davis is president.

Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Goodspeed are taking their dinner guests tonight to the University of Chicago playfest, directed by Prof. Frank Hurburt O'Hara, at the Reynolds club theater in Mitchell tower. The University Dramatic association is presenting three plays.

Wallace Rice will speak on "Bars and Bibbers of Yesteryear" at the Mather Tower club tonight. This will be the first of a series of informal after dinner talks arranged by the entertainment committee of this "smallest and tallest club in Chicago," composed of Carroll H. Sudler Jr., Robert Work, and Wistar H. Marting.

Col. George T. Langhorne, president of the Army and Navy club, is in charge of arrangements for the dinner dance that the club is holding Tuesday night in celebration of President Roosevelt's birthday. Rear Admiral Wat T. Cluverius, commandant of the Great Lakes, will propose a toast to the President, which he will follow with a brief address.

It is Saturday of next week, not tomorrow, that the Sue Hastings' Marionettes will give "Hansel and Gretel" for the benefit of the Arden Shore camp. The performance will be given at the Deerpath theater in Lake Forest at 10:30 o'clock.

Lecture on Boone.

Dr. James Alton James of Northwestern university will speak on the life of Daniel Boone at 3:30 o'clock Sunday in the auditorium of the Chicago Historical society, at North avenue in Lincoln park. A motion picture depicting the life of Boone will be shown.

DORIS BLAKE ANSWERS

Wasted Efforts.

"Dear Miss Blake: I love a man who has looks, personality and talents, but he cannot keep away from drink. I am staying away from him for my parents' sake. I have tried to stop him from drinking, but cannot. Please advise. L. X. C."

Then in that case I'd try to forget the man because marriage with him would only spell unhappiness for you.

No Sign of Love.

"Dear Miss Blake: I love a girl who admits she loves me, but she never wants to go places with me. She is indifferent to my attentions and refuses to let me spend my money on her. "PERPLEXED TARZAN."

The girl can't love you, Tarzan. She must be using you as a convenince. Wouldn't try to spend any money on her.

Elman Offers His Very Best at Orchestra

BY EDWARD MOORE.

Mischa Elman, a distinct notable of the world of violin, is continuing as soloist with the Chicago Symphony orchestra. Last night he turned to the Beethoven Concerto, grasping and reproducing its noble dignity and restraint with the same unerring instinct that had caused him to be brilliant and jocund in the Mendelssohn Concerto on the Tuesday before.

It was a performance worthy to rank alongside of Mr. Elman's best. His tone was at its most golden, his innate sense of musical fitness caused him to rein in the temperamental, tempestuous style of playing that is sometimes his in other compositions. He would seem to approach Beethoven in the mood of respectful friendliness. The cadenzas of the piece were unfamiliar, but the belief was expressed that they are Mr. Elman's own. If so, they are another Elman achievement.

Conductor Stock brought out an interesting revival for the principal orchestral number. After an interval of no less than twenty-six seasons he dusted off the score of the "Fantastic Symphony" by Hector Berlioz and put it into the répertoire again.

This long work, also named by Berlioz "Episode in the Life of an Artist," is a curious study. It is over a century old; it is first rate theater; it shows both what an enormous talent Berlioz had and how he just missed being one of the leading figures in French music.

That he tied into it the program of the dreams of a musician who had taken a large but nonlethal dose of opium was one of the composer's little ways of attracting attention. He was a man of the theater, as his music generally proves.

One may say that it is a trifle thin at first and be justified in the statement. But it steadily grows in interest and liking. It has some excellent moments, and it is superbly written for the most effective ranges of the orchestral instruments. As a natural consequence, the Chicago Symphony orchestra gave it a superb performance.

It was preluded by "Le Camp de Pompée" from Florent Schmitt's "Antoine et Cléopâtre," a fanfare for the brass and drum sections that raised trumpet calls and their derivatives to a high pitch of eloquence.

Quiet Event

To the surprise of most of their friends Miss Mary June Lake and Charles F. Meyer II. slipped away and were married without fanfare at 5:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon in the John Timothy Stone chapel of the Fourth Presbyterian church. Their engagement had been announced last Saturday. Dr. Harrison Ray Anderson read the service in the presence of the immediate families and a very few intimate friends.

For her wedding the bride was dressed in a "going away" costume of Copenhagen blue and black. The blue feather in her smart black turban matched the bodice of her dress. Her bouquet was lavender orchids. She was attended by Miss Jean Milsted, who also wore the ever fashionable black and a corsage of gardenias. B. Botsford Young served Mr. Meyer as best man.

Mrs. Meyer is the daughter of the late William H. Lake and the late Mrs. William C. Cook. Mr. Meyer is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John G. Meyer of Wichita, Kas. Mr. Meyer and his bride left for a two months' honeymoon in Palm Beach, Nassau, and Mexico City. Upon their return they are to make their home in Chicago.

Guild to Hold Memorial Meeting for Mrs. Dennis

The University Guild of Evanston will hold a memorial meeting for Jeannelle Wilson Dennis, late wife of Charles H. Dennis, Sunday afternoon, at 3 o'clock, in Whitney house, 1204 Church street, Evanston. The public is invited. Mrs. Dennis, who was a portrait painter, served on the board of the guild and was active in numerous art organizations in Evanston and Wilmette. The speakers will be President Walter Dill Scott of Northwestern university, Mayor Charles H. Bartlett of Evanston, Mrs. Elizabeth Robinson, and Thomas E. Tallmadge. Four members of the Chicago Woman's Symphony orchestra will present a musical program.

Ganna Walska Leaves; She Reveals a Visit by Harold F. McCormick

Ganna Walska, opera singer, departed on the Century yesterday afternoon to return to New York. Dressed in the same plaid cape, dark woolen dress and pink silk scarf she wore on her arrival here before her recital in the Auditorium, Mme. Walska was accompanied to the train by a group of Polish admirers. Asked if she would return to Chicago to sing the leading rôle in the People's Opera company's production of "Tosca" in the Chicago Stadium, she smiled her sparkling smile and said:

"I may. I have been approached on the subject. But my New York manager will decide. I will return if she does not object."

Earlier in the afternoon Mme. Walska met reporters in the Auditorium hotel. She revealed with sparkling blue eyes that she had had a visitor that morning, "Harold McCormick, the most charming man in Chicago, in all America."

Mr. McCormick, her former husband and her fourth, did not accompany her to the train. She carried an armful of flowers and her jewel case as she ascended the railway steps.

In her interview she was asked the secret of her success with husbands and replied: "It is not trying. Most women try too hard."

New Halo Hats Demand Extra Forehead Care

Prepare the Brow for New Millinery by Massage.

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

Whether we like them or not, those halo hats are going to be foisted upon our poor defenseless heads during the coming season. So we'd better begin freshening up the old face. There's time enough practically to rejuvenate it before the winter chapeau need be discarded.

Those halo bonnets are grand for youth to contemplate, but the rest of us, hardly over the winter colds, are likely to pass right out trying on one of the difficult new brims.

There's going to be a lot of brow cleaning up, and clearing, and complexion tending before we can sally forth in good halo fashion. Somehow we forget to talk about foreheads or think about them until a millinery siege lays them bare. Once, not long ago, they were exposed, but not anything like the new millinery style dictates. At one advanced showing the hair was worn clear back off the brow and sides and the hat perched back midway on the crown, with a brim rolled back to further accentuate the forehead. If you have a fine brow the season ahead is going to be your benediction. If not, something has to be done about getting the criss-cross lines ironed out.

The average woman, cleansing or massaging her face, treats her forehead like a stepchild, giving it the small portion of cream and less massage help. Isn't it true that the cheeks and mouth corners, and nose, and chin line get all the attention? Perhaps that's why many otherwise well preserved faces are only half preserved over the forehead. Anyway, now you know what has to be done if you want to be in the Easter millinery show.

I don't know any better forehead treatment, more productive of results, than "palming" it with greased palms. Even palming without grease irons out the creases. So, every time you think of it, raise your palms, begin at center of forehead and simply iron and smooth it out with palms working in opposite directions right out to hair line on sides. I think this better than other massage movements for this part of the face.

Mrs. Lewis, Senator's Wife, Given Cross of Legion of Honor

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 25.—[Special.]—Mrs. James Hamilton Lewis, wife of the senior senator from Illinois, today received the Cross of the Legion of Honor from Andre de Laboulaye, the French ambassador who, in making the presentation on behalf of his government, praised her "noble work and generous heart" in France during the world war.

This is the third decoration Mrs. Lewis has received from the French. In Paris, shortly after the armistice, she was given the French hospital war medal of honor, "Des Eperdime." And a few weeks later a grateful government presented her with the medal of "La Reconnaissance Francaise with Star" in appreciation of her welfare work in French war hospitals.

Before she returned to this country she was made the first president of the Franco-American charity, "Les Petites Puelbots," which had been founded by Count Jean de Piessac for the benefit of destitute Parisian waifs.

In bestowing the decoration M. de Laboulaye pointed out that Mrs. Lewis qualified for the honor "not only because of her good deeds" but because of her ancestry. She is descended from a titled French family, and her forefathers were in the first Huguenot colony to settle in South Carolina after the revocation of the Edict of Nantes. For many years she was the president of the Chicago Alliance Française.

Among those attending today's ceremony at the French embassy were: Mrs. Hugh Wallace, wife of the late ambassador to France; Judge John Barton Payne, Brig. Gen. Charles L. McCawley, Col. John Philip Hill, and Mrs. Adolph Casper Miller.

ENGAGEMENTS

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Shrader McCoy of Wilmette announce the engagement of their daughter, Florence, to Spencer Wright Earnshaw of New York, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Frederick Earnshaw of West Newton, Mass., formerly of Glencoe. Miss McCoy attended Bradford academy and the University of Wisconsin, where she was a member of the Delta Gamma sorority. Mr. Earnshaw attended Salisbury academy and the University of Wisconsin, where he was a member of the Chi Psi fraternity. The wedding will take place next month.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles W. Kirtley of Wilmette announce the engagement of their daughter, Marian, to Harold Regelin, son of Mr. and Mrs. T. F. Regelin of Chicago.

French Sports Frocks Are Shot Through with Gold

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS.—[Special.]—Gold is plentiful in Paris. There is probably more gold in the Rue de la Paix than in the vaults of the Bank of France, and in the former locality you don't have to pay any premium or go through any rigamarole to get it. You just plank down your paper money and the dressmakers hand you out gold in evening dresses, daytime blouses, and now in sports frocks. The sports dress made of woolen material plentifully woven with gold designs is in style. Chanel began it with her gold dotted cashmeres, and now the others have taken it up.

The Lyolene sports frock shown in our sketch is rich with gold, being alternately striped with gold and green wool stripes. The stripes are worked to make a stunning pattern. On the plain sleeves the front is striped vertically and the back diagonally.

The body of the one piece dress, which is cut bias, shows the stripes meeting in chevrons at the center front and back seams. A surplice of the material crosses the front of the bodice section, and winds around the waist to buckle in front as a belt. It is striped vertically and horizontally. The peplums on the hipline at the sides are striped diagonally. An Ascot tie is tucked in the front of the V-shaped neckline, and there is a small tiara turban also of the striped material.

Stokowski Sticks to Plan to Play 'Internationale'

Philadelphia, Pa., Jan. 25.—(AP)—Anybody who wants to sing the "Internationale" at the next youths' concert of the Philadelphia orchestra may do so. Leopold Stokowski, music director of the orchestra, said today he is planning to play it—and that's that. He said it would be played and sung as an expression of "international good feeling and comradeship." Members of the Philadelphia county board of the American Legion yesterday criticized the director for his reported intention to play the communist anthem.

Confidante Is Seldom Asked to Be Married

Sympathetic Pal Is Passed by for Romantic Girl.

BY DORIS BLAKE.

They come and tell her all their troubles, but they do their proposing elsewhere.

She's a good sport, considerate of men's pocketbooks, doesn't ask questions about where they were and what they did. But what does that get her? At nigh onto twenty-six, she's been three time a bridesmaid but never a bride. The latest man is beginning to tell her what a terribly good friend she is. There's a girl he likes to talk about.

Next time he drags that other girl's name up, we'd suggest changing the subject abruptly. Keep on changing it, until the idea penetrates that you refuse any longer to be a confidante.

It's all very well to be the nice, kindly, sympathetic friend to whom men love to unburden themselves, if you're not interested in marriage for yourself. But, if you are, swing the conversation so that your male audience is made to realize that you have a trouble or two, also, and that you could bear a little sympathy too. If you want marriage for yourself, better be a bit hard about this business of being the perfect girl friend. It does not pay, not in the terms that satisfy a normal woman.

Perhaps it is because men, unburdening to a woman, feel that they have exposed their weaknesses to her and therefore have lost hero caste, that she loses out on the marriage proposal. We do not know. But we do notice that it is the women who are fairly exacting, a bit hard if you please, anyway, self exploiters who best manage themselves into marriage. They're not sitting around applauding other women and urging the boys to marry these other ones. They have their own mission in life to which to attend, and it is to get their own man and get him while the pickings are still good.

It may tickle her vanity, but it is certainly not good for her own self-esteem nor her marriage chances, to be the too ever ready confidante and general sympathizer with members of the opposite sex.

Hears Young Singers at Party; Agrees to Help Finance Training

Their appearance on an entertainment program at a party last Saturday of the Employés' Benefit association of the Maurice L. Rothschild store brought promise of assistance to two singers, they revealed yesterday. The two were heard by Mr. and Mrs. Rothschild, who were guests at the party. Mr. Rothschild was so pleased with their singing that he offered his help in furthering their musical careers.

Adam Luchetti, 24 years old, a tenor, of 25 South Lincoln street, who has been an employé of the store for six years, sang operatic numbers. Mr. Rothschild offered to finance his musical career provided he studied for comic opera. He agreed. The other singer was Peg Coughlin, 21 years old, of 1704 East 77th street, a soprano, employed since last May. She also was offered aid in embarking on a musical career.

DULL, LIFELESS HAIR NOW THING OF PAST
"YOU SAY IT'S CALLED GERAL, AND THAT IT WILL ACTUALLY GIVE MY HAIR THE BEAUTY OF YOUTHFUL GIRLHOOD?"
"YES,—GERAL IS THE ORIGINAL MAKE-UP FOR THE HAIR. IT DOESN'T GIVE AN ARTIFICIAL LOOK. JUST RESTORES NATURAL BEAUTY."
Will you try this easy way to have beautiful hair?
To allow dull, faded looking hair to steal away your attractiveness and appeal, is now utter folly. You can end this handicap in a moment. Just comb your hair with Geral—the original make-up for the hair. Geral is not a dye, bleach or henna—nor does it contain oil. It beautifies the hair as rouge, powder and lipstick beautify the face. No matter what the color of your hair—blonde, auburn, brown, brunette or gray—Geral will impart NOT an artificial look but the natural life, sheen and softness of youthful girlhood. Obtain Geral at all good toilet counters and drug stores.

SALE OF GLOVES

A Choice of Five Styles

In Washable Capeskin

$1.45 pair

This sale of washable capeskin gloves scores another point in Carson's gloveman-ship. It's certainly unusual to find washable capeskin gloves of this fine quality at such a low price. And what quality! Just pull on these gloves. See how soft and supple the skins are. How they mould into the trimmest lines. That tells you how exceptionally fine the leather is.

Charming styles to choose—with stitched or perforated tops. They're grand to wear right now, and later into spring. They'll add the final note of chic to any costume. In this group—black, brown, and navy. It's smart to choose several pairs at a time, because gloves like these are usually much higher priced. Very special at $1.45 pair.

Gloves, First Floor.

HAWKS DEFEAT CANADIENS IN OVERTIME, 2-1

GOLDEN GLOVES BIG TREAT FOR FIRST NIGHTERS

Preliminaries Make Their Own Drama.

BY FRENCH LANE.

First nighters—and among them are a surprising lot of folks who go merely to chuckle over the youthful embarrassment of the new boys who are making their debut in the famous Golden Gloves boxing tournament—have their work cut out for them.

If a fellow wanted to attend them all he'd have, with the exception of Sundays, a solid date book from the last week in January to the beginning of the Tournament of Champions at the Chicago Stadium on Feb. 26.

These first night programs are chock full of rollicking fun, because it is impossible to foresee what these embryo fighters are going to do.

Vincennes Goes Gettysburg.

Once, during one of the earlier tournaments conducted by the Vincennes Sun Commercial, the bell clanged and it was time for a youthful orator with leanings toward physical perfection to appear in the ring. So excited was the young boxer that without a moment's hesitation he walked to the center of the ring, made a graceful bow, and began, "Four score and seven years ago today."

The crowd roared. The boy wiped away his blushes and with increased determination about faced and knocked the stuffin' out of his opponent, a brick mason in swimming trunks.

Then there was the member of the volunteer fire department in a small village who fought in one of the first tournaments staged by the Springfield State Register.

It was the third and last round. He was going to it hammer and tongs with a coal miner from Virden, Ill. The fight had been nip and tuck all the way. Each had been knocked down a half dozen times. Suddenly the screech of a siren could be heard above the din in the arena.

A False Alarm?

The fire fighter pushed aside his opponent, leaped over the ropes, dashed down the aisle and made for the door. Thirty minutes later he was found near the state armory sniffing for smoke.

These first night fights seldom go the limit of three rounds as it seems only natural for both fighters and layman alike to overestimate or over appreciate his own physical ability. It often happens that a scrawny physical specimen becomes imbued with the idea that he can whip his weight in wild cats. Only an encounter with a rugged coal miner or a railroad brakeman can dislodge the illusion.

Then there are the clowns of amateur boxing, who more or less hog the spotlight on these opening night programs. They, too, think they are great fighters, but usually by the time the preliminary rounds are finished the fun making is all over and the arena is strewn with clowns wearing black eyes, puffed noses and battered midsections.

An Eight State Carnival.

These, of course, are merely sidelights of the great Golden Glove carnival which extends over eight states. The main attraction naturally is the desire on the part of boxing enthusiasts to be present when a great champion is born. There are those who never will forget the thrill they unexpectedly got when they sat in the second or third or 20th row and watched Barney Ross, the present world's lightweight champion, on his first night in the Golden Gloves tournament of 1929.

The dates on which who knows but that a new world's champion will start upon his career, as selected by the various newspapers coöperating with THE TRIBUNE in staging the world's greatest amateaur boxing festival, are as follows:

Lafayette Journal-Courier, Jan. 29, Feb. 1, 12, 15, and 20.

A scrutiny of this schedule is enough to show you that it won't be long until the fight is on. In fact it is already underway, for the Joliet Spectator held its finals last night.

THE GUMPS—HANDSOME IS THAT HANDSOME DOES

BE SMART, WILLIE— JUST BECAUSE YOU'RE ENGAGED AND THE WEDDING DATE IS SET— DON'T TAKE HIM TOO MUCH FOR GRANTED— FLATTER HIM— JOLLY HIM ALONG— THE WAY TO A MAN'S HEART MAY BE THROUGH HIS STOMACH— BUT IF YOU WANT THE ADVICE OF ONE WHO KNOWS, TAKE A SHORT CUT AND FEED HIS VANITY—ISN'T BIM GUMP THE HANDSOMEST MAN YOU EVER SAW, IN EVENING CLOTHES?
NOT TOO LOUD, BUT LOUD ENOUGH!
AND WHEN HE STANDS SO STRAIGHT LIKE THAT— DOESN'T HE REMIND YOU OF A MOVIE ACTOR?
MOTHER AND I WERE JUST REMARKING HOW SPLENDID YOU LOOK— HOW WELL YOU CARRY YOURSELF—
I WAS JUST TELLING MILLIE HOW PROUD I ALWAYS AM TO BE WITH OUR YOUNG AND HANDSOME ESCORT— AND MILLIE SAID THAT YOU DON'T LOOK A DAY OVER THIRTY— AND REALLY YOU DON'T—

BILLY PETROLLE, RETIRED, GLANCES OVER OLD DAYS

Rates Battalino Gamest Fighter He Met.

New York, Jan. 25.—(AP)—Billy Petrolle, private citizen, peered through puffed eyes today down the long road back to his start in the fight business ten years ago.

He was content that his fighting career was over, closed by his own decision, instead of the knockout punches of some fellow who couldn't have carried his water bucket a couple of years ago.

He was lonesome because he lost his final fight last night to young Barney Ross, lightweight champion, in the Bronx Coliseum, and in the fight business the crowd trails only with the winner.

Glad It's Over.

"I'm glad I'm out of it while I still know east from west, and I don't hear bells that aren't ringing," he said. "I gave the fight game all I had and it gave me all I've got—$200,000 put away, an ornamental iron works in Duluth, a cigar store there, a fine home.

"I quit once before—four years ago—and I came back after a rest because I knew that wasn't the real finish. I proved that it wasn't. This time it is and I know it. The old zip is gone. It had to go sometime."

So, with nothing to do but chat, he recalled some of the fights he had and rated his ten best opponents as follows:

1. Christopher Battalino, former featherweight champion.
2. Tony Canzoneri, former lightweight champion.
3. Barney Ross, lightweight champion.
4. Ray Miller.
5. Jimmy McLarnin, westerweight champion.
6. King Tut.
7. Sid Terris.
8. Lucio Suares.
9. Kid Kaplan, former featherweight champion.
10. Sammy Mandell, former lightweight champion.

Found Battalino Bravest.

The man he placed at the top, Battalino, never was much good after Bill knocked him out in 12 of the fiercest rounds New York ever saw, and beat him in ten more in Chicago.

"He was the gamest man I ever faced and the toughest," said Bill. "He hurt every time he hit you. He was crudely clever, difficult to get at.

"Canzoneri was the smartest of them all, the cleanest, sharpest puncher, Ross the best boxer. Terris was the fastest I ever saw, Miller the hardest hitter. Ross, when he develops a right hand, gets more experience, and his full growth, will be the greatest of them all.

"McLarnin, though he beat me twice, was the most overrated. He had ten pounds on me in weight. He wasn't exactly brave. He was the scourge of small children—Al Singer, Ruby Goldstein, and that kind—and old men, Like Benny Leonard."

"Where would I put Petrolle? There's only one thing more boxing can do for the old guy. I hope it won't forget him."

Ross received $8,421 for his share of the receipts and Petrolle $7,797.

POTPOURRI.

CONFERENCE basketball teams pause for the semester hiatus with Purdue entrenched in first place and the threatening Hawkeyes second. The title hinges on the question whether any five can stop the high-geared Boilermaker scoring machine. Unless Iowa does it on its home floor Feb. 17 it will look like a pay-off on Purdue, although Big Ten basketball is full of surprises. Purdue also plays its final game at Illinois, and those Illini, if you ask Northwestern, are plenty valiant in their home bailiwick.

Northwestern, which has proved a surprise by being up in the thick of it, suffered a costly defeat at Champaign. Otherwise there was a possibility, and still is mathematically, that the Wildcats, because of their schedule, might sit in on a percentage basis with the titleholders. Purdue, on its offense and defense, must be given the best chance, with Iowa second. Northwestern and Illinois are not out of it.

Mrs. Helen Wills Moody's decision whether or not she can play tournament tennis this year is important for international competition and the Wightman cup series. It is less important to the public than it would have been a year ago.

When the perennial champion defaulted to Miss Jacobs in the national championship she alienated many sports followers. Perhaps that verdict was unjust. Many others, including The Wake, suspended judgment.

Mrs. Moody's mistake, if she made a mistake, was in competing when under partial disability. Her previous triumphs probably caused her to think she could win again even under a handicap. That was natural. Miss Jacobs proved too formidable and the default resulted. It cost some of the former champion's popularity. There is no question of that. Return to title form no doubt would erase some of the blot, if it was a blot.

Dog Poisoner Kills 9 Pets on North Side

BY BOB BECKER.

Dog owners, watch your pets, because there's a dog poisoner at work! This is the warning which has been broadcast all week in the Rogers Park district by a group of canine enthusiasts, in view of the poison "epidemic" which started last Sunday night in that part of the city.

Capt. Will Judy, 3323 South Michigan avenue, one of the leading authorities on dogs in the middle west, said yesterday that the situation was so disturbing that hand bills and community newspapers on the north side had been carrying warnings about the crank who has been spreading poison for dogs. According to W. A. Johns, a resident of Rogers Park, the poisoner is doping meat with strychnine and spreading this lure for dogs.

Nine Die Sunday.

Last Sunday night nine dogs, including some very valuable German shepherds, a black chow, Scotties, and wirehaired terriers, died from eating the poisoned meat. Dog fanciers are bending every effort to secure evidence which will lead to the conviction of the guilty party. Poisoning domesticated animals can be punished under the state law.

Sunday was so mild and warm that it provided an ideal setting for a dog poisoner to ply his trade. The balmy springlike weather brought thousands of people out of doors for walks and drives. Coming from the north shore into the loop we saw scores of dogs walking with their owners, either on a leash or running free. The dog poisoner who put out so much strychnine for the Rogers Park canines must have deliberately picked this beautiful afternoon for his work, knowing that hundreds of pets would be romping around.

Some Dogs Recover.

As the toll of dead dogs reveals, he picked the right afternoon to murder a number of canine friends who were highly prized by both children and adults. In addition to the nine dogs that died in one evening there were others which were poisoned, but fortunately saved by emergency treatment at the hands of a veterinary.

The average citizen considers a dog poisoner just about the lowest form of "public enemy" because of the cowardice involved and also because a trusting, tail-wagging, friendly house pet isn't given a chance by the poisoner who tosses it a bit of meat full of strychnine.

ST. VIATOR FIVE BEATS MICHIGAN TEACHERS, 19-14

Kankakee, Ill., Jan. 25.—[Special.]—After trailing, 11 to 7, at the end of the first half, the St. Viator basketball team came back fast in the last half to beat Michigan State Normal here tonight, 19 to 14. The game was featured by the close defense tactics of both teams.

Betourne, Viator center, made three baskets. For Michigan State Normal, Maska and Good split the scoring honors with four points apiece.

Colgate Football Team Schedules Ohio State

Hamilton, N. Y., Jan. 25.—(AP)—Colgate's 1934 football schedule announced tonight includes Ohio State for the first time since 1923, when the teams battled to a 21 to 21 tie. Holy Cross comes back to the Red Raiders' schedule after a lapse of 17 years. St. Bonaventure, a minor school, is a new opponent. The game with Ohio State will be played at Columbus Oct. 20.

TIME LIMIT ON CALIFORNIA MAT BOUTS IS LIFTED

Los Angeles, Cal., Jan. 25.—(AP)—Curfew shall not ring tonight—or hereafter—on California wrestling shows. The state athletic commission decided that today in taking off the 11:15 p. m. time limit as the result of a riot here last night.

Eight thousand fans began tearing up the furniture at the Olympic auditorium when "good-night" was called on a draw bout between Joe Savoldi and Jim Browning.

The rioting subsided only when the wrestlers returned to the ring after regular hours. Browning then won the deciding fall.

Mr. and Mrs. Ben Chapman File Separation Agreement

Birmingham, Ala., Jan. 25.—[Special.]—A petition for separate maintenance and a property settlement was filed in Jefferson Chancery court today by attorneys for Ben Chapman, New York Yankee outfielder, and his wife, Mary Elizabeth Chapman. The agreement stipulates that Chapman would pay his wife $200 a month.

Babe Herman Denies Rap at New Contract

Unless Babe Herman comes through with his signed Cub contract within the next day or so his holdout status promises to develop into a fine mystery.

Developments yesterday, with the Babe's contract still missing, included the following:

A wire bearing Herman's name addressed to President William Walker of the Cubs said that Herman had not discussed his contract with any one, thus throwing down quoted statements in which he was purported to have said that the Cubs used a cleaver in cutting his salary.

Says Herman Is Dissatisfied.

News sources in Los Angeles which sent out word of Herman's supposed dissatisfaction supported their story with "testimony" from a former coast league manager and a coast league player, to whom the Babe is supposed to have moaned.

A reporter visited Herman's home yesterday and was denied an audience with the Babe, who was said to be out golfing. His wife was quoted as having said to the reporter: "Floyd is not talking to any one, but he certainly is dissatisfied."

In the meantime Cub officials again confirmed reports that Herman's salary had been cut, despite earlier statements that no Cub's salary had been revised downward. President Walker, however, said the cut had not been severe enough to warrant any reference to cleavers.

Silent on Plans.

Mrs. Herman, it seems, did not discuss Babe's plans, devoting most of her conversation to his success in raising some blooded chicks, which somehow avoided drowning in the New Year's flood which swept over the Herman premises.

PAUL THOMPSON DRIVES HOME WINNING GOAL

Cook Ties Score on Gottselig's Pass.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

The Blackhawks took a long time to get around to heroics last night, but their 2 to 1 overtime victory over the Montreal Canadiens was all the sweeter for the waiting. With five minutes and five seconds of the third period to be played the Hawks were trailing, 1 to 0. The Chicago lads had played hard and fast, but they had been thwarted with great persistence. With so little time to go, it appeared that the Hawks had absorbed their second home licking of the current season.

The 11,000 customers present seemed pretty sad, for they had read the scores of eastern games. The Rangers would be four points ahead, for they had won and Detroit would be three points ahead, for they had tied. A melancholy setup with little more than five minutes to go.

Cook Ties It Up.

Johnny Gottselig, Tommy Cook and Lolo Couture were the gents doing the offensive bearing down after the 14th minute mark had been passed by. They had been kicked back time and again, like the other Hawk forwards. Then, in 14:50 of the third period, the puck flew out of the rink back of the Canadien goal. It was faced off to the left of the cage. Cook smacked the rubber as it hit the ice from the hand of the referee and it went directly to Gottselig's stick.

Gottselig, who was near the boards, drew the attention of the players and Cook scarcely was noticed as he edged over to a position off Goalie Chabot's toes. Gottselig then passed right back to Tommy. A speedy swish and Tommy had tied the score, with Johnny getting an assist. The time was 14:55.

The customers went wild, but the Hawks were only half satisfied. They have become a bit sated with ties.

The Hawks battled furiously to win in regulation time. But they were denied this privilege by the defensive tactics of the Canadiens, obviously fighting for a tie and nothing more.

Help Gottselig from Ice.

Gottselig, Cook, and Couture were back on the ice when the overtime got under way. And did they do some bearing down.

In the third minute of the overtime Marty Burke charged Gottselig into the boards and for a time it looked like Johnny had been seriously hurt. He was helped off the ice by Trainer Froelich and no one expected to see him the rest of the evening. As Gottselig retired Burke was locked up in the penalty box.

Thompson, Romnes, and March, who, led by March, had been the principal play makers in the first two periods, came on the ice while Burke was cooling off and, joining with Conacher and Jenkins, laid down one of the hottest barrages seen here this year.

At the turn of the fourth minute of overtime March and Conacher were pressing in on Chabot in ruthless fashion. Conacher passed to March and Mush, seeing his line to the cage was blocked, shot out a high one to Romnes, standing inside the blue line.

Thompson Does It.

Romnes knocked it down with his glove and slid a perfect pass to Thompson, who was standing about ten feet in front and somewhat to the left of the cage. Paul was checked before he could make a normal shot, whereupon he shoveled the puck with magnificent skill and accuracy. The Blackhawks, apparently well licked 11 minutes earlier, were leading by 2 to 1, the eventual victory count.

Four personal points were rung up in the players' standing when Thompson's shovel shot landed in 4:05. Conacher, March, and Romnes got the assist points.

Of course the customers had enough to holler about by this time, but when Gottselig came back and staged one of those rink long races such as occur when a losing team plays everybody forward the crowd whooped it up all the more, although Gottselig missed the tally by an eyelash. Cook also made the length of the rink and had Chabot almost up to the blue line. Tommy was overtaken just as he was about to count, however.

SWIM STARS VIE IN FIRST MAJOR MEET TONIGHT

N. U. Men's Team Favorite for Trophy.

The first major swim meet of the indoor season will be held at the Lake Shore Athletic club pool tonight, featuring men swimmers from Northwestern university, the University of Chicago, and girl stars from the Lake Shore, Indianapolis, and Milwaukee Athletic clubs.

The Purple team, led by Capt. Art Highland and Don Horn, is favored to win the team trophy in the men's events, while the Lake Shore girls, paced by Capt. Emma Shemaitis, rule favorites in the women's competition.

Breast Stroke Race to Be Close.

The feature race of the evening is expected to be the men's 100 yard breast stroke event in which Horn, national collegiate champion, will defend his laurels against Capt. Dan Glonset and Charles Dwyer, Maroon swimmers, who trailed him closely in the conference breast stroke events last year.

Interest in the girls' events is centered about Miss Shemaitis, local champion, and 16 year old Helen Lee Smith of Indianapolis, whose speed won her a place on the last Olympic team. Coach Stan Brauninger also expects fast time from Dorothy Schiller of the Chicago club, who swam the 100 yard breast stroke in a Milwaukee meet last month within three-tenths of a second of the world's record for women.

Diving Exhibition Offered.

In addition to the competitive events, Miss Jane Fauntz and Wally Colbath, Olympic diving champions, will offer an exhibition in their specialties. The meet is open to the public. Many choice seats are still available.

Ask U. S. Make Game Refuges of Farm Land

Washington, D. C., Jan. 25.—(AP)—A plan for conversion of submarginal agricultural lands into breeding areas for all classes of wild life, especially migratory birds, was approved today at a conference of game commissioners and sportsmen representing the entire country.

The plan, tentative provisions of which were explained by Thomas H. Beck of Wilton, Conn., provides for lease of submarginal lands by the federal surplus relief corporation, with options to purchase at the end of a year.

The corporation possesses 25 million dollars, with which it is estimated 50 million acres could be withdrawn from cultivation. Beck, chairman of a special committee appointed by President Roosevelt and of the Connecticut game and fisheries commission, told the conference a substantial portion of the corporation's funds had been promised for wild life sanctuaries.

President to Get Plan.

The plan drawn by Beck and his colleagues, J. N. Darling of Des Moines, Ia., and Prof. Aldo Leopold of the University of Wisconsin, calls for a coordination of agriculture department activities concerned with the preservation of wild life.

It will be presented to President Roosevelt tomorrow morning by a special committee of the conference, along with the conference's approval of three bills for fostering wild life. These are:

The "duck stamp bill," to impose the first federal license of $1 on water fowl hunters, with 75 per cent of the proceeds to go to the purchase of migratory bird sanctuaries, 20 per cent for maintenance, and 5 per cent for administrative expenses.

Ask Bird Treaty.

A bill introduced by Senator Robinson to authorize segregation of areas in national forests as wild life sanctuaries.

Another measure directing all government agencies to coöperate as needed in conservation of wild life.

The conference also voted to request the state department to frame a treaty with Mexico similar to the existing migratory bird treaty with Canada.

ARRAIGN EIGHT HORSEMEN ON DOPING CHARGE

Eight race horse owners, trainers, and stable employés, were arraigned yesterday before Federal Judge Walter C. Lindley on charges of conspiracy to violate the Harrison anti-narcotic act. The defendants pleaded not guilty to the charge of doping horses and the trial was set for April 16.

Lack of Hair is so Unnecessary

You, too, can have a good head of hair.

Twenty years ago the man who found himself becoming bald was helpless to prevent it. He tried a lot of highly perfumed "tonics" which usually did more harm than good.

Today baldness is treated in a sensible, scientific way by The Thomas scalp experts who have made it a life study. They first determine the exact cause of your scalp trouble, and then direct the reliable, proved Thomas treatment to overcome that cause.

The Thomas' are overcoming dandruff, stopping hair-fall, and re-growing hair for 1600 other persons each day, and can do the same for you.

Scalp examination is free—no obligation—come in today.

Joe Walker, Jackie Purvis Fight Tonight

Jackie Purvis, Indianapolis welterweight, and Young Joe Walker, Chicago, will head the professional boxing show tonight in an eight round bout at Rainbo Fronton, Clark street and Lawrence avenue. It will be their third meeting. They fought a 10 round draw at Indianapolis last February and then Walker won a close eight round decision in Chicago Nov. 3.

John Daly vs. Sammy Adams [4].
Hugh Allen vs. John Mirabai [4].
Jack O'Connell vs. Eddie Smith [4].
Frank Walsh vs. Ed Van Herrick [wrestling].

Lou Terry, St. Louis, Mo., junior welterweight, and Izzy Lubansky of Chicago were signed yesterday to meet in the eight round windup at Marigold Gardens Monday. Lubansky, who has scored 15 triumphs in his last 18 battles, will be engaging in his first main event.

Buck Everett, Bob Groshek, and Merril Tonn, local boxers, are to go to Miami, Fla., Tuesday for bouts there Feb. 5. Everett faces Tony Cancela in the feature contest on the card. . . . Northwest Ring Team to Oppose Belle Plaine A. C.

New York, Jan. 25.—[Special.]—Completing a stormy crossing of twelve days, the Jesters' club squash racquets team of London arrived in New York on board the Alaunia of the Cunard line today and left an hour or two later for Washington, D. C.

There were seven players in the party, which is to make a tour of the United States and Canada as the first British men's squash racquets team to visit the United States since 1927.

Owing to the tardiness of their arrival, seventy-two hours behind schedule, plans for the launching of their tour with a dinner and a team match at the Harvard club in this city were called off.

While they were scheduled to play a team match in Washington tonight and were ready to go through with anything that their hosts in the national capital wished, in spite of their rigorous crossing and lack of practice, their tour will not get under way in earnest until tomorrow. All seven members of the team are entered in the Atlantic coast championships, which will begin tomorrow on the courts of Chalfonte-Haddon hall at Atlantic City, with many of the high ranking amateurs of the United States in the list.

Englewood sent Harrison Tech's heavyweight basketball team into the second division of the central section yesterday by defeating the Hornets, 26 to 23, at Harrison's gymnasium. The contest featured a ten game schedule in the Chicago Public High School league.

Detravis and Kelly, forwards, and Wheatley, center, led Englewood to its third consecutive victory, Wheatley and Kelly each scoring six points, while Detravis collected two field goals and three free throws. It was Harrison's first league defeat of the season.

Tilden Beats Kelly.

Tilden Tech kept pace with Englewood by triumphing over Kelly, 29 to 21, on the latter's court. Tilden and Englewood now are tied for the lead, each with three victories. Bryne, center, was the individual star in Tilden's victory. He scored six baskets and one free throw.

Marshall, Parker and Bowen also remained undefeated in league competition. Marshall handed Schurz a 40 to 13 defeat in a west section game at Schurz; Parker won from Calumet, 30 to 24, at Calumet's gymnasium and Bowen routed Hirsch, 44 to 18, on Hirsch's floor in South Division games.

Foreman, Crane Win.

Foreman and Crane Tech were victors in a pair of other west section games. Foreman, led by Reid, forward, who scored seven baskets and three free throws, defeated McKinley, 37 to 24, at Foreman and Crane overwhelmed Kelvyn Park, 39 to 27, at Kelvyn Park.

MONTREAL, Jan. 25.—(AP)—Beaten four times in a row by Toronto's high-scoring Maple Leafs, the Montreal Maroons turned on their tormentors tonight and scored a 6 to 0 victory over the Canadian section leaders of the National Hockey league.

The Leafs had scored 25 goals in their four previous games with the Maroons, but they could not dent the Montreal defense tonight and, after the first period, the Maroons had the edge in territorial play. Dave Kerr, Maroon goalie, had 12 stops in the first period, but only 11 more during the remainder of the game. Lineups:

RANGERS, 6; OTTAWA, 3

OTTAWA, Jan. 25.—(AP)—Bun Cook scored three goals tonight as the New York Rangers battered the Ottawa Senators into 6-3 defeat and gained clear title to first place in the National Hockey league's American section.

Bun Cook opened the Ranger scoring in the first period, scoring on an assist from Frank Boucher, and then counted twice more in the wild third period which saw six goals tallied, four by the Rangers and two by Ottawa. Ott Heller in the first period and Butch Keeling and Cecil Dillon in the third scored the other Ranger goals. Jerry Shannon tallied two of the Senator goals, the other going to Desse Roche.

WINGS, 1; AMERICANS, 1

New York, Jan. 25.—(AP)—Packing all the scoring there was into an overtime period, the Detroit Red Wings and New York Americans played a 1 to 1 tie tonight. The division of points dropped Detroit to second place in the American division, as the New York Rangers won and broke their deadlock. The Americans, however, strengthened their hold on fourth place in the Canadian section.

THE LOST ARE FOUND

The phoney was accomplished by Gerald Carson and was of no avail because Mr. Carson used his glove in getting the disc into the nets. Fortunately, Referee Smith was not stymied on the play and called a face-off at the side of the cage before Gardiner could get an oration into shape.

Capt. Chuck, of course, was deeply gratified to see the red goal light snuffed out, and may have been just a bit too happy, for he scarcely had brushed the snow off his pants when Borgeault picked up the rubber on the Canadien's right boards, hugged the woodwork around the curve, and swooped back of the cage. Then he hooked the puck directly past Gardiner's right bunions, into the nets.

Ah, Ah, Chuck!

Capt. Chuck dropped to his knees and shoved the rubber out with a sly gesture. Referee Smith's eyes were just as good as they had been a few seconds before and this time the goal counted.

The Hawks continued in third place but remained apace with the Rangers, two points back, and gained a point on the Redwings, who lead them by a point. They gained two points on the idle Boston Bruins, whom they now lead by nine points. The Bruins must overtake the Hawks to keep the Chicagoans out of the Stanley cup playoffs.

MICHIGAN STATE NORMAL INVADES ARMOUR TODAY

Armour Tech will play its last game before the semester exams when it engages Michigan State Normal on the Armour floor this afternoon. Having lost three of their last four games when their defense failed to stop last minute rallies, this department of the game has been the object of intensive work during the last week. The offensive work of Capt. Pfium, Heike, and Warner has left little to be desired.

Following this game there will be a week layoff, and then a trip into the camps of two Michigan foes, Detroit City college in Detroit and a return engagement with the Michigan State Normal squad at Ypsilanti.

School Marks of Truant Iowans Still Uncertain

Iowa City, Ia., Jan. 25.—[Special.]—The scholastic standings of Duane Swanson and Wayne [Bud] Froning, former University of Iowa freshman athletes, who are in Los Angeles seeking to enroll at the University of Southern California, are uncertain, Hawkeye officials said today.

Instructors and the university registrar will be called upon to determine their status. Swanson and Froning, who left Iowa City and hitch-hiked their way to the Pacific coast, did not take their examinations before their unexpected departure.

"If Southern California sees fit to admit the boys and allows them to compete in athletics, peace be with them," Dr. E. H. Lauer, Hawkeye athletic director, said. "The case is now Southern California's problem and I want nothing more to do with it."

TROJANS INVESTIGATE

Los Angeles, Cal., Jan. 25.—(AP)—The case of Duane Swanson and Wayne Froning, athletic stars who strayed from the University of Iowa to the University of Southern California campus, is far from closed as far as Trojan authorities are concerned.

When informed that Dr. E. H. Lauer, athletic director of Iowa, had said, "We have washed our hands of the entire matter," Prof. Hugh C. Willett, Southern California faculty athletic representative and chairman of the school's athletic committee, said:

"We do not consider the incident closed by any means. The matter now is in the hands of our faculty athletic committee."

While Prof. Willett had nothing to add to this statement, it is known that athletic authorities at Southern California feel there was a great deal of inference in the whole matter of the two basketball players quitting Iowa and heading west to seek admission at the Trojan institution.

MALLOY TELLS OF THRILLS IN LACROSSE GAME

Rotund Mique Malloy, who has adopted lacrosse as his latest promotional venture, is being made the victim of friendly gibes since his announcement that the south side will be able to witness North American Professional Lacrosse league games under his direction starting Sunday evening at the Dexter Park pavilion, 42d and Halsted streets.

Pittsburgh will be the first opponent of Malloy's team and then the Buffalo Indians will call for games Tuesday and Thursday.

"Why, this game has all the thrills of all the rest of the sports put together," Malloy told the scoffers yesterday. "You've got to be able to take plenty of abuse, and they don't have any padding on those lacrosse sticks. And one of the first things I'm going to try to find out is how far those fellows run during the course of a game. Why, I bet their mileage, straightened out, would carry them from here to there," he went on, pointing off toward the horizon.

OHIO STATE AND MICHIGAN TEAMS TO MEET TONIGHT

Games This Week

TONIGHT.
Ohio State at Ann Arbor.

TOMORROW NIGHT.
Northwestern at Minnesota.
Iowa vs. St. Ambrose at Moline.
Wheaton at Chicago.

While Purdue and Iowa, the pace setters in the Big Ten basketball race, remain idle, four other teams will play during the week-end. None of these games will have any bearing on the first two positions in the title scramble, but they will reshuffle the standing of those teams on the lower rungs of the ladder.

The first of these contests will occur at Ann Arbor tonight when the tail end Wolverines meet Ohio State in the first of their two game series. Ohio State, joint holder of fifth place with Indiana, must win tonight to keep from being dropped a notch in the standings. The Buckeyes now have a .500 average, while Michigan has won only one game in five starts.

Start 4 Sophomores.

In tonight's game Michigan will use a revamped lineup that will put three senior lettermen on the bench. The team will be composed of four sophomores and a junior.

Capt. Ted Petoskey and Estel Tessmer, guards, and Fred Allen, forward and center, have been removed from the starting team. The quintet will be made up of Plummer and Dick Joslin, forwards; Jablonski, center, and Rudness and Tomagno, guards. Joslin, whose home is in Kenilworth, Ill., will be playing his first Big Ten game.

N. U. at Minnesota.

Northwestern meets Minnesota at Minneapolis tomorrow night in a game which will just about decide the Wildcats' destiny in the 1934 race. Holders of third place at the present time, with a record of 4 victories and two defeats, the Wildcats need a victory over the Gophers to keep from changing places with the fourth place Illini, who are idle.

TREEST, MATTHYS WIN IN JOLIET GOLDEN GLOVES

Joliet, Ill., Jan. 25.—[Special.]—Eight Golden Gloves champions were crowned in the finals of the Joliet meet held tonight at Catholic High gymnasium before a crowd of 3,000 that jammed every available inch of floor space.

Two veterans of last season's Golden Gloves campaigns were victorious. William Treest, St. Charles, 160 pound semi-finalist in last year's CHICAGO TRIBUNE Golden Gloves, scored a technical knockout over Jack Challender, Roosevelt A. C., in the first round of their bout. Walter Matthys, who traveled to the finals in the 1933 TRIBUNE tournament, defeated Dave Schimel, J. O. Y., in a fast three round match. Results:

126—Brnick, St. Cyril, defeated Kovalcic, St. Cyril [3].
135—Brown, J. O. Y., defeated Rosenberg, J. O. Y. [3].
147—Weaver, J. O. Y., defeated McKinnes, St. Charles [3].
Heavy—Seidlin, Roosevelt A. C., defeated Hyden, Elgin [3].

Sonnenberg, Oleson Meet Tonight on Arcadia Mat

Gus Sonnenberg, former Dartmouth football player, will oppose Ole Oleson in the windup of the wrestling show tonight at the Arcadia gardens, 4444 Broadway. They are scheduled to wrestle for one fall with a 30 minute time limit.

GUS SONNENBERG.

Sonnenberg has won his last two matches in Chicago, winning from Jack Smith in his latest. He will rely on his flying tackle again to down Oleson, who will concentrate on his headlocks and his superior strength.

Buckets Goldenberg, Green Bay Packers' football player, faces Art Miller of Minneapolis for 30 minutes or less in the semi-final. There will be four preliminary skirmishes.

The card:
Buckets Goldenberg vs. Art Miller, one fall, 30 minutes.
John Freberg vs. Jack Smith.
Joe Wolf vs. Rudy Hoffman.
Gus Clem vs. John Gacek.
George Mack vs. Angelo Lorenzo, (Last four maiches, one fall, 20 minutes).

The wrestling program at the Chicago Stadium next Wednesday has been completed. It follows:

Jim Londos and Joe Savoldi.
Everett Marshall and Jim McMillen.
Joe Malcewicz and Milo Steinborn.
Ernie Dusek and Matros Kirilenko.
Dutch Hefner and Karl Davis.

Joe Foley of the Stadium Operating company announced yesterday that Savoldi will go through with his match against Londos, despite Savoldi's suspension yesterday by the California athletic commission, which has a working agreement with the Illinois commission.

Chairman Joe Triner of the state commission said that because Savoldi's agreement to wrestle at the Stadium was entered into on Jan. 4, prior to his present difficulties in California, the former Notre Dame football star will be allowed to meet Londos. "What action we take later will be determined by information we receive from California regarding its ruling," Triner said.

The California commission suspended Savoldi because he refused to go through with a bout against Sammy Stein at San Diego on Jan. 30. Savoldi said he couldn't obey the order because of his bout with Londos.

W. H. NEALE GETS FOOTBALL POST AT YALE, REPORT

His Brother Walter May Become Assistant.

New Haven, Conn., Jan. 25.—[Special.]—William H. [Witty] Neale will succeed Reggie Root as head coach of Yale football next year, it was reported here today from unofficial sources. His brother, Walter [Greasy] Neale, may come to Yale as an assistant coach, probably replacing Adam Walsh, although this will not be definitely known until Malcolm Farmer and Witty Neale, now traveling together somewhere in the central states, have conferred with Witty's brother, Walter. Witty came to Yale last fall to organize the intercollege athletic league under the new Yale house plan.

Bud Clancy Master of Ceremonies at Minstrel

Bud Clancy, former first baseman for the White Sox who now is with Buffalo, will be master of ceremonies for a minstrel show at Kankakee High school auditorium Sunday, Monday, and Tuesday. The performance is for the benefit of St. Patrick's church.

THE REV. J. PISTER, MINISTER HERE SINCE 1911, DEAD

St. John's Evangelical Pastor 8 Years.

The Rev. Jacob Pister, pastor of St. Paul's Evangelical Lutheran church, Fullerton parkway, Orchard street, and Kemper place, for eight years, died early today in Grant hospital. A meningitis complication, following an attack of pneumonia, was the cause of his death.

THE REV. JACOB PISTER

The Rev. Mr. Pister was born in Baltimore, Md., Nov. 20, 1869. His father likewise was a minister and bore the same name.

After attending Elmhurst college, Elmhurst, Ill., and Eden Theological seminary, St. Louis, the Rev. Mr. Pister was ordained in 1890 and served in several small cities of Ohio until 1897, when he became pastor of a church in Columbus, O., that is said to have been the largest of its denomination in that state.

Associate Pastor at First.

The Rev. Mr. Pister came to Chicago in 1911 as associate pastor of St. Paul's and in 1926 succeeded the Rev. R. A. John as pastor.

While touring Europe in 1923 the Rev. Mr. Pister and his wife were guests at a reception given by the former German Crown Princess Cecile at her summer castle at Oels, near Breslau.

St. Paul's church was organized on the near north side in 1843 and later moved to its present location. Postmaster Ernest J. Kruetgen and Arthur C. Lueder, former postmaster, are among the leaders of the church.

Funeral Not Yet Arranged.

Surviving the Rev. Mr. Pister are his widow, Pauline; two sons, Harold F. and C. Eugene of Highland Park, and two daughters, Mrs. J. Marcy Wilson and Mrs. C. G. Cowan. Funeral arrangements will be announced today.

JOHN CROFTON, VETERAN POLICE FAN, DEAD AT 72

John Crofton, 72 years old, for forty years a police fan, died in the Alexian Brothers hospital last night with his best friend, Supervising Captain Ira McDowell, at his bedside. Also present were the captain's son, Acting Lieut. Joseph McDowell, and John Cullen, desk sergeant at the Des Plaines street station.

Crofton and Capt. McDowell grew up in the same Pennsylvania town, near Pittsburgh. Years later Crofton's family perished in the Johnstown flood. After that Crofton and McDowell came to Chicago and worked on the railroads. Crofton stuck to the railroads, but his friend joined the police force. Crofton then became a police fan.

Most of his years as a police fan Crofton was a familiar figure at the Des Plaines street station. From 6 to 8 each night he was a visitor there, year in and year out.

STEAL HIS AUTO TO HOLD UP HIS BARBECUE STAND

Leroy Valentine, 21 years old, 7249 South Rockwell street, and John Nelson, 18 years old, 7235 South Rockwell street, who confessed stealing an automobile to use in a robbery, learned yesterday that the car belonged to the owner of a barbecue stand they had intended to rob.

The two youths were held to the grand jury on charges of automobile larceny by Judge Joseph A. Graber in bonds of $2,500 each. Valentine told the court that they stole the car for a holdup.

"We were planning to rob the barbecue stand at 83d street and Southwest highway," he added.

Linden Davis, 3621 West 82d street, owner of the stolen automobile, stepped forward. "That's my barbecue stand," he told the court.

U. S. JURY INDICTS EX-CASHIER OF WILMETTE BANK

Nicholas Schwall, 36 years old, former assistant cashier of the First National bank of Wilmette, was indicted yesterday by the federal grand jury on a charge of embezzling $56,000 of the bank's funds. Judge Walter C. Lindley, before whom the indictment was returned, set bond of $10,000 and issued a bench warrant for Schwall's arrest. Schwall, who is a fugitive, is alleged to have obtained the money by making false entries on the bank books between 1926 and 1932, when the bank was closed.

Edmund J. Meyer, Famed Vocal Instructor, Is Dead

Los Angeles, Cal., Jan. 25.—[Special.]—Edmund J. Meyer, 88, nationally known musician, writer, and lecturer, died suddenly at his home here of a heart attack. Mr. Meyer was born in Pennsylvania and gave vocal instruction at Carnegie hall in New York for 45 years. He was the teacher of many famous singers and authored scientific books on the voice. He gave his last lesson the day before his death. He leaves one daughter, Ethel Meyer, who was his accompanist for many years, and a son, Edmund J. Jr., both residing in Los Angeles.

Daniel Haddock Carstairs, Yachtsman, Is Dead at 72

Philadelphia, Pa., Jan. 25.—[Special.]—Daniel Haddock Carstairs, 72, widely known yachtsman, died at 1 a. m. today at his home in Germantown. He had been ill a week. He owned the steam yacht Albatross and later the Nadesal, the latter designed for southern cruising.

DOROTHY EITEL SOUGHT AFTER FLEEING CRASH

Six Deaths in Day Lift Toll to 107.

Miss Dorothy Eitel, 21 years old, daughter of Max Eitel, restaurateur, was sought yesterday by Evanston police after her automobile in which she and three other students at Northwestern university were riding collided with a taxicab in the early morning hours.

Police said that Miss Eitel fled the scene of the crash at Central street and Sheridan road, Evanston. Witnesses said that the Eitel car, out of control, cut diagonally across the street and crashed into the cab driven by Benjamin Lazarus, 1611 North Troy street.

Although the Eitel car after the impact continued across the street, struck the curb and rolled over three times, only one of the occupants was injured. George Newton, 19 years old, Hudson, Wis., was treated at St. Francis hospital for minor head injuries. The others in the car were Rose Mary Johnson, 20 years old, 5030 Glenwood avenue, and Radford Davis, 19 years old, Kansas City, Mo.

Chicagoan Killed in Iowa.

Charles E. Mudge, a representative of the North America Accident Insurance company, 209 South La Salle street, was killed, and his wife was injured in an automobile smashup near Cedar Rapids, Ia., yesterday. O. J. Fullenwider of Des Moines, driver of the car they were riding in also was hurt. The Mudge car and a truck collided head on. H. W. Nessuer of Dyersville, Ia., a passenger in the truck, also was injured.

Robert C. Burns, 28, of Chicago, was in a critical condition in the Shelby county memorial hospital, in Pana, Ill., last night as a result of injuries sustained in an accident near Shelbyville, when his car skidded and left pavement, crashing into a tree. Troy Mendhall of Decatur, also was severly injured. Burns suffered a skull fracture, numerous contusions of the scalp, forehead and arms. The men were returning to Pana from Mattoon.

Six Deaths During Day.

Six deaths yesterday brought the Cook county motor toll for 1934 to 107. The victims:

Stanley Zabawa, 18 years old, 1256 West 50th street. Died in the Bridewell hospital of injuries suffered Wednesday night when the stolen car in which he was riding collided with another automobile.

Herman Haeger, 69 years old, an inmate of Oak Forest infirmary. Died of injuries suffered Jan. 20 when he was struck by an automobile.

James Rousseman, 71 years old, 4217 Langley avenue. Died in the county hospital. He was struck by a hit and run motorist at Evans avenue and 47th street on Dec. 23.

Cecil While, colored, 33 years old, 20 East 31st street. Died in the county hospital of burns suffered in motor car crash Wednesday, at Belmont and Mobile avenues.

Thomas De George, 4 years old, 15408 Broadway, Harvey. Killed yesterday when he was struck by a truck in the alley at the rear of his home.

Anna Hegelund, 71 years old, 1726 North Artesian avenue. Killed last night when she was struck at Western and Wabansia avenue by an automobile driven by Harry Taphorn, 2513 Cullom avenue. She died as she was being taken to St. Elizabeth's hospital.

Long Illness Is Fatal to Baroness Fontana, 56

Philadelphia, Pa., Jan. 25.—[Special.]—The Baroness Fontana, former Miss Margaret Dulles, who once sued her titled husband to prevent his collecting $75 a week support from her, died today after a long illness. She was 56, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Cheves Dulles, member of a family well known in Philadelphia since colonial times. A brother, William Crothers Dulles, went down with the Titanic. Her husband died in Atlantic City last September while a divorce was pending here.

G. T. Seely, Motor Coach Official, Dies in Miami

Garrett Teller Seely, 57, vice president and general manager of the Chicago Motor Coach company, died yesterday in a Miami, Fla., hospital following an illness of several months. He had been in Florida two months. He is survived by the widow, Mrs. Grace M. Seely; two daughters, Mrs. Bruce S. Hamilton of East Orange, N. J.; Mrs. Richard J. Swan of Dayton, O., and a brother, John G. Seely, of Toledo, O.

Bury R. T. Wells, Veteran Loop Cafe Owner, Today

Funeral services for Richard T. Wells, proprietor of a restaurant at Wabash and Monroe streets for more than 35 years, will be held at 10 a. m. today in Our Lady of Mount Carmel church, 692 Belmont avenue. Burial will be at Holy Sepulchre cemetery. Mr. Wells died Tuesday in his home at 528 Aldine avenue. He was born Jan. 14, 1866 in Port Huron, Mich., and was attracted to Chicago in 1892 by the approaching Columbian Exposition. He opened a restaurant in the loop in 1894, continuing operation until three years ago when ill health forced his retirement. Mr. Wells in survived by his wife and one sister, Miss Clara Wells of Detroit.

Hold Funeral Rites for Mary Crellin, Teacher

Funeral services for Miss Mary F. Crellin, a school teacher in Chicago since 1907, who died at her home at 4702 Lowell avenue last Sunday, were held yesterday in Graceland cemetery chapel. Miss Crellin, who was 54 years old, was born in Elwood, Ill., and taught for eight years in Joliet before coming to Chicago. She had been teaching at the Gray elementary school before she became ill three months ago. Miss Crellin is survived by her mother, Mrs. Alice Crellin, who is 82 years old, and a brother, Edward, of Elwood.

Lord Revelstoke, Noted British Banker, Is Dead

LONDON, Jan. 26.—[Friday.]—Lord Revelstoke, noted British banker, died this morning at the age of 69. He had been ill for several weeks

Want to Look Young?

The secret of keeping young is to feel young—to do this you must watch your liver and bowels—there's no need of having a sallow complexion—dark rings under your eyes—pimples—a bilious look in your face—dull eyes with no sparkle. Your doctor will tell you ninety per cent of all sickness comes from inactive bowels and liver.

Dr. Edwards, a well known physician in Ohio, perfected a vegetable compound as a substitute for calomel to act on the liver and bowels, which he gave to his patients for years.

Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets are gentle in their action yet always effective. They help bring about the natural buoyancy which all should enjoy by toning up the liver and clearing the system of impurities.

Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets are known by their olive color. 15c, 30c, 60c.

"SOLITARIES" FOR PRISON'S ELITE; COLLECTORS, TOO

New York, Jan. 25.—[Special.]—Corrections Commissioner Austin H. MacCormick mopped up Welfare penitentiary today. Joe Rao, Eddie Cleary, Bosco Mazzio and Peter Kenny, the overlords of that gangsters' paradise, were in solitary confinement.

Ten others, accused of collecting a daily levy on gambling games among the prisoners, also went into solitary.

Finding that 1,400 ordinary prisoners who had hungered while the privileged gunmen got fat, Mr. MacCormick ordered a big steam table, so that hot food might be served to all, not only to the men who could pay the Rao-Cleary outfits $50 to $75 a week.

One hundred and fifty male degenerates were isolated in the south wing, instead of mingling with the other prisoners.

A formal inquiry into the scandal was ordered and hearings will be held at the penitentiary.

Warden McCann called Rao a "most valuable," "very practical and sensible" fellow.

"More than once," the warden said, "I called him into my office when there were indications of a flareup among the inmates. He went among them and always managed to quiet them."

INDIANA'S OLDEST RESIDENT IS DEAD AT THE AGE OF 108

A native of the Netherlands, Mrs. Reich was brought to the Chicago area by her parents in 1841, when she was 16. Fifty years ago she moved to East Gary. At the time only two families lived in the town, which is now one of the centers of the Calumet steel industry.

Friends of Mrs. Reich recalled that she had possessed a keen memory and took an active interest in public affairs, casting her vote at every election since the ratification of the 19th amendment. She once heard Abraham Lincoln make a speech advocating the abolition of slavery. Surviving Mrs. Reich are 65 descendants, including six sons.

Bury Capt. J. L. Stenquist, Lake Veteran, Tomorrow

Funeral services for Capt. John L. Stenquist, who was a great lakes sailor for more than half a century, will be held at 2 o'clock tomorrow in the chapel a. 5525 North Clark street. Burial will be in Memorial Park cemetery. Capt. Stenquist died Wednesday at the age of 84 in his home at 1335 Rosedale avenue. He started working on lake vessels when he was 16 years old and retired in 1918. A son, John E. Stenquist, and two daughters, Mrs. Josephine S. Moore and Mrs. Clara S. Johnson, survive.

COLDS

How any community can cut down the time lost and suffering in "Cold" season

Place no faith in so-called "instant" cold cures. To relieve any cold, try above all to clear the head, dry the secretions, and reduce the fever. This takes more than a "few minutes," and medicine of more than one kind.

You can get the necessary medicines of any druggist, by asking for Pape's Cold Compound which combines them in a pleasant tablet.

To relieve a "new" cold, take three of these little tablets; chew them up, drink a glass of water.

To relieve a more stubborn cold will require a second treatment, and frequently a second day of this treatment, but it's worth the time. Colds that have been driven out of the system are gone.

DENNIS MURPHY, WAUCONDA HOTEL OPERATOR, DIES

Dennis H. Murphy, 78 years old, for thirty years owner of the Lakeside hotel in Wauconda, Lake county, died yesterday in Waukegan after a lengthy illness.

Mr. Murphy was born in Belfast, Ireland, and came to America when he was a boy. He lived in Lake county for forty-five years, most of that time in Wauconda. His hotel is well known to many Chicagoans who go to Lake county for hunting.

Surviving Mr. Murphy are five sons, three daughters and his widow Mary. The sons are Joseph, Allen, Edward, Ray, and John. The daughters are Mrs. Alice Gabel, Mrs. Helen Redler, and Mrs. Grace Ford. Services will be held in the Catholic church in Wauconda tomorrow morning.

FEDERAL AGENTS SIFTING BIGGER BANKS' RECORDS

Justice Department Enters Quiz.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 25.—A thorough investigation of the operations of certain great banks in various parts of the country, before and during the depression, is under way.

This was disclosed before the senate banking and currency committee today when Joseph V. Verhelle, who was controller of the $800,000,000 Detroit Bankers' company, said in answer to a question by Senator Couzens that the department of justice is now delving into the records of the once great financial structure which controlled 60 per cent of all the banking resources of Detroit, as well as a substantial percentage of bank resources in other parts of Michigan.

Verhelle said he was questioned yesterday by representatives of Attorney General Cummings.

Quizzed About Big Loss.

The fact that the department of justice had injected itself into the banking picture came while Verhelle was being questioned about a confidential memorandum submitted on Oct. 7, 1931, to John Ballantyne, then president of the Detroit Bankers' company, in which Ballantyne was informed that the losses of the company, as of that date, were approximately $48,000,000. Three months later in the annual report for 1931 to the stockholders of the company no mention was made of losses. As a matter of fact, according to the report, the company made a profit of about $4.29 a share on 1,175,000 shares of stock in that year.

Verhelle said he remembered dictating the memorandum indicating losses of $48,000,000, but he was not at all certain that it was correct. He testified he was in doubt as to whether he had ever signed the report.

Losses Are Adjusted.

Asked how the losses were handled so as to eliminate them in the report for 1931, the witness said they were adjusted in the latter part of the year. He did not make clear how the adjustment was accomplished.

At this point Senator Couzens asked Verhelle if the department of justice was taking any actin in the matter.

"Yes," he replied. "They have been to see me a large number of times."

"What did they want?" asked Senator Couzens.

"They were seeking information to aid them in the location of other information."

Verhelle, who resigned as controller of the company by request in November, 1932, said department of justice men questioned him yesterday about affairs of the Pontiac unit of the company to which $750,000 of a cash dividend of $1,500,000 was diverted, despite the fact that the dividend was declared for the liquidation of a debt of $1,500,000 owed the First National Bank of Detroit by the First National company, investment unit.

Other Cities Involved.

Representatives of the department of justice confirmed Verhelle's testimony as to the department's activities in the situation. Detroit, it was said, is but one phase of the situation. The investigation involves banks in other large cities, of which it is understood Cleveland is one. Whether any bank in New York or Chicago is involved was an unanswered question.

While refusing to admit the accuracy of the $48,000,000 memorandum, Verhelle conceded a "writeoff" of about $23,000,000 in 1931, which "writeoff" was not referred to in the report to the stockholders.

There were several reasons for eliminating the $23,000,000 item and one of them, according to the witness, involved Eugene Meyer Jr., governor of the federal reserve board at the time the 1931 report was issued.

Reports Meyer Incident.

"Mr. Meyer," said Verhelle, "indicated to one of our officers that the matter of the large writeoff should be handled with the greatest care so as not to cause serious trouble in the country."

"Do you mean to say that Mr. Meyer told an officer of the Detroit Bankers company that?" asked Ferdinand Pecora, counsel.

"He was consulted by Mr. Mark Wilson," Verhelle replied.

"Do you mean to tell this committee Meyer wanted these facts concealed in the report to the stockholders?"

"Not at all."

"Then what do you mean?"

"I mean," Verhelle answered, "that at that time the pace was being set for various institutions throughout the country and in this matter we were worried as to the public reaction. For this reason we consulted numerous individuals who we thought might shed light on the situation."

Reserve Banks' Reports Cloud Gold Purchase

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

(Statistics on page 32, col. 5.)

Efforts to shroud the dollar stabilization operations of the administration with great secrecy were seen in the contradictory figures contained in the weekly reserve reports issued last night.

The item "gold held abroad," which was inserted for the first time a week ago in the report on the twelve reserve banks and the New York Reserve bank, appeared again in the reports issued last night. The total of the gold held abroad showed a decline according to the figures despite the fact that the New York Reserve bank is understood to have continued its foreign purchase last week in an endeavor to hold down the buoyant dollar in the exchange markets.

Can Conceal Operations.

Explanation of the contradiction apparently lies in the transactions which the reserve bank is carrying out through its members. In financial quarters it was pointed out that by acting through member banks the New York Reserve bank could effectively conceal its operations.

The statement of the 12 banks combined listed $3,120,000 of foreign gold holdings as compared with $4,319,000 a week ago or a decline of nearly a million and a quarter. To date the New York reserve bank is only one of 12 institutions which has handled these gold transactions and the amount held by it is the same as that for the entire system.

Statistics detectives figured out that the reserve banks could let the member institution handling the transaction carry it on its books as agent and thus conceal the operations.

Credit Charges Few.

Few significant changes in the nation's credit position were recorded in yesterday's reports. There was a further seasonal contraction in money in circulation of 62 millions. Total gold reserve of the system held fairly steady at $3,559,963,000.

Outstanding credit of New York and Chicago member banks showed no important changes. In Chicago a contraction of three millions in all types of credit was shown and in New York a decline of 10 millions. The New York banks added 16 millions of government securities to their holdings, but the Chicago made no change in their government investment.

An expansion of 21 millions in brokers' loans was disclosed in the report of the New York member banks.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Jan. 25.—The dollar was buoyant in the foreign exchange markets against both the gold and non-gold foreign currencies today despite efforts of the treasury to keep it near the 60 cent figure set as the maximum revaluation level.

The gold worth of the dollar measured in terms of French francs rose to 62.99 cents, an advance of approximately a fifth of a cent over yesterday's quotation of 62.78. The final quotation on the franc was 6.32 cents, against 6.24 cents yesterday. The pound sterling lost ground again, closing at $4.96¼, down 1¾ cents from last night's final price. The Canadian dollar lost an eighth of a cent to finish at 99 cents in U. S. funds.

The trading here was preceded by a rise in dollar exchange in both the Paris and the London markets. In London America continued to buy gold and sell dollars, but the result was merely to limit the pound's decline. A substantial commercial demand for dollars was reported in both the leading foreign markets.

Jobless Cleveland Banker Owes $295,849; Has $12

Cleveland, O., Jan. 25.—[Special.]—Cash assets of $12 and liabilities of $295,849 are listed by Joseph P. Harris, former vice president of the defunct Union Trust bank, in a voluntary petition in bankruptcy filed in federal court today. Harris gives his occupation as "unemployed." He claims an exemption of $500 in household goods and includes a $200 valuation for his Cadillac sedan among his assets.

GIANNINI SAYS NEW ECONOMIC THOUGHT LEADS TO COMMUNISM

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Jan. 25.—The American banking system is threatened by a new school of economic thought which advocates the abolition of individual thrift and which, if successful, would lead to communism, Dr. A. H. Giannini, chairman of the general executive committee of the Bank of America, Los Angeles, declared today at the annual eastern savings conference banquet, held by the savings division of the American Bankers association.

"If banking is to survive in the form in which we have known it," he said, "we must during the next decade resell the public on the principle that thrift is a personal as well as a social necessity. The 'progressive' economists want a new fiscal system in which the entire income of the United States may be diverted into mass purchasing power and thrift abandoned except as a function of government."

John Dickinson, assistant secretary of commerce and one of President Roosevelt's inner circle of advisers, advocated a unified banking system, limitation of the number and size of banks, and better separation of types of credit handled by different kinds of banks.

Henry S. Kingman, Minneapolis banker, said that the "much maligned banks" now held half the government's debt and added that "the whole credit of the United States government rests upon the savings of the people."

"It is only through the accumulated savings of the individual American that the federal government can now launch itself on its present program of further spending and the additional piling up of debt."

HEARING SHOWS PUBLIC SERVICE CUSTOMER GAIN

A definite upturn of business in the operation of the Public Service Company of Northern Illinois was reflected in the increasing number of customers in the last three months of 1933, it was brought out yesterday during the electricity rate reduction hearing involving the utility before the Illinois commerce commission.

In cross-examination by Harry R. Booth, counsel for the commission; S. B. Cushing, a statistician for the utility company, said the number of customers in the last quarter of 1933 had risen to 230,133 in comparison with 222,771 for the preceding three months. After the hearing Attorney Booth asserted that the company was underestimating its 1934 revenue by $800,000 in its attempt to justify the present rates.

Stock Trading Interest Held to Auto Group

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Jan. 25.—Only those stocks with active bull operators on their side were able to get anywhere in today's dealings on the share exchange. Automobile and affiliated issues made the best group showing. A scattering of industrial and specialty descriptions were bid up in the late dealings, the number of them being insufficient, however, to give the list as a whole anything better than a mixed rating.

Trading was at a somewhat less active pace than during the two preceding days, turnover failing to 2,370,000 shares.

There was little in the news of a caliber to influence market operations. The chief points in the bull arguments were reports from Detroit and other automobile manufacturing centers telling of increasing activity in preparation for spring business.

One Report Disappointing.

On the other hand, the General Motors earnings report was rather disappointing, but the showing was explained as being due largely to the delay in getting its new models into production. The rails and other groups which have been prominent in the forward movement of the last few days were under fairly steady pressure on the score of profit taking.

In the motors division Hudson was again a star performer, moving up nearly three points on rather brisk buying. The closing price on Hudson was the best since 1931. Chrysler was again in favor and General Motors gained nearly a point net.

Collapse of the movement to advance retail gasoline prices in the east brought some selling into the oils. Standard of New Jersey came back strongly later, however, to close at a net gain of nearly a point.

Utilities Down Slightly.

Small declines were the rule among the public utilities. Consolidated Gas and Public Service of New Jersey were selling targets of prominence at intervals.

Among the old line industrial leaders U. S. Steel held within a fraction of yesterday's closing price. American Can also finished at a slight net loss.

Metal shares were firm in sections and lower in others. Utah Copper ran into a selling squall and gave up nearly four points. American Smelting and U. S. Smelting finished on opposite sides of the line.

Merchandising issues marked time for the most part after their buoyancy of the last few days. Farm stocks were easier with grains.

Owens Glass was a strong individual feature, rising nearly three points.

MEXICO SHIPS GOLD TO LONDON VIA N. Y. WHERE U. S. BUYS IT

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Jan. 25.—Huge gold shipments from Mexico, together with consignments of silver, have been passing through this city lately unknown to the general public, to most of the banks, and, so far as its publicly announced gold movements are concerned unrecorded by the Federal Reserve bank, it was learned today.

Since the middle of December more than $6,000,000 gold has come here from Mexico, transshipped here to London and sold in the London open market. Since last July 1 Mexican gold shipments have exceeded $20,000,000, all of the metal going to London for sale.

Details of these operations clear up some of the mystery as to the source of large quantities of gold offered in the London market, in addition to supplies of freshly mined African gold, and lately purchased in large amounts first by the Reconstruction Finance corporation and lately by the Federal Reserve bank here for the account of the United States treasury.

The silver shipments lately have not been large, since Mexico is a signer of the agreement with the United States to restrict the amount of silver sold on world markets.

HIGHER PROFIT FOR ATLANTIC REFINING SHOWN

New York, Jan. 25.—(AP)—The Atlantic Refining company and subsidiaries report for 1933 net profit of $6,556,000, equivalent to $2.46 a share of capital stock, compared with $3,918,000, or $1.45 a share, in 1932.

Last year's net income included a nonrecurring profit of $1,320,000 in connection with the company's sale of interest in the Union Atlantic company.

BIG GAIN SHOWN IN 1933 INCOME OF GEN. MOTORS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Jan. 25.—The General Motors corporation reports, subject to possible further adjustments upon final closing of the books, preliminary net earnings for the year ended Dec. 31, 1933, including equities in undivided profits of subsidiary and affiliated companies not consolidated, amounting to $83,214,000, equivalent, after preferred dividends, to $1.72 per share on the common stock. These earnings are after providing for depreciation approximately $80,100,000 in 1933, and after making provision of $5,000,000 for possible losses on impounded cash balances in closed banks.

Comparing net income for the full year with net income of $81,493,491 for the first nine months indicates net income of the fourth quarter was $1,720,509, or less than preferred dividends. This compares with net income of $33,341,618, or 72 cents a share on the common, after preferred dividends, in the third quarter.

Big Increase Over 1932.

The 1933 earnings compare with net income of $164,979 after all charges in 1932, equal to 9 cents a share on 1,875,386 shares of preferred stock. The fourth quarter of 1932 produced a deficit of $10,390,196.

The preliminary figure for cash, United States government and other marketable securities at Dec. 31, 1933, amounted to $177,000,000, compared with $172,780,695 on Dec. 31, 1932. Preliminary net working capital on Dec. 31, 1933, amounted to $244,000,000, compared with $225,437,194 on Dec. 31, 1932. These figures as of Dec. 31, 1933, exclude both impounded cash balances in closed banks and the investment of capital stock of the National Bank of Detroit.

Operations for the last quarter of 1933 were affected by unavoidable delays in getting into production of 1934 model automobiles. Normally it requires approximately 65,050 cars and trucks in order to provide distributor and dealer outlets at home and abroad with adequate sample stocks of new models.

Fourth Quarter Output Low.

This year, due to the delays in production, only 21,600 new model cars were manufactured during the fourth quarter. The result was increased overhead and lost profit, which had a material effect on earnings for the fourth quarter. This does not necessarily mean a loss of business, but the transfer of a certain amount of business from the fourth quarter of 1933 to the first quarter of 1934.

During 1933 General Motors dealers in the United States delivered to consumers 755,778 cars and trucks, compared with 510,060 in 1932, an increase of 48 per cent. Sales by General Motors operating divisions to dealers in the United States during 1933 amounted to 729,201 cars and trucks, compared with 472,859 in 1932, an increase of 54 per cent. Total sales to dealers, including Canadian sales and overseas shipments, amounted to 869,035 cars and trucks in 1933, an increase of 54 per cent over the total of 562,970 reported in 1932.

Hires Prof. Sprague.

New York, Jan. 25.—(AP)—Dr. O. M. W. Sprague, who resigned as special assistant to the secretary of the treasury several months ago after disagreeing with President Roosevelt's monetary policy, has been retained in an advisory capacity by the General Motors corporation.

Bethlehem Has Its First Profit in 30 Months

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Jan. 25.—The Bethlehem Steel corporation reported today consolidated net income of $629,671 for the December quarter, after all charges, against net loss of $283,097 in preceding quarter and net loss of $5,621,672 in fourth quarter of 1932.

The final quarter of 1933 brought the corporation its first profit since the second quarter of 1931. Net loss for last year totaled $8,735,723 against net loss of $19,404,481 in 1932 year.

Value of orders on hand Dec. 31, 1933, was $67,684,749 against $72,155,458 on Sept. 30, 1933, and $30,568,937 on Dec. 31, 1932.

Operations averaged 26.8 per cent of capacity in the fourth quarter of last year, against 40.8 per cent in the September period and 13 per cent of capacity in last quarter of 1932. The average for the whole year was 28 per cent, against 16.9 per cent for 1932.

Sales Increase in 1933.

Gross sales for 1933 aggregated $121,745,344, against $98,467,226 in 1932. Total amount of new business booked during the year amounted to $158,861,156, against $87,888,870 in 1932.

Net income for the December quarter was equal to 67 cents a share on 934,000 shares of 7 per cent cumulative preferred stock of $100 par.

Cash and liquid securities on Dec. 31, 1933, amounted to $46,888,841, as compared with $46,975,589 on Dec. 31, 1932.

Eugene G. Grace, president, commenting on the fourth quarter earnings, stated that the better showing was due to a great extent to year-end adjustments and the cleaning up of contract work. He also pointed out that the last six months showed a little profit after all charges. The trend of operating costs, he said, has naturally shown a moderate upward trend.

Can't Rely on U. S. Spending.

Mr. Grace expressed the belief that no permanent foundation for "real recovery" could be established until industry could develop its own earning and buying power without the support of government expenditures. He also thought the securities act of 1933 had raised a "formidable barrier" against restoration of private spending.

"Our export business," he added, "has been gradually picking up in the last year. We did about 25 per cent more export business in 1933 than in 1932. Rail business has been very disappointing. Some orders have developed, but the total is not up to the tonnage expected"

There was a reduction in the corporation's employment during the fourth quarter, Mr. Grace said, partly due to the failure of rail business to materialize, but he had no figures on the amount of the decrease.

ARMOUR BOARD FIGHT WILL BE DECIDED TODAY

The conflicting stockholders' groups in Armour & Co. rested on their oars yesterday as they prepared for the annual meeting which convenes this morning at 10 o'clock in the company's plant gymnasium in the Union Stock Yards.

Indications were that the regular slate of directors agreed upon at a recent conference between company officials and F. H. Prince would be elected. The only articulate opposition has come from Chase Ulman of St. Louis who has sought shareholder support to block Prince's election as a director and finance committee chairman. Confidence was expressed yesterday in company quarters that Ulman would fail to accomplish his purpose.

The new board will include many new names. Several of the directors now listed will be dropped, including several of the banking names which have figured prominently in the company's affairs for the last decade.

WALLACE DROPS WARLIKE FRONT IN PACKER CASE

Peace Meeting Over Hog Bids Monday.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 25.—Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace today recanted his declaration of war on the packers and agreed to their request for a peace meeting next Monday.

SEC. HENRY A. WALLACE. [Assoc. Press Photo.]

The secretary's action represented something of a somersault from the stern position he took last night in suspending all negotiations looking to a federal marketing agreement for the packing industry. In a letter to W. W. Woods, president of the Institute of American Meat Packers, Wallace charged that bids submitted by the packers on a recent allotment of emergency relief hogs indicated a disposition on the part of the industry not to coöperate with government relief efforts.

In reply, Wallace today received a telegram from Woods denying that the packing industry has failed to coöperate with the AAA or the federal relief administration and asking for an opportunity to clear up "any misunderstanding" regarding the equity of the packers' bids on the processing of relief pork.

U. S. May Enter Industry.

The secretary admitted today that as an alternative to friendly relations with the packing industry the government may enter the meat packing business itself by leasing or purchasing several packing plants. This plan, he said, has been under consideration for some time.

Asked if any specific plants were being considered, Wallace replied:

"O, yes, Harry Hopkins has had his eye on several plants for a long time."

The secretary obviously was reluctant to discuss his breach with the packers and was even more evasive when it came to a question of possible alternatives to a marketing agreement with the industry. He would not admit that the packers must of necessity play a most important part in any program for relieving the hog farmer, nor would he go into detail regarding the reasons behind the AAA's insistence that the bids submitted for processing relief pork have been out of line.

The secretary felt, he said, that while the delicate negotiations with the packers are still pending, it would be indiscreet to publish the bases of the disagreement.

AAA Gathers Data.

Gradually, he explained, the AAA is gathering information about the business operations of the packers and will be prepared before long to take a more determined stand against them if the present difficulties cannot be ironed out. At present, Wallace said, the AAA is not completely informed as to the intricacies of the packers' business.

Trouble between the AAA and the packers has been fomenting for months. The provisions proposed to be written into the packing industry's marketing agreement was one of the

New York, Jan. 25.—The listed bond market showed considerable irregularity today, closing generally steady. The trading pace was much slower than for several days, amounting to about $16,500,000.

Domestic corporation bonds, except utilities, were inclined to be easier, and leading foreign loans closed lower on the day. United States government bonds, however, pointed generally higher, closing up 4-32 point to down the same fraction, although only affected sympathetically with the formal announcement of the success of the new treasury short term financing.

Federal Issues Dull.

There were only about $700,000 of listed government transfers. Trading in the new treasury loans over the counter on a "when issued" basis found both the 1½s and 2½s bringing a small premium. Advance bids ranged from 2-32 to 10-32 above par.

In the corporation divisions there were a number of scattered advances. The semi-speculative carrier lens, however, were inclined to sag under profit taking. The more active transportation gainers of 1 to 2 or more points included some issues of Bangor and Aroostook, Central Pacific, Cuba Railroad, Hudson and Manhattan and Reading.

German Bonds Weaken.

Many of the German issues dropped fractionally to more than 4 points on the news that Dr. Schacht, president of the Reichsbank, was endeavoring to avoid the foreign debt conference now in progress in Berlin. Dutch East Indies loans were down ¼ to 3½ points.

French government and municipal loans sold off fractionally to 2¾ points. Bonds of the Australian group were generally lower.

Latin-American issues, however, were higher.

Loans of Argentina, Cuba, Brazil, and Peru advanced 1 to 2 or more points, apparently reflecting further satisfaction with Washington's recognition of the new Cuban government.

Budd Wheel.

Investors' Guide: Would you please be kind enough to give me a report on Budd Wheel company?. Would you consider this a speculative stock?—H. R.

Answer: Budd Wheel company is a prominent manufacturer of automobile wheels used both for trucks and passenger vehicles. In May, 1931, it entered the brake drum business.

After a creditable record of operations since 1924 the company felt the slump in automobile business in the final quarter of 1931. Operations during that three month period resulted in a loss. The company was unable to operate profitably until the second quarter of 1933, when the automobile business again experienced signs of renewed public interest. Profits of $16,000 and $24,000 in the second and third quarters of 1933 cut the first quarter's loss of $303,000 to loss of $263,000 for the first nine months, against loss of $1,010,000 for the nine months of 1932.

Full 1932 loss was $1,399,000. This compared with net income of $183,000, or 10 cents per common share, for 1931, and net of $1,457,000, or $1.37 per common share, for 1930. Net income for 1929 was $1,791,000, against $227,000 for 1928.

Current assets at the close of 1932, including cash of only $105,000, totaled $1,499,000, and current liabilities were $705,000. There were no bank loans, but working capital, reflecting the large 1932 loss, dropped to $794,000 from $1,785,000 the year before.

Capitalization consists of 7,997 shares of $100 par cumulative participating preferred and 965,258 shares of no par common. Sinking fund requirements on the preferred call for retirement of 4 per cent of the outstanding stock a year, or allocation of 10 per cent of profits after preferred dividends for the retirement of the stock, whichever is greater.

Nothing has been paid on the preferred since June 30, 1932, and nothing on the common since Sept. 30, 1931. Both the preferred and common are speculative.

Galveston-Houston Interurban Land.

Investors' Guide: Please mail to me all information available concerning Galveston-Houston Interurban Land company, Houston, Tex. In 1911 this company was capitalized for $350,000 and incorporated under the laws of Texas.—S. E. H.

Answer: The Texas charter of this company was forfeited on July 2, 1915, for nonpayment of taxes. The company is dead. We find nothing to indicate that any value attaches to its stock.

INDUSTRIAL GAIN IS COUNTER TO SEASONAL TREND

December Index 75% of 1923-'25 Average.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 25.—December brought the first nonseasonal pick-up in industry in four months, the federal reserve board announced today, disclosing that its adjusted index advanced to 75 per cent of the 1923-'25 average in that month. At the same time the board reported that there is 900 million dollars of idle credit lying in banks, ready at hand to finance a sustained business advance.

Not all of the economic developments during December were bright, however, the board said, pointing to a decrease in employment, which was larger than usual and due to declining activity in textile mills.

Gain 13% Over Last Year.

Aided by the industrial gains in December, the total industrial output during the last three months of 1933 was 13 per cent larger than that for the last three months in 1932, the board said.

"Activity in the steel industry," the board said in its review of December trends, "contrary to seasonal tendency, increased considerably in December.

"Value of construction contracts awarded, as reported by the F. W. Dodge corporation, increased further in December and the first half of January. There was a large increase in contracts awarded for public works, and private construction also increased.

"Dollar value of sales by department stores showed an increase slightly larger than is usual for December."

INCREASE IN CHICAGO AREA.

December automobile production in the Seventh federal reserve district, which includes the Detroit area, expanded only moderately over November and showed a recession from the rate a year ago. In the furniture industry the opposite trend was evidenced, with orders booked running 6 per cent behind November, but materially ahead of the comparable period of 1932.

These facts were indicated yesterday in the monthly report of the Federal Reserve bank of Chicago.

Contraction in motor production was attributed to the delays occurring in the production of new models. This resulted in reversing the trend of 1931 and 1932, when December output ran ahead of November.

GOODYEAR-SEARS TIRE PROBE TO BE SPREAD OVER U. S.

Akron, O., Jan. 25.—(AP)—The federal trade commission's hearing on the Goodyear Tire and Rubber company-Sears, Roebuck & Co. contract will be carried to all sections of the country in an effort to determine the contract's effect on independent dealer business, it was announced here today by Federal Counsel E. F. Haycraft.

Monday the hearing scene will be Chicago. Later the hearings will swing into the far south, to the east coast, and to the west coast as the government inquiry is carried directly to the dealers' home grounds.

Commission attorneys failed in efforts to have R. S. Wilson, Goodyear vice president, outline a history of tire price slashes since 1926. Wilson declared he would not "take the responsibility of saying who is responsible for price wars."

CONTINENTAL ASSURANCE CO. ASSETS HIGHER

Assets of the Continental Assurance company were increased by $843,651 in 1933, according to the report of President H. A. Behrens made to the stockholders at the annual meeting yesterday. Mr. Behrens said that the company increased its insurance in force at the close of the year, although new business written was less than in the preceding year.

The assets, which total $18,683,327, include: Cash, $1,116,381; United States obligations, $1,376,835; other public bonds, $1,387,198; railroad, public utility, and miscellaneous bonds, $2,888,418; preferred and guaranteed stocks, $1,179,165; mortgage loans, $4,567,972; policy loans, $3,233,053, and real estate, $1,678,381.

Insurance in force at the end of the year was $164,688,314. This was an increase of $2,904,507, and represented the largest amount in force in the company's history.

AUDITOR REPORTS 21 MILLION PAID BY CLOSED BANKS

Barrett Makes Public His Quarterly Statement.

State Auditor Edward J. Barrett yesterday made public his report on the condition of 148 closed state banks in Cook county for the last quarter of 1933. The figures show that payments of $21,480,450 had been made to creditors up to Dec. 31, 1933, of which $1,342,000 was paid out in the preceding three months. The total amount collected and disbursed by the receivers of the closed banks is $95,455,060, according to the report.

The report shows that the majority of the banks are now under the supervision of William L. O'Connell, general receiver. He has superseded receivers appointed under a former administration.

Criticize Receivership Costs.

Dissatisfaction was expressed in some quarters over the expense of the receiverships as shown in the report. Critics pointed to the fact that the report set forth expenses exceeding income by $520,470 for the final quarter of 1933.

In reply to this criticism Auditor Barrett said that expenses exceeded income for the quarter because during that period an effort was made to pay off all outstanding obligations, and very few assets were converted to cash during the period.

The report said for the whole time of all the receiverships up to Dec. 31 there was a total loss of $13,516,000 through converting assets to cash. Mr. Barrett explained that this represented the selling price as compared with the book value of securities or real estate, the banks having to take a loss in the course of liquidation.

$404,000 Paid to Attorneys.

Another item in the report that came in for considerable criticism was $404,000 paid out during the last quarter of 1933 for attorneys fees, an amount approximately $40,000 in excess of the income of the banks.

"This item is explained by the payment of bills left over by the previous administration and going back to 1931 in some cases," Auditor Barrett said. "Payment was held up for some time in an effort to arrange reductions in these bills."

The auditor said the report shows that the cost of the receiverships was reduced by $623,000 in the last six months of 1933 as compared with the same period in 1932.

Receipts and Disbursements.

COTTONSEED OIL.

NEW YORK, Jan. 26.—(AP)—Bleachable cottonseed oil was quiet today. The July position eased under scattered local and commission house selling, closing at 3 points net decline. Sales were 5 lots. Easiness of grains, lard, and hogs were unfavorable factors. Bleachable spot, nominally: January closed at 4.60c; March, 4.75c; May, 4.90c; July, 5.12c.

GRAINS DECLINE ON LIQUIDATION BY TIRED LONGS

Little Support Found for Moderate Selling.

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

Grain markets yesterday managed to break out of the narrow range in which they have held for nearly two weeks. Scattered liquidation by tired longs disclosed a lack of aggressive support and wheat fell about 1½ cents and corn 1 cent from Wednesday's close, with May wheat touching 88¾ cents, a new low since Jan. 13. At the close wheat showed net losses of 1⅝ to 1¾ cents; corn, ¾ to ⅞ cents; oats, 1 to 1⅛ cents, and barley, 1¾ cents.

Aggregate trade was not large and the selling was largely in small lots. Trade news attracted little attention.

Winnipeg wheat lost ⅝ cent for the day in Canadian funds and Liverpool was off ½ to ⅝ cent.

Operators Discouraged.

At the low point yesterday May wheat in Chicago was only 1 cent above the closing level on Jan. 13, or the last trading day before President Roosevelt announced he would send his monetary message to congress. Many operators were said to have become discouraged over the action of the market in the last few days due to failure of outside buying to develop. Wheat advanced about 1 cent in two weeks, the stock market gaining 8 points on one industrial average.

Lack of a broad speculative interest is generally regarded as responsible for the failure of the grain markets, especially wheat, to respond to what has been construed as bullish news.

T. Y. Wickham, vice president of the Chicago Board of Trade, addressing the Indiana Grain Dealers' association yesterday, attributed this lack of interest to a considerable extent to what is regarded as an excessive tax on speculative operations. He said that while the tax itself was small as far as government revenue was concerned it had cost farmers millions of dollars and its removal was essential in developing abroad liquid market in grains.

Amber Wheat Scarce.

A scarcity of choice amber wheat has developed in the northwest and prices at Minneapolis and Duluth were well above $1 yesterday, with the basis at Minneapolis the highest of the season

Operations in the corn market were restricted early, but trade enlarged later when stop loss orders uncovered. May, which had sold at 53c on Tuesday, dropped to 51¾ cents, with fair support coming from resting orders on the way down. There was no pressure of cash grain.

BUTTER, EGGS AND POTATO FUTURES QUIET AND FIRM

Butter, egg and potato futures were quiet but firm on the Chicago Mercantile exchange yesterday. Butter gained ¾¢, eggs closed unchanged to ¼c higher, and potatoes advanced 8c.

January fresh graded first eggs were bid up 1c with no sellers. Other deliveries were relatively quiet. The movement of storage stocks was only 6,000 cases out. Receipts continue light.

Butter production was reported 14 per cent off from last year. Withdrawals from storage maintained a moderately heavy rate and receipts were fair. The market moved higher on light buying.

SILVER FUTURES

Silver futures declined sharply yesterday in New York and while the inside figures were not maintained the close was at net losses of 40 to 50c. Sales aggregated 6,075,000 ounces. Foreign bar silver was ⅝c lower at 43⅝c. January closed at 43.66c; February, 43.73c; March, 43.80@43.83c; May, 44.35@44.38c; July, 44.75c; September, 45.30c, and December at 46.13c.

COTTON PRICES ADVANCED A LITTLE IN LIGHT TRADE

Cotton was under pressure a good part of the day and prices held within narrow limits yesterday. There was liquidation by various interests and a fair amount of trade buying. Selling was scattered, largely for southern and all street accounts.

At the close futures in Chicago were 1 to 3 points net higher and other markets were 2 points lower to 4 points higher. Spots were unchanged at 11.45 cents in New York, Houston, New Orleans, and Galveston were unchanged at 11.10 cents. Liverpool closed 5 points net lower. Prices:

SUGAR.

NEW YORK, Jan. 25.—(AP)—SUGAR—Raw was quiet today and prices were about unchanged with holders asking 3.25c. The only sale confirmed was 37,000 bags of Philippines for early March arrival at the 3.25c level to an output refiner.

Early advances in futures on covering and buying by leading Cuban interests were lost in later trading with the market closing 1 point lower to 1 point net higher. Sales were 21,850 tons. Increased liquidation and selling on advances caused prices to react to about the previous close with the exception of March, which sold 1 point under. Prices:
